GERMAN PEOPLE DID NOT WANT WAR: THYSSEN

Tells of Dislike for Hitler's Rule.

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOCARNO, Switzerland, Nov. 30.—Fritz Thyssen, one of Germany's leading industrialists, abandoned his $80,000,000 fortune and fled from his country early in September after sending a telegram to Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in which he set forth in strong language his opposition to Adolf Hitler's policies.

Fritz Thyssen.

The Ruhr steel magnate told me this story tonight during a chat in the Hotel Esplanade. In consigning himself to oblivion, so far as Nazi Germany is concerned, Thyssen said he acted not as a man of wealth but as a member of the reichstag from Duesseldorf who wanted to keep Germany out of war.

"It Was My Duty," He Says.

"It was my right and my duty," he said.

Thyssen's mounting opposition to the Nazi régime came to a head on the night of Aug. 31 when he received a notice that the reichstag was to meet the following day to hear Hitler outline his plans for the disposition of Poland.

"I was in Bad-Gastein in Austria for my health," Thyssen explained. "Berlin is about 16 hours away by train and it was impossible for me to get there in time for the session. I sat down and wrote a telegram to Goering, the president of the reichstag, telling him plainly that I was opposed to Germany going to war and that I did not like the present policy of the government. I sent it urgent rate."

The soft spoken gray haired industrialist who joined the Nazi party in 1932, one year before Hitler became chancellor, added: "After that I considered it advisable to leave Germany."

Declines to Give Details.

He refused to tell where he crossed the border or how he made nis escape. However, he disclosed he had spent some time in Zurich and Lucerne before coming to Locarno.

Thyssen, who was one of Hitler's chief economic advisers for a number of years as state counselor, said he does not think the war will last very long. Upon being pressed for his opinion on Germany's ability to withstand the British blockade, he shook his head.

"No," he said. "Germany is my country and I am not going to say anything to hurt her. I oppose the present régime, but if Hitler is overthrown I will return. The German people did not want this war and if Hitler had played his cards right there would not have been any."

I asked him if he thought Germany could win the war. He removed his monocle and said: "I can't answer that question."

Displays No Bitterness.

Unlike many refugees from Germany, Thyssen, who is 66 years old, displayed no bitterness toward his country.

Asked if he had given up his position as head of the United Steel works with its 65,000 employés and if he had lost his fortune by fleeing he said:

After a pause he added: "But I don't expect them [the Nazis] to do what is right."

He shrugged his shoulders when I told him it has been reported that the Nazis already had seized his entire wealth.

Thyssen remarked it was impossible to get any money out of Germany, but it is obvious he is not broke. The Esplanade is an expensive hotel and at dinner tonight his wife wore two diamond rings and

Woman Freed in Waukegan Love Scandal

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

A jury of three women and nine men acquitted Mrs. Mae Lantz last night of attempting to extort $3,000 from Dr. Leslie E. Bovik. The jurors took an hour and 50 minutes to free the woman whom Dr. Bovik, a Waukegan physician, accused of threatening to expose him and ruin his reputation.

Mrs. Mae Lantz.

Mrs. Lantz insisted thruout a four day trial that she was Bovik's sweetheart for seven years and that her illicit relations with him estranged her from her husband, Harry.

"The love I bore for Dr. Bovik will never die," she told Deputy Sheriff Edward L. Dunne when she had composed herself.

Lawyer on Stand.

In the closing hours of the trial Attorney Gerald Snyder of Waukegan denied from the witness stand that he spends his time chasing women away from business men of his city, or that he ever said he did. He was a rebuttal witness for Dr. Bovik.

In his closing arguments George Field, assistant state's attorney, described Mrs. Lantz as a character assassin, who sent letters, made threats, and finally asked her husband to name Dr. Bovik as co-respondent in his divorce suit charging adultery.

"There is nothing new in the situation," countered Defense Attorney William Scott Stewart. "Bovik was married. He seduced my client and promised her she would be his next wife. His wife died. Then he broke up a home to marry another woman. Mrs. Lantz had lost everything. What would you do? The only reason she could tell this long and sordid story of her affair with Bovik is that she lived it. He is persecuting her, this pallid Casanova."

The Doctor Denies It.

Bovik, a slight, ashen man in his 40's, also did some denying yesterday. He insisted that Mrs. Lantz had been only a patient.

"Have you ever prescribed this medicine?" asked Prosecutor Field, showing Bovik the prescription identified by Mrs. Lantz as "stuff to make me love Bo more."

"I did," answered the doctor.

"As an aphrodisiac?"

"No, never. Only to relieve the symptoms she complained of, that resulted from two operations."

On the stand Snyder, Dr. Bovik's private attorney, smiled indulgently as he denied he had told Mrs. Lantz that he, himself, could love her.

Mrs. Lantz is 38 years old. She is frail and carefully groomed, with an artless, naïve manner. She wore a tan suit yesterday and on its lapel were two gold hearts, chained together. On one was inscribed "Mae," the other "Bo."

NEW LOUISIANA WELL MAY TURN OUT TO BE GREATEST OIL FIND

New Orleans, La., Nov. 30 [Special].—Oil men today said the greatest oil discovery of all time may have been made 30 miles southwest of here yesterday when the Texas corporation brought in a well in St. Charles parish near Paradise.

Drillers penetrated a layer of oil-saturated sand 200 feet thick at a depth of 12,000 feet. The well flowed 875 barrels thru a ¼ inch choke valve during 12 hours. Operators said no artificial means of increasing the flow will be needed for years. If maps drawn by geologists who surveyed the territory prove correct the field may be 28 miles long and six miles wide.

Ernest Clements, conservation commissioner, said the field, which is believed to have six or seven oil bearing sands, has a potential production capacity that "even staggers the imagination of oil men." Drilling to the 12,000 foot level costs a minimum of $200,000, however. Nearly all the land is leased by the Texas corporation and the Humble Oil and Refining company.

Thanksgiving Stirs Tempest in a Tearoom

Harry and Frank Kilbane are twins, 34 years old. They are partners in a tearoom on Genesee street in downtown Waukegan. Both are of medium height, and both have dark hair, but there the resemblance ends.

Frank weighs about 30 pounds more than Harry. He is stout, Harry's slim. And Frank is an ardent Democrat, while Harry is a stanch Republican.

Frank celebrated Thanksgiving with the other Democrats on Nov. 23. Harry followed tradition and waited. To him, yesterday was Thanksgiving. He proudly put up a sign reading:

Republican Thanksgiving Dinner 40c To Republicans Only.

When Brother Frank, the Democrat, saw the sign he acted fast. He built a booth on the sidewalk in front of the tearoom, festooned it with red, white and blue bunting, and erected a sign of his own. It proclaimed:

Hot Dogs Free to Democrats Here.

Frank wasn't content with that. He got himself a sandwich board and picketed the place. On one side the board said:

This Restaurant Unfair to Democrats.

On the other side was:

Don't Patronize Kilbane's—Today.

Frank started with five pounds [about 40] wieners to give away. In the meantime, customers continued to stream into the tearoom. Brother Harry could be seen dashing from kitchen to counter, from table to cash register, dispensing and collecting for Thanksgiving cheer.

Last night Democrat Frank still had 20 of his 40 hot dogs left. Republican Harry in the meantime had served more than 200 dinners.

"I won't touch a cent of your blasted G. O. P. profits!" shouted Frank virtuously.

"What profits?" inquired Harry. "I cut the regular 75 cent dinner to 40 cents, just to get 'em in here!"

HELSINGFORS DECLARES REDS HALTED ON 40 MILE FRONT; MAY MOVE CAPITAL

Moscow Says Army Acted Only After It Was Attacked.

MOSCOW, Dec. 1, Friday (AP).—The soviet government announced early today that its Red army legions had advanced 10 to 15 kilometers [6¼ to about 10 miles] into Finland.

The announcement, distributed by Tass, the official soviet news agency, declared that Russia had hurled her military might against the neighboring republic only after "new armed provocations" by Finnish border forces.

As a result of these reported border violations, the announcement said, Russian forces crossed the frontier at 8 a. m. yesterday [11 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago time] on the Karelian isthmus and at a number of other points.

Public Kept in the Dark.

The statement was issued after a midnight broadcast which gave the Russian public the first official news of the invasion.

The broadcast said merely that Red troops had invaded Finland.

[A broadcast from the Moscow station picked up in Copenhagen and London said Russia had given Finland until 3 a. m. today (7 p. m. Thursday, Chicago time) to capitulate or Helsingfors and other cities would be destroyed.]

Until then, despite alarming rumors in foreign circles, the general public was kept completely in the dark as to what was happening.

The official announcement said that despite unfavorable weather soviet airplanes made reconnoitering flights and dropped bombs on the aerodromes at Helsingfors and Viipuri [Viborg].

Assert Finns Attacked.

Reciting the alleged actions of Finnish troops before the invasion, it said that at 2 a. m. yesterday [5 p. m. Wednesday Chicago time], "at the village of Kovoina, on the northern bank of Lake Ladoga, a group of Finnish soldiers, having crossed the border of the U. S. S. R. from the direction of the village of Massila, attacked a Red army advance post.

"The Finns were driven back with losses to Finnish territory by soviet troops.

"The same night, at 3:15 a. m., machine gun fire opened up on the Karelian isthmus from the direction of the village of Reasuly [Raasuli], after which a large group of Finnish infantry attacked the village of Korkiamaki [Korpikyla]. The Finns were driven back into their territory by a counterattack of soviet troops, with 10 soldiers and one noncommissioned officer taken prisoner.

Report Prisoners Taken.

"At 4 a. m., about, a company of Finnish infantry, attempting to attack a soviet advance post at the village of Termolovo [Terijoki], on the Karelian isthmus, was repulsed by machine gun and rifle fire."

It was after these events, Tass said, that the supreme command of the Red army ordered the invasion.

"In the direction of Petrozavodsk the Red army units reached Lako Suojaervi," the Tass announcement continued. "On the Karelian isthmus Red army troops occupied the village of Metsapirtti, the station of Kuokkala, and approached the town of Terijoki."

IT SEEMS THERE WAS A TRAVELING SALESMAN, AND—

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 30 [Special].—A traveling salesman's dinner conversation, overheard by a jury, today nearly disrupted the trial of David L. Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, who is charged with blackmail and conspiracy.

The salesman's comment to a companion in the hotel room where the jury dined was reported to Judge Howard W. Hughes as "Lawrence is guilty and ought to be hanged."

One of the three women jurors who overheard the remark told Judge Hughes she might be influenced by it. She was discharged and replaced by an alternate. Lawrence's attorneys demanded the case be called a mistrial, but their motion was denied.

THE WAR IN BRIEF

The soviet government, after a day of fighting, announced that the Red army had advanced from 6 to 10 miles into Finland. The Finnish high command announced that the bolsheviks had been driven back on the principal gateway to Finland—the 40 mile wide Karelian isthmus. Soviet planes bombed seven cities and towns. Several coastal towns were shelled.

The Finnish government resigned, altho a vote of confidence was given it by parliament. Some quarters interpreted the resignation as a move for an armistice. Moscow previously had indicated it would negotiate with a new government. The Finnish capital may be moved to Vaasa, a port on the Gulf of Bothnia.

Finland's Scandinavian neighbors, Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, as well as Belgium, The Netherlands, and Luxemburg, indicated they would remain neutral. Anti-soviet demonstrations occurred in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, and the Netherlands.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain denounced the soviet invasion, but Britain said it would make no move to help Finland. Sympathizing with Russia, Germany proclaimed a hands-off policy. Italy, Germany's axis partner, and Nationalist Spain, Germany's former ally in the war against communism, indicated sympathy with Finland. The French press denounced the soviet invasion.

Finland Claims Capture of 4 Russian Tanks

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 30.—Finns tonight were celebrating a victory over the soviet army in one section of Finland which the Reds invaded. At all points on the Karelian isthmus where soviet troops crossed today they were beaten back into Russian territory by the Finns. The front on the isthmus is 40 miles wide.

The Finnish general staff reported that not a single Finnish soldier had crossed into soviet territory on the isthmus, altho the commander, it was said, had difficulty in restraining the Finnish troops from chasing the Russians back into Leningrad as they did in 1918. According to reports which have been received here, four soviet tanks were captured and others were destroyed.

Seven Towns Raided from Air; Fleet Shells Coast.

BULLETIN.

KIRKENES, Norway, Dec. 1, Friday (AP).—The whole town of Liinahamari, in Finland's corridor to the Arctic and near the far northern Norwegian-Finnish border, was in flames today after the second successive day of Russian air raids.

BULLETIN.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1, Friday (AP).—A telephone conversation between Washington and Helsingfors, capital of Finland, shortly after 3 a. m. Chicago time today was reported interrupted by air raid warnings and the noise of bursting bombs. No further details were obtainable.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Dec. 1 Friday (AP).—The Finnish government, its capital bombed and partly aflame, and with the soviet Russian army swarming across its frontier, resigned early today despite a unanimous vote of confidence by parliament.

The cabinet of Premier Aimo Cajander, which for weeks had negotiated vainly with Moscow on Russia's territorial demands on the little republic, stepped aside after a Moscow broadcast had threatened annihilation of Helsingfors and other cities by air bombing unless an agreement was reached by 3 a. m. today [7 p. m., Thursday, Chicago time].

The reason for the resignation, an official spokesman said, was a desire to bring into the government representatives of all parties.

Expect New Cabinet Today.

Altho no announcement was made regarding a new government, it was believed a new cabinet would be formed before tonight. Mentioned as probable new premier was Vaino Tanner, finance minister in the old cabinet, who took part in the unsuccessful conference in Moscow.

[The cabinet resignation was seen in some circles as a move for an armistice. Reports were received in Copenhagen that Tanner probably would attempt to restore diplomatic relations with Moscow and would seek cessation of hostilities. The opinion prevailed in some diplomatic quarters that Russia might deal with a new Finnish government. It was recalled that soviet Premier Molotov assailed the resigned government's "attitude of irreconcilable hostility" in announcing on Wednesday the severance of relations with Finland. Advices received in Copenhagen said the Finns had tentatively decided to move their seat of government to Vaasa, a western Finnish port on the Gulf of Bothnia.]

Americans Transmit Word.

Word of the government's resignation, which came less than 24 hours after the first Red troops crossed the border, was forwarded to Moscow by a representative of the American legation. It was expected the American embassy in Moscow would communicate it to the Kremlin.

After the Russians attacked yesterday, President Kyosti Kallio issued a decree "for defense and for maintenance of law and order in the Finnish republic, which is hereby declared to be in a state of war."

Foreign Minister Eljas Errko was scheduled last night to speak to America, but was refused a radio relay thru Germany. Finally he spoke on a relay thru Stockholm and Geneva. He denied Finland provoked the war as Moscow charged and asserted Finland wants only peace.

Before the cabinet resigned, Russia's troops were marching into Finland at points along the 800 mile frontier from the Isthmus of Karelia, near Leningrad, to Finland's narrow corridor to the Arctic ocean, 200 miles above the arctic circle.

Believe 100 to 200 Dead.

The Russian air force bombed Helsingfors, setting fire to buildings in the southwestern section of the capital. Newspapers estimated the dead at between 100 and 200 persons. Seven cities and towns are known to have been bombed from the air.

The Red fleet operating in the Gulf of Finland began shelling Viipuri [Viborg] and other coastal cities.

[A Stockholm dispatch said soviet troops landed on Hango (Hanko) Island, off the southern Finnish coast at the mouth of the Gulf of Finland, after an air bombardment. One of Russia's demands was the right to establish a naval base on Hango.]

Viipuri, a city of 75,000 population, was, like Helsingfors, set afire by repeated bombing attacks from the air.

The Russian air fleet made its first appearance over Helsingfors at 9:20 a. m. yesterday [1:20 a. m. Chicago time] and returned several times during the day. The attacks began on Malm airport on the outskirts, but spread to the city proper.

By nightfall the sky over southwestern Helsingfors was red with the glow of burning buildings. Several apartment houses and the Helsingfors Institute of Technology were blasted apart by the bombs.

The bombing during yesterday appeared to have been aimed at the central railway station and the postoffice but the bombs missed both those marks. Last night a third of the city was strewn with broken window glass.

The invasion, which terminated abruptly an exchange of notes between the two countries over "border incidents" Moscow had reported, spurred the little republic to action.

Anti-Aircraft Guns Boom.

Anti-aircraft batteries fought back at the invading planes and ten of them were reported to have been shot down by nightfall, two of them in Helsingfors.

As air raid sirens sounded here air defense guards quickly and calmly took their stations atop high buildings and scanned the skies. In the streets they helped civilians find shelters.

The government urged residents to leave the city, but evacuation still was not compulsory.

Refugees Go to Stockholm.

A Finnish general staff communique read over the Helsingfors station said bombs fell near the German school in the capital during the afternoon. The communique said the school director, Dr. Philip Kraemar, was injured severely and the school damaged.

Meanwhile busses were running on full schedule and one train was scheduled to leave westward loaded with people hoping to reach Stockholm safely.

All gas mains in Helsingfors were shut off as a precaution against fire.

While Russian bombing planes attacked Helsingfors, Viipuri and the industrial city of Ensoe, where a hospital was struck, infantry forces pushed into Finland behind barrages of heavy artillery fire.

On the Isthmus of Karelia, where the frontier is about 15 miles northwest of a Leningrad suburb, Russian troops attacked along the entire 40 mile width of the isthmus from the Gulf of Finland to Lake Ladoga.

[Other dispatches said the Finnish defense ministry claimed that the soviet troops were beaten back at all points on the Karelian isthmus where they had crossed the frontier.]

Cut Off Finnish Towns.

About 600 miles still farther north, at the extreme tip of Finland on her narrow corridor to the Arctic ocean west of Murmansk, Russia, the soviet troops cut off the so-called Fishermen's peninsula near the Finnish harbor of Petsamo.

Russia's attack came less than a day after Russia broke off diplomatic relations with Finland, less than two days after she had unilaterally denounced the Finnish-Russian nonaggression pact of 1932, less than two months after she had first made territorial demands upon her little neighbor.

Finland had refused to yield to Russia. Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania had yielded to Russian demands.

Attack Above Arctic Circle.

They machine gunned motor cars and buses on the main highway of Finland's 20 mile wide corridor to the Arctic ocean, which lies between Norway and Russia.

Petsamo and Liinahamari, leading towns of the corridor, were partially razed. They lie 200 miles above the arctic circle and about 65 miles west of the soviet port of Murmansk.

Parkina, the third town bombed, is on the mouth of the Varanger fjord and is adjacent to the Norwegian border.

The Russian attack reached the Norwegian border also in the bomb and machine gun onslaughts on the main Finnish road running north to Petsamo. This road runs along the frontier at several points.

The machine gun attacks were made on an omnibus carrying mail between Petsamo and Enare [Inari], on another bus near Nautsi, almost on the Norwegian border, on three automobiles with passengers near Petsamo, and on several taxicabs farther south on the highway.

Hide in Woods to Escape.

The Red navy blockaded the Petsamo fjord. A small steamer tried to sail from Petsamo to Kirkenes, about 50 miles to the west, but was halted by Red submarines just outside the fjord and was compelled to return.

The passengers of the bus attacked between Petsamo and Enare were known to have escaped injury by taking refuge in a nearby woods. No casualties were reported immediately in the other machine gun attacks, some of which could be seen by Norwegian frontier guards and most of which took place near the river, which, ironically, is named the Pasvik, meaning pacific or peaceful.

After these attacks two groups of Finnish planes, with three craft in each formation chased the Russian planes southward.

Among the refugees who reached Norwegian territory were a number of Canadians who had been working in a nickel plant at Salmijaervi.

Bombs Peril U. S. Legation.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—The state department received a report tonight that 15 Russian airplanes had raided Helsingfors in the immediate vicinity of the American legation about 3 p. m. today [7 a. m., Chicago time].

A report from H. F. Arthur Schoenfeld, American minister to Finland, said that some buildings were burning within three blocks of the legation.

Schoenfeld cabled that he had opened an emergency office at the Bad Grankulla hotel, not far from Helsingfors. Personnel of the American legation is being evacuated to various places in the vicinity of the hotel, Schoenfeld reported. Other foreign powers also moved their representations to Grankulla.

Strength of New Antagonists

TOREADORS RENEW DEMAND FOR HIGHER PAY, TOUGHER BULLS

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Nov. 30 (AP).—Striking bull fighters today reiterated demands for more money, more fights and tougher bulls. Lorenza Garza, the toreador with the largest following in Mexico, is demanding about $5,000 an appearance for himself and his two picadores and two banderilleros. He has been receiving about $4,400. Armillita is demanding $3,600 a performace. He now receives $3,200 for killing from two to six bulls. Both bull fighters have asked for more frequent fights, tougher bulls and better billings.

JAPANESE BOMB CHINA'S SUPPLY LINK WITH REDS

HONGKONG, Dec. 1, Friday (AP).—Centers along China's 300 mile supply route from Russia last night were subjected to severe Japanese air attacks. The bombings occurred along the route from Sian, capital of Shensi province, to Lanchow, capital of Kansu province.

Last night Lanchow residents spent 11 hours in dugouts as five successive flights of Japanese bombers swept over the moonlit capital, unloading 200 bombs, which caused extensive damage. Simultaneously Japanese planes bombed the Chinese air base at Sian and other Chinese centers to the northwest.

Yesterday Gen. Huang Ta-wei, cooperating with the Japanese forces invading South China, was reported to have led his "national construction army" from Swatow to the borders of Fukien province, 50 miles northwest.

FINLAND STANDS ALONE IN FIGHT AGAINST SOVIET

3 Other Nordic Countries Remain Neutral.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, Nov. 30 (AP).—Sweden, Norway, and Denmark officially maintained an attitude of neutrality tonight as they watched with foreboding Russia's war against Finland.

All three countries were profoundly shocked by the invasion of Finland, but diplomats said the Stockholm meeting of the Scandinavian sovereigns and Finnish president on Oct. 19 agreed on moral and economic collaboration but not military aid.

A Belgian government spokesman in Brussels said the Oslo unit of seven north European nations could take no action, because the group was formed for economic purposes only. The Oslo group includes Finland, Belgium, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, and Luxemburg.

Public Feeling Plain.

Feelings of the general public were plain. Men and women crowded about Swedish newspaper offices expressing grief and indignation at the Russian invasion. Women cried when they read that Helsingfors had been bombed.

Typical of the outbursts of feeling was that of an unidentified Swede who jumped up during a luncheon and shouted:

"It's horrible. All Europe will be drawn in before this is over."

Antisoviet Russian feeling ran high in Oslo, Norway's capital, when an angry crowd smashed all the windows of the communist newspaper Abeideren, which had supported editorially Russian moves against Finland.

Oslo students marched to the Finnish legation to express their sympathy. Government officials conferred in Stockholm, Oslo, and Copenhagen.

Denmark was stirred even more than at the beginning of the European war. Crowds gathered in streets, scanning news bulletins and angrily commenting on the invasion.

Sweden Is Prepared.

In Amsterdam, the Netherlands, one man was arrested after a rock was thrown thru a Russian book shop window. The rock was wrapped in a printed declaration quoting Nicolai Lenin as having promised Finland's independence in 1918. The soviet government never has been recognized by the Netherlands.

A foreign office spokesman in Sweden said his country was in a state of preparedness and no new measures were needed.

Many Danes felt the invasion was a personal blow because Finland was a neighbor and new dangers seemed looming for the Baltic neutrals.

[Unconfirmed rumors circulated in Oslo that Russia had demanded three naval bases on Norway's Arctic coast. The Norwegian coast on the Arctic ocean is separated from Russia only by Finland's narrow corridor to northern waters.]

Adding to Norway's fears was the extension of Russian aerial warfare along Finland's short Arctic coast to the Norwegian border.

Funds for Refugees.

Reports from Kirkenes in far northern Norway said Russian airplanes had attacked the main Finnish road which runs to Petsamo and at several points touches the Jakobselven river, which forms the Finnish-Norwegian boundary in that area.

Fund collections started in many areas for Finland's war refugees. Unless their governments prevent it, many Danes, Norwegians, and Swedes are expected to go to Finland as volunteers.

EXPORT TRADE HELD FINLAND'S WAR WEAKNESS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 [Special].—The economic impact of "a cataclysmlike war" on Finland would inevitably have an immediate adverse effect because the weak point in the nation's economy is its dependence on export trade, according to a department of commerce report made public today.

The report was prepared recently by Archibald E. Gray, secretary of the United States legation at Helsingfors. It was enthusiastic about the progress of Finnish prosperity in the 20 years the country has been independent. It described how, when its former Russian outlets were cut off after independence, Finland turned to a complete reorganization of its commercial life. Great Britain today occupies substantially the place as a consumer of Finnish goods which was formerly occupied by Russia.

By husbanding favorable foreign trade balances, the report said, the Finnish government has been able to render itself independent of foreign capital. It has repaid most of the foreign loans contracted during the early days of independence by refinancing them at lower rates of interest by means of domestic issues.

A MYSTERY GIRL APPEARS IN GRID STAR'S SHOOTING

Fort Collins, Colo., Nov. 30 (AP).—An attractive Colorado State college co-ed sought unsuccessfully today to see Walter [Bud] Lyons, football star who was shot and seriously wounded yesterday by another woman student. Identified only as a freshman student from Fort Collins, the visitor left the hospital after inquiring about the youth's condition.

Lyons, 195 pound Colorado State full back, was reported by physicians to be somewhat improved. In another part of the hospital Lois Jeanne Van Norsdel, who admitted shooting Lyons, was held in technical custody. She was being treated for hysteria.

District Attorney W. M. Ault blamed the shooting on the cooling of a campus romance between Lyons, who is 21 years old, and Miss Van Norsdel, 19 year old sophomore. An acquaintance said Lyons recently had become interested in another girl. Ault said he obtained a complete statement from the girl, but he declined to disclose its contents. The motive, he added, involved the old saying about a woman scorned.

FINLAND CLAIMS FOE REPULSED IN ISTHMUS ATTACK

Capture of Four Russian Tanks Reported.

Defended by Ten Men.

Seiskari was defended by ten Finnish coast guards who had landed there to tend and herd cows abandoned in a fishing village, the residents of which had been evacuated a month ago. The fight was observed by the crews of Finnish fishing boats. They reported that three Russian destroyers methodically shelled the island before landing soldiers. The fate of the coast guards was not known.

Moishel Ioudanov, chargé d'affaires of the soviet legation in Helsingfors, together with his legation and a trade delegation, failed to leave Helsingfors on the boat for Tallinn, Estonia, at midday today. The Finnish minister to Moscow, Baron Aarno Yrjo-Koskinen, also remained at his post. The soviet legation locked its doors to visitors.

Finnish newspapers reported that soviet planes dropped a majority of their bombs on the workers' quarters of the towns they raided. This, they explain, was another attempt by Moscow to arouse antagonism against the Finnish government.

Russians Kept in Dark.

The Leningrad radio tonight failed to mention today's defeat of the Red army by the Finns, broadcasting a program in Finnish urging the Finns to overthrow their present government and to appoint men who would inaugurate a policy of friendship with the U. S. S. R.

In northern Finland, where three months of arctic night have set in, the Russians and Finns were fighting in darkness which occasionally was lessened by northern lights.

Secret Rail Connections.

The soviet government has constructed two branch lines to the Finnish frontier from the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad. Neither of these lines is revealed on soviet maps but one is known to start from Ken. One of the bolsheviks' largest concentration camps is in Ken. It also is a departure point for the dreaded "prison of death" on Solovetsky Island in the White sea.

There was much concern in Helsingfors about the fate of the famous Valamo monastery in Lake Ladoga. It is the largest and richest surviving monastery of the Russian Orthodox church. The island is defended by a garrison of coast artillery.

LIQUOR STORE LOOTED.

Liquor, cigars and cigarets valued at $700 were stolen from the liquor store at 410 East 75th street early yesterday by burglars who forced open a back door.

FORT DEARBORN GROUP DRAWS UP MEMORIAL PLANS

A five point program was adopted yesterday by the Fort Dearborn Memorial commission for presentation to the city and the Chicago Park district: It includes:

1. Adding another star to the municipal flag to represent Fort Dearborn. [The municipal flag at present has three stars, representing the Chicago fire of 1871, the World's Columbian exposition of 1893, and the Century of Progress exposition of 1933-34.]
2. Renaming the Michigan avenue bridge as the Fort Dearborn bridge.
3. Erection of a flag pole to fly a replica of the old Fort Dearborn flag with 15 stars, the site to be as near as possible to the center of the parade ground of the old fort, perhaps on the traffic island at the south end of the bridge in Michigan avenue.
4. Requesting the Chicago Historical society to name the lobby of its building the Fort Dearborn room and assemble there all possible information concerning the fort.
5. Naming unnamed streets and squares in the vicinity of the fort site after heroes of the Fort Dearborn massacre of 1812.

Three Clippers Delayed by Bad Weather at Sea

Fort Washington, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Three scheduled flights on the Pan-American Airways trans-Atlantic route to Lisbon, Portugal, by way of Bermuda and Horta, the Azores, have been delayed by bad weather in mid-Atlantic. The Dixie Clipper, which left here Monday, is in Bermuda. The Atlantic Clipper, due to leave Lisbon Tuesday, is in that port, and the east bound flight of the American Clipper, due to leave here today, was postponed.

BRITAIN ASSAILS RUSSIA; OFFERS NO AID TO FINNS

Commons Cheers Blast by Chamberlain.

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP).—Parliament resounded today with condemnations of soviet Russia's invasion of Finland, but the indications were that Britain, preoccupied with her own war against Germany, could do nothing to help the little Baltic republic.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told a sympathetic house of commons that the government regarded as unjustified "this fresh attack on a small, independent nation which must result in fresh suffering and loss."

Authoritative sources said, however, that Britain had no obligation to help Finland, and that even if she wanted to she would be unable to do so because of Finland's position in the Baltic.

Parliament Cheers.

Britain, Chamberlain asserted, "found it difficult to believe that strategical measures of such scope and importance as were suggested should have been considered necessary to protect the soviet union against a country as small as Finland."

Members of parliament cheered this and other statements indicating strong sympathy with Finland. Chamberlain said the government welcomed warmly America's willingness to lend her good offices in settling the Russia-Finnish dispute, since in the British government's opinion "the questions at issue between Finland and the soviet union are not of a nature to justify a resort to warlike measures."

Asked by Attlee if the government had received any statement from Russia on the reasons "for what appears to be an indefensible act of unprovoked aggression," Chamberlain replied, "No, Sir none at all."

Praises Finnish Attitude.

"The attitude of the Finnish government was from the outset unprovocative," Chamberlain said, "tho governed by their determination to do nothing which would impair their country's sovereign status."

When parliament's only communist member, William Gallacher, sought to ask Chamberlain a question he was greeted by shouts of other members to "Sit down! Sit down!"

Gallacher began by referring to Lord Baldwin's famous statement that "our frontier is on the Rhine," and the speaker of the house intervened with the remark, "You are asking questions about another part of the world."

Gallacher was howled down.

Cites Molotov Speech.

Referring to Russian Premier Vyacheslav Molotov's broadcast last night, in which he was "officially reported as having denied the suggestion [which he attributed to the foreign press] that a soviet attack on Finland was imminent," Chamberlain said:

"Yet only a few hours after this broadcast it is understood that soviet forces invaded Finnish territory on several sections of the frontier and dropped incendiary bombs on an airdrome in the neighborhood of Helsingfors."

Gallacher asked if the Finnish prime minister early in the negotiations had not stated that the soviet proposals did not interfere with the independence and integrity of Finland. Gallacher asked what forces had been in operation since to get the Finns to change their attitude.

Complete Change in Situation.

Chamberlain replied: "I can imagine that the invasion of their territory might well constitute a complete change in the situation."

As Chamberlain spoke the Finnish minister to London told the press "it is quite obvious that Russia wanted to dominate Finland" and that "the Russian invasion is the most straightforward case of aggression there ever has been."

Britain to Pay War Damage on Valuations of March, 1939

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP).—A British white paper said today the government has undertaken to pay compensation for war damages to property on the highest possible scale at the end of the war. Replacement cost as of March, 1939, will be the basis of the usual settlement for damages to immovable property.

CANADA PLANS ACTION AGAINST RED CHIEFTAINS

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 30 [Special].—The Canadian government is understood to be contemplating action against the communist party or some of its leaders. The official organs of the party in Toronto and Montreal, the Clarion and La Clarte, were recently confiscated. The federal justice department has had under examination a pamphlet issued from the communist party headquarters in Toronto calling upon Canadians to "declare an end to the imperialist war, overthrow the present government, and establish a new one which will immediately begin peace negotiations."

The pamphlet, legal experts said, contravenes almost every paragraph of Canadian regulations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 1 [Friday].—The French press censorship this morning allowed newspapers to vent their indignation over the bolshevik attack on Finland. There was no indication of the official government attitude.

No comment was made on the conversation between Champetier de Ribes, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, and American Ambassador William C. Bullitt, nor on the conference between Ribes and the Norwegian minister, H. H. Bachke. Possible light on the latter talk was provided by reports from Copenhagen, Denmark, that the Reds now were demanding three Norwegian ports.

Two Troops of Cavalry to Get Armored Cars

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 30 (AP).—Adjt. Gen. Lawrence V. Regan of the Illinois National Guard today started mechanization of two troops of the 106th cavalry stationed in Springfield after Gov. Henry Horner approved the project. Nineteen armored scout cars equipped with radio and machine guns will be assigned the units which will be known as troops A and B of the 23d reconnaissance squadron of the 23d cavalry division. The squadron is one of four such organizations in the United States.

BERLIN SILENTLY APPROVES SOVIET ATTACK ON FINNS

But Many Germans Voice Sympathy for Them.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Russia's invasion of Finland created a curious situation in Germany today. Expressions of sympathy for the Finns were made by many Germans while officials attempted to distract the public's attention from the "flash war" and indicated they were willing to let Russia go ahead.

The German press failed to report the attack on Finland, but a large section of the population knows about it. The Germans got their information by listening to foreign radio stations, tho this is forbidden on penalty of death.

Tho apparently chagrined by Russia's action, the Nazis said it was the price they had to pay for Adolf Hitler's alliance with Moscow.

Military Circles Uncomfortable.

Military circles, when asked to express their views on the invasion, appeared uncomfortable. The idea of seeing Finland sacrificed to Russia is distasteful to them. They tried to avoid the topic in conversations.

Officials on the other hand asked: "Why should we get excited about the fate of Finland at the hands of Russia when England failed to budge when Russia occupied part of Poland to whom she was tied by treaty? This should be in everybody's mind in discussing the Finnish problem."

Government spokesmen denied knowledge of Italy's denunciation of soviet aggression against Finland over state controled Italian radio stations. They added hopefully: "The official Italian view has not yet been expressed."

[Italian newspapers yesterday expressed sympathy with Finland.]

Recall Duce's Warning.

Diplomats in Berlin said Premier Mussolini repeatedly had warned Hitler—his axis partner—that he was courting danger by allying himself too closely with Russia and that the Italians favored a correction of relations. The diplomats quoted Italy as telling Germany: "If you give the little finger to Moscow it will take the whole hand."

Moscow's threats against all of Scandinavia with German acquiescence and the German statement that the "Baltic and Scandinavian countries are independent and it is up to them to decide their fate," were regarded by Italian diplomats as dangerous for the welfare of the Rome-Berlin axis and the populations of Germany and Italy.

A number of Italians who represent their country in Berlin believe the new developments will result in the cooling of relations between Italy and Germany. The Nazis, however, are convinced that if this does take place it merely will be temporary.

Predict Finland's Defeat.

German military circles have ventured this opinion of Finland's chances in the invasion:

"From a military viewpoint the Russian army is an enigma, but even if the Finns fight to the finish they do not have a ghost of a chance against an overwhelming steam roller. The Russian army is strongly motorized. The Russians probably will suffer material losses, but this will not change the final outcome of the struggle."

Meanwhile the public is being regaled with denunciations of England as the underminer of Europe's peace. Officials expressed indignation over the trip of Lord Lloyd, British propagandist, in southeastern Europe, where they said he "worked against peace."

RUSS DRIVE NETS NEARLY ALL LAND LOST AFTER WAR

Only Few Miles Separate Them from '14 Status.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Russia's invasion of Finland is one more phase in her apparent program to reëstablish domination over the 277,148 square miles of territory stripped from her after the world war.

	Square Miles.
Finland	133,000
Estonia	16,955
Latvia	24,400
Lithuania	36,500
Poland	49,150
Bessarabia [to Rumania]	17,143

Regains Much in 90 Days.

From Poland, western Ukraine and White Russia, 71,756 square miles; her acquisition of 22,606 square miles more than she lost is explained by the fact that some of the territory formerly belonged to Austria-Hungary. Germany, however, got a strip of once-Russian territory in central Poland, including Warsaw.

Mutual assistance pacts with Estonia, Lithuania, and Latvia, along with military and naval bases, making the three Baltic states her virtual protectorates.

Conquest of Finland would leave only Bessarabia, and a German-occupied strip in Poland still separated from Russia as she was in 1914.

Highlights of Red Drive.

Aug. 24.—Russia and Germany sign nonaggression pact.

Sept. 17.—Polish invasion starts.

Sept. 29.—Russia and Estonia sign mutual assistance pact.

Oct. 5.—Russia and Latvia sign mutual assistance pact.

Oct. 7.—Russians summon Finns to Moscow to hear soviet demands.

Oct. 10.—Russian-Lithuanian mutual assistance pact signed.

Nov. 13.—Finns break off negotiations.

Nov. 28.—Russia denounces 1932 Russian-Finnish nonaggression pact.

Nov. 29.—Russia severs relations with Finland.

Nov. 30.—Russia invades Finland.

Germans Seize 3 British Women in 'Reprisal' Arrests

2D GERMAN PLANE DOWNED IN NORTH SEA, SAY BRITISH

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP).—The air ministry tonight announced two British planes overtook and downed a German Dornier seaplane over the North Sea yesterday. This was in addition to the German Heinkel reported shot down yesterday off Northumberland. Two British fighters engaged a German aircraft north of Firth of Forth today, but the German escaped, the air ministry added.

Meanwhile, the war on the western front maintained its status quo. The French night command indicated a slight resumption of activity by reporting "usual activity of our patrols," after the morning communique had said there was "nothing to report."

[The German high command communique yesterday reported, "West front, minor local artillery fire. Aerial reconnoitering of England continued."]

"People Dash for Cover," Eyewitness Cries.

In the midst of a new air bombardment of Helsingfors by Russian planes, Lynn Heinzerling, the Associated Press correspondent in the Finnish capital, yesterday telephoned the following story to the outside world via Copenhagen.

BY LYNN HEINZERLING.

HELSINGFORS, Nov. 30 (AP).—Fourteen soviet planes were seen near Helsingfors early this afternoon, but no bombs were dropped at first.

The American legation has arranged for quarters at Grankulla, but has not yet decided to evacuate.

Soberly thoughtful as his office received reports from various points, Foreign Minister Eljas Erkko of Finland made the following statement:

[Here the telephone communication was interrupted by the crash of a bomb. "People outside are running for cover," said Heinzerling. "An air raid warning has not yet been sounded and they were caught unawares. Now continue Erkko."]

Tells of Peace Efforts.

"Despite the fact that we have shown to the last a willingness to try to find a peaceful solution of the difficulties which have arisen between Finland and Russia in the face of the soviet demands and despite the fact we have tried all means possible to avoid any conflict on the frontier, we have been attacked today.

"As a reason for the attack the pretext was used that we invaded Russian territory and our troops threatened Leningrad.

"We haven't done anything of the kind."

[The sirens of passing ambulances drowned the conversation here, and then there was a crash as another bomb fell near by.]

"Our troops were on border duty only for possible attack against Finland, and what happened today showed we have done right. Our frontier has been bombarded and Finnish territory occupied.

"Our capital has been twice attacked and Viborg [Viipuri], east of Helsingfors, has been attacked even more severely, and the Ensoe hospital has been destroyed."

[Here Heinzerling interjected "there's a big cloud of smoke outside." Then he continued with Erkko's statement.]

"We think this is the purest aggression imaginable. We believed in the nonaggression pact which was to have been in force without the right of unilateral denunciation until 1945, and we think it is still in force.

Cites Invasion by Planes.

"Altho the Russians denounced it, they had no right to do it . . .

"I think we have shown great self-control since from the beginning of the negotiations Russian planes have flown over Finnish territory daily.

"Some days groups of from six to nine flew over the frontier, in some cases deep into the country. We have now no other way than to try to defend ourselves with all the means at our disposal, but nevertheless if there is a chance of coming to an honest agreement, we are always ready to grasp it.

"I would like to send my good wishes to the people of the United States and thank them for the great sympathy they have shown in our difficult days, which has been a great consolation."

CHICAGO FINNS MARK INDEPENDENCE DAY TOMORROW AT RALLY

While war is writing another dramatic chapter in Finland's history, Finnish born residents of Chicago will rally tomorrow night in Lincoln auditorium, 4217 Lincoln avenue, to celebrate Finnish Independence day. The observance anticipates the anniversary date by a week. The Chicago Finnish Civic association is arranging the program, which is to be a benefit musical for the Lotta Svard, a woman's welfare organization in Finland.

Elsa Soderstam, Swedish-American soprano with the Chicago City opera company, will be the soloist, sharing the program with the Sibelius Club of Chicago, a men's chorus. Oscar A. Ahlgren of Whiting, Ind., the Rev. A. J. Stromans from the Bethel Baptist church, and Ernest L. Knuti, Finnish vice consul, will speak. Elmer A. Forsberg, Finnish consul, is honorary chairman.

RUSSIANS FIRE ON HUNGARIANS, BUDAPEST HEARS

Public Called Bitter Over Attack on Finns.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Nov. 30 (AP).—Reports from the Ruthenian frontier today said Russian soldiers had opened fire on a number of Hungarian sentries.

These was no official confirmation, but it was learned tension had been caused in the frontier region by the shipment into Ruthenia of Russian propaganda pamphlets which were reported seized by Hungarian military authorities.

[Ruthenia is now the common frontier between Hungary and the Russian occupied parts of Poland. Hungary took Ruthenia after the collapse of Czecho-Slovakia.]

Hungarians Reported Bitter.

The reports increased bitterness on the part of the public against Russia over the attack on Finland, with whom Hungarians claim racial kinship. Newspapers expressed sympathy for "our northern cousins."

Hungarian newspapers today demanded that Rumania surrender some of her gains from the world war as a means of preserving peace in southeastern Europe. [Rumania holds Transylvania, formerly a part of Hungary.]

Confer on Railroad Tracks.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 30.—A mixed Rumanian, Russian, and German commission today began negotiations in Grigore Ghica Voda at the frontier station of former Poland, now Russia, to regulate questions concerning railway traffic on lines running from Rumania thru Poland to Germany.

The most important question is that of the gauge of the railway lines. The Russian railway gauge is wider than that used in Europe and the Germans, who need as many railway connections as possible with Rumania to import its goods, are asking that the tracks remain the normal width.

The second question concerns customs.

The German minister informed the Rumanian government today that Germany could not respect the neutrality of Rumanian ships if they joined British and French convoys.

Japan Remains Silent on Red Invasion of Finland

TOKIO, Dec. 1, Friday (AP).—Japan remained officially silent today on Russia's invasion of Finland—an attitude interpreted in informed quarters as further evidence of Japan's efforts toward rapprochement with Russia. Yakichiro Suma, foreign office spokesman, said, "It is too far away."

FINLAND'S DEBT TO AMERICA 8 MILLION NOV. 15

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—Finland's debt to the United States amounted to $8,233,175.56 on Nov. 15. The nation has made payments totaling $5,656,598. Another payment of $34,693 is due Dec. 15.

The money was borrowed to finance purchases in this country, mainly of foodstuffs. The borrowing began in 1919.

Finland, the only nation which has paid its war debt to the United States on schedule, has settled $880,668 of the funded debt's principal, and has made interest payments on that debt amounting to $4,466,615. On the unfunded debt it has paid $309,315, which is all interest.

The total Finnish national debt is $67,000,000, of which 20 per cent represents foreign debts.

ROOSEVELT ASKS SOVIET TO STOP BOMBING CITIES

Dispatches Sharp Note to Moscow and Finland.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1 [Friday].—President Roosevelt shortly after midnight dictated a strongly worded message of protest against the bombing of unfortified cities and civilian populations which he directed the American minister at Helsingfors and the American ambassador at Moscow to transmit to the Finnish and the soviet governments.

The message was similar to notes sent to other European powers at the outbreak of hostilities early in September. The President requested an immediate reply from both governments.

Here's Text of Message.

The President's message was as follows:

"The American minister at Helsinki [Helsingfors] and the American ambassador at Moscow were requested to deliver the following message in the name of the President to the governments to which they are accredited:

"The ruthless bombing from the air of civilians in unfortified centers of population during the course of hostilities which have raged in various quarters of the earth during the past few years, which has resulted in the maiming and in the death of thousands of defenseless men, women, and children, has sickened the hearts of every civilized man and woman, and has profoundly shocked the conscience of humanity.

Form of Inhuman Barbarism.

"If resort is had to this form of inhuman barbarism during the period of the tragic conflagration with which the world is now confronted hundreds of thousands of innocent human beings who are not even remotely participating in hostilities will lose their lives.

"I am, therefore, addressing this appeal to the soviet government and the Finnish government as I have to governments which have been engaged in general hostilities, publicly to affirm their determination that their armed forces shall in no event, and under no circumstances, undertake the bombardment from the air of civilian populations or of unfortified cities, upon the understanding that these same rules of warfare will be scrupulously observed by all of their opponents. I request an immediate reply."

Mr. Roosevelt's messages to the soviet and Finnish governments followed conferences yesterday with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Dr. Hjalmar Procope, Finnish minister, on the President's return from his Thanksgiving holiday at Warm Springs, Ga. It was understood that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull discussed whether or not to invoke the neutrality act in the soviet-Finnish conflict.

Dr. Procope presumably argued against invocation of the neutrality act, which would shut off aid by the United States for Finland except where that country could furnish the ships for materials after taking title to them in this country.

Calls It State of Siege.

This was indicated by the Finnish minister's insistence that Finland had not declared a state of war existed, as reported from Helsingfors. Dr. Procope told Secretary Hull that the declaration actually was "a state of siege." This decreed a national emergency which placed the economy at the service of the military, he said. The distinction was regarded as possibly important because the neutrality act must be invoked if the President or congress find that a state of war exists.

The Finnish minister said he had talked via trans-Atlantic telephone with his government late this afternoon and that he had not heard then or since of any Russian ultimatum to Finland.

"From the first we have tried to maintain normal, friendly relations with Russia," Procope said. "In the present conflict we have tried to find a peaceful solution. All this talk about frontier incidents, for which Finland was alleged to be responsible, has been proved false over and over again. We shall be glad to let that be investigated in every way.

"We also thankfully accepted your government's offer of its good offices in order to reëstablish normal relations with Russia. But what is going on now is not a war. It is a ruthless attack upon a peaceful, small nation."

Leaders May Be Called.

The President, it was indicated, may summon the congressional leaders of both parties to the White House for a discussion about foreign policy in relation to the latest developments in Europe. Telegrams have been dispatched, advising the leaders to be ready for such a conference.

Senators Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, and Charles L. McNary [R., Ore.], senate minority leader, Speaker William B. Bankhead [D., Ala.], and Joseph W. Martin Jr. [R., Mass.], house minority leader, would presumably attend such a meeting. Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] is in the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.

Indignation at the invasion of Finland by Russia was widely expressed in official circles here. Senator William H. King [D., Utah] demanded the severance of diplomatic relations with the soviet union. He recalled that he had opposed the recognition of the soviet government by the Roosevelt administration.

EVENTS FOR BIBLIOPHILES!

By CALEB

TWO in number—both are distinctive occasions for the lover of fine contemporary literature. Unusual, because the authors of the two works in question will be personally present in our book section to autograph purchasers' copies. . . .

The publishing world has long known that Carl Sandburg was investing further years of research in a continuation to his famous Lincoln: The Prairie Years. At last his labors are finished, and for winter reading of rare dividends the public is sure to welcome the result, in his monumental four-volume Lincoln: The War Years, just released from the press. Equally attractive to hundreds will be the opportunity afforded them tomorrow afternoon, from 2:30 on, to meet Mr. Sandburg himself and secure his signature as a prized heirloom of ownership.

"A hundred and more libraries between East and West coasts," he writes, "have on their shelves and in their vaults perhaps ninety per cent of the materials consulted and used in this book;" and even a cursory glance at the first volume, with its profusion of documents, photographs and important quotations, indicates the incalculable effort that has gone into assuring the work's completeness. It is not too much to emphasize that Lincoln: The War Years is the year's top-rank book world announcement.

By way of intriguing contrast, we also have the appearance, on Monday afternoon, December 4th, of Dr. Lin Yutang, the engaging Chinese scholar-philosopher, whose autographs will lend special memento significance to his latest book and first novel: Moment in Peking. "Dr. Lin," as he is informally addressed, has already left his imprint on contemporary thought in My Country and My People and The Importance of Living—the latter tingeing with Oriental urbanity and insight a philosophy Occidentally influenced by his studies at Harvard, Jena and Leipzig.

Professor at the Peking National University for three years, widely traveled, and possessing a thorough mastery of English, Dr. Lin presents, in his latest book, "a panorama of contemporary China covering nearly forty years, from the Boxer Rebellion in 1900 to the bitter excitement of the present Japanese invasion"—viewed through the lives of Mulan and Mochow, daughters of an upper middle-class Peking family.

Amid the welter of annual new additions to Fall fiction, travel, biography, science, sports and other major interests of the reading public, a certain few carry "event" valuation. These appearances of Carl Sandburg and Dr. Lin Yutang are of that number; and Field's is proud to consider them such in its crowded Holiday program.

FINNISH HISTORY—A STRUGGLE TO OBTAIN FREEDOM

Nation Fought Wars with Sweden and Russia.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Finland's history has been a struggle for independence, first from Sweden, later from Russia.

Finnish history begins in the eighth century, when the Finns settled their northern "land of lakes" after migrating, it is said, from the Volga river region.

In the 12th century the Swedes began a 100 year struggle with them, after which Finland became for 500 years a dependency of Sweden. There were long wars between Sweden and Russia in which Finland, lying between them, frequently was a battleground.

Want Added Protection.

Since the Finnish frontier was only 33 miles from St. Petersburg [now Leningrad], the Russians long desired some of the Finnish territory for additional protection to the city. A Russian demand for additional protection for Leningrad was one of the factors involved in the present Finnish-Russian conflict.

By the peace of Fredikshamm of Sept. 17, 1809, which followed a Russian invasion, Russia achieved this desire with cession of Finland, then a grand duchy, by Sweden. Until 1897 Russia guaranteed Finland preservation of its laws, constitution, and religion.

In that year there began a russification of Finland and Russia took away from the Finnish diet all matters affecting the grand duchy and Russia in common.

Germans Help Finns.

At the outbreak of the world war a pro-German element gained strength in Finland. On Dec. 9, 1917, Finland proclaimed her independence from Russia. A German division of about 12,000 men helped the Finns fight the Russians. A republic was established June 17, 1919.

Finland with signing of the world war armistice began to break away from Germany and orientate herself with the allies.

A peace treaty was signed with Russia on Oct. 14, 1920.

"White City of the North."

The capital, impressive to travelers as the "White City of the North," is one of the most modern cities in Europe. It has a population of 300,000

Its new architecture—gleaming white—is considered symbolic of the sturdy complexion of the country. Sprinkled here and there are architectural reminders of the years during which Finland was a grand duchy of Russia.

Saarinen Designed Station.

The great railway station, called the most modern in Europe, was designed by Eliel Saarinen, Finland's foremost architect who took second prize in the competition for a design for the Tribune Tower in Chicago.

Helsingfors' business life is wrapped up with the sea—both shipping and fishing. It has large stretches of docks and wharves.

A city of wide squares, broad thoroughfares, and many beautiful esplanades, near the capital's center is the broad market place just off the harbor. Immediately behind the market place is Senate square, perhaps the most important spot in the city.

Abandoned

Boy baby being taken to St. Vincent's orphanage in basket after being found abandoned in hallway.

Police were searching yesterday for clews that would lead to the mother of the newborn baby boy left Wednesday in a fruit basket at 1318 North Wells street. The child was found by Gino Franceschini of that address. He notified the Hudson avenue police, who took the baby to St. Vincent's orphanage.

The child wore a white woolen shirt, sox, and a cotton robe, and was wrapped in a pink and white blanket.

Alien Registration Law Is Ruled Unconstitutional

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP).—Pennsylvania's new law requiring registration of aliens was declared unconstitutional by the federal District court today. It was to have become effective tomorrow. The act, which was passed by this year's legislature, would have required—with some exceptions—persons not citizens to register with the state department of labor and industry and at all times have with them identification cards.

SCHNACKENBERG PAID HONOR BY 400 AT DINNER

Neighbors and friends of State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [R., 13th] gave him a testimonial dinner last night in the South Side Swedish club, 7330 Ridgeland avenue, under the auspices of the 7th Ward Young Republican club.

Schnackenberg's 10 terms in the house at Springfield were recognized by speakers representing capital, labor, his friends, and a former colleague. Saul A. Epton presented Schnackenberg with a wrist watch.

Both Republicans and Democrats were among the 400 persons attending the dinner. Carl A. Channon of the Great Lakes Supply company was toastmaster. Speakers included John V. Hanberg, vice president of the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce; Bennett M. Livezey, general superintendent of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company; Gustav Michau, president of the South Chicago Trades and Labor assembly, and Isaac S. Rothschild, former state representative.

Several of the speakers mentioned a hope that the guest of honor would be the next governor of Illinois. When it came his time to speak Schnackenberg said:

"I don't know what the future holds for me or for you, but, up or down, I shall never forget your expressions here tonight."

KILLS HIMSELF; WORD RESTORING HIS JOB AWAITS

Roy M. Ekstrand, 32 years old, 4407 North Clark street, worked 14 years as a clerk for a large company. He was discharged a few days ago for having been absent without leave. Last night Ekstrand was found dead from carbon monoxide in his car at Balmoral and Virginia avenues. He left a note to his mother telling of his discharge, and stating: "The bottom has fallen out of everything." What Ekstrand did not know was that during the day Ekstrand's employer had called his home to tell him he could return to his old job—today.

ENGLISH TO LAY MINES OVER NEW 300 MILE FIELD

Secrets of New German Type Uncovered.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The British navy is going to lay a new mine field of 300 square miles, the admiralty announced tonight. Neutral countries will be informed of the location of the new mines, the admiralty said. It was further said that ships going from England to Holland or the Scandinavian countries might be compelled by the new mine field to make detours.

Arrow indicates possible location of mine field.

[The statement that ships bound for Holland or Scandinavia might be forced to detour indicated the British will lay the mines off the east central coast, possibly near the mouth of the Thames river, which has been raided numerous times in recent days by German mine laying airplanes.]

New Theory on Mines.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—The new German mines blamed for heavy recent shipping losses in the North Sea today were reported to be so devised that they might be set off by sound waves as well as by the magnetic force o a ship's hull.

Informed quarters here said they had received word that Britain had discovered the secret of the mines by recovering several unexploded specimens.

While they were described as probably the most formidable new weapon of the war British naval authorities were represented as confident that means of coping with them could be devised quickly.

The British findings were said to be:

1. The firing mechanism, extremely sensitive, was based on a trigger that would be sprung either by magnetic force or, thru acoustical horns, by sound waves.

2. The mines apparently were anchored directly on the sea bottom, rather than set adrift or attached to cables regulating their distance beneath the surface.

3. The charge was heavy enough to blast the hull of a passing surface ship from a considerable depth.

4. They apparently were sown considerable distances apart by mine-laying submarines, and then additional mines were dropped in some instances by aircraft, flying high enough not to detonate those in place.

Impervious to "Sweeping."

The information that the mines could not be removed by conventional "sweeping" by means of cables towed by surface vessels confirmed such earlier reports from London and Berlin.

This raised a new difficulty for British and French naval forces. Some experts thought energy rays, effective at considerable distances, could be used to detonate the mines.

Sues to Marry

[Acme Photo.]
LUCILLE WILDS.

But Thornton insists he won't permit her to get married to Bill Kent of Brooklyn, also a model, unless she pays off.

Lucille's mother, Mrs. Alma Wilds, signed a six year contract containing a marriage-penalty clause with Thornton in 1937, and the model ratified it when she become of age. Her attorney contends such a clause is "against public policy."

BRITAIN WARNED THAT JAPAN MAY SEIZE HER SHIPS

Retaliation for Nazi Export Blockade Mapped.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Japan, Dec. 1 [Friday].—A stiff warning was given to British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie by Foreign Minister Kichisaburo Nomuro yesterday against seizure of Japanese vessels carrying German exports.

Craigie was told that Japan regards such action as a violation of international law and was determined to adopt strong retaliatory measures, such as seizure of British ships in Japanese waters.

Care in Seizures Pledged.

Craigie conferred for over an hour with the foreign minister during which it was announced Britain was giving full consideration to possible damage to neutral countries and would take the utmost care not to injure Japan's interests.

Japan is taking an extremely serious view of the British decision to disregard the Japanese protest filed in London and is strongly opposed to search and seizure. However, it is understood Japan intends to retaliate only in proportion to damage inflicted by Britain.

Nomura protested to French Ambassador Charles Arsene-Henry today against the British-French blockade which becomes effective Monday. He also protested the halting and inspection of Japanese shipping near French Indo-China.

New Protest Considered.

"The Japanese government is in no doubt that the Anglo-French move contravenes international law and intends to continue its special effort to induce the British and French governments to deal with German exports in a manner compatible with international law," the foreign office said.

It is understood Tokio is preparing a second vigorous protest demanding withdrawal of the capture order inasmuch as Japan will be one of the nations hit hardest.

Mine Sinks British Steamer.

LONDON, Nov. 30 (AP).—The 2,730 ton British steamer Sneaf Crest was reported sunk by a mine off the southeast coast today. Twenty-nine survivors were landed, a number of them injured.

The admiralty announced that 39 officers, including Capt. E. C. Kennedy, and 226 men of the armed merchant cruiser Rawalpindi are missing.

The Rawalpindi, a 16,697 ton vessel, was sunk off the coast of Iceland Nov. 23 in a battle with the German pocket battleship Deutschland. Capt. Kennedy previously had been reported rescued.

Tow Damaged Submarine.

STAVANGER, Norway, Nov. 30 (AP).—Two British warships, one apparently a large cruiser, arrived at Haugvaldstad near here today towing a damaged submarine marked TR 53.

Residents believed the British ships had been in a battle reported off the coast yesterday between warships and airplanes.

From shore, men could be seen working on the submarine's afterdeck. A Norwegian seaplane and torpedo boat were watching developments, because under international law warships making repairs may remain only 24 hours in territorial waters. If the ships overstay the 24 hours they will be interned.

French Attack U-Boat.

PARIS, Nov. 30 (AP).—The high command's communique tonight announced that "one of our patrols successfully attacked an enemy submarine."

SPANIARDS LAUD FINN RESISTANCE TO RED ATTACKS

MADRID, Nov. 30 (AP).—Spain, closely associated with Italy and Germany during her civil war, expressed sympathy today for Finland's resistance against Russia and praised American efforts to mediate the dispute.

The Spanish newspaper ABC said: "The whole world's sympathy goes out to Finland in its resistance against her brutal, cynical neighbor."

DALADIER WINS 2 FIGHTS TO EXTEND HIS DICTATORSHIP

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 30.—After an unexpectedly stiff all day debate on the government's powers in wartime, the chamber of deputies tonight granted Premier Edouard Daladier's government an extension of its full decree powers for the duration of the war. Otherwise, the powers would have expired at midnight.

Premier Daladier.

The final vote approved by 318 to 175 a compromise by which Daladier agreed to submit each decree for approval within one month if parliament were in session. The premier twice risked the tenure of his cabinet in forcing votes of confidence and won each time.

The bill favored by the government to replace the unlimited powers accorded by parliament last spring strengthens an existing law on the nation's organization in wartime.

Daladier Tells His Need.

As modified by the government and finally voted, the bill will authorize the cabinet to take any measures deemed necessary in the interests of national defense without specially consulting parliament. It stipulates, however, that the government should submit decrees enacted exceptionally to parliament for ratification within one month of their passage, or, if parliament is in recess, as soon as it reconvenes. This proposal was strongly opposed from many sides.

Daladier, in a vigorous speech, stated the case for the executive who has to take rapid decisions and steamroller private interests in order to cope with an external menace.

"We are at war," he said. "We are faced with governments which are able to act rapidly and secretly. I am asking for power to take similar decisions and I consider it indispensible."

In reply Deputy Robert Schuman, defending his amendment to the government's bill which would render emergency decrees automatically invalid unless ratified within a month by parliament, argued that the powers asked by Daladier might be misused by some future premier in peace time under the pretext of a national emergency which might not really exist. The premier rejected the amendment on the grounds that it would be equivalent to keeping parliament in session during the war.

Conservatives Back Cabinet.

At the showdown, only the Socialists and a few irreconcilables voted against the government while the conservatives who had fought the granting such unlimited powers voted for the government. The Schuman amendment was voted down, 309 to 189, and the government bill passed, 318 to 175.

Speaking in support of his measure, Daladier previously had defined France's war aims simply as "to win the war." He drew cheers when he recalled that many of the legislators before him had "seen their country ravaged or menaced by Germany. . . . We are resolved that we will not see that again."

He also had referred to President Roosevelt's "noble efforts to spare Europe from the terrible test of a new war."

Fugitive Communist Appears.

A lively incident occurred at the morning session when the fugitive communist leader, Florimond Bonte, ducked police at the entrance and, trusting his parliamentary immunity, calmly walked to his seat. A tumult broke loose, with even the dignified president of the chamber, Edouard Herriot, shouting, "Your presence here at this time is a scandal."

Bonte was expelled and arrested as soon as he reached the sidewalk. After appearing before a military magistrate, he was jailed. Later the chamber unanimously voted to waive parliamentary immunity of all communist deputies wanted by the police.

United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt, who was in the diplomatic gallery, was given an ovation by the deputies during the premier's pronouncement.

"It was with emotion that we watched develop in the United States the current of opinion which led to the lifting of the embargo on arms," Daladier said. "That decision has justified all our confidence . . . that the American people will abide by the rights and duties of neutrality."

Wins Divorce

MRS. MALVA GEORGE.

Herbert George made a New Year's resolution last New Year's eve. It was that he'd stop punching his wife, Mrs. Malva George, 32 years old, the wife told Judge Rudolph Desort yesterday. Mrs. George, a model living at 2324 South Ridgeway, said her husband punched her twice as soon as he'd made the resolution, but she didn't mind since he wasn't going to punch her any more for a whole year.

George, who lives at 932 North Racine avenue, used remarkable restraint, according to Mrs. George. He didn't strike her for exactly nine months. But on Oct. 1, she said, he began punching her again and she told her attorney, Harry X. Cole, to sue for divorce. The judge granted it yesterday.

INDIANA LIQUOR OFFICIAL FREED ON THEFT CHARGE

John Schank, a member of the Lake county, Indiana, liquor board, was found not guilty of grand larceny and embezzlement yesterday by Judge Charles Jensen in the Lake county Criminal court at Crown Point. There was no jury. Judge Jensen held the prosecution had not produced sufficient evidence.

At the same time the court criticized Schank's conduct. "The defendant has been guilty of a gross breach of his duty," the judge said. "If he were an appointee of this court he would be discharged immediately."

Schank was indicted Aug. 1 on testimony of John Rampa, East Chicago tavern owner. Rampa said he paid Schank $550 to buy for him the unexpired three way [beer, liquor, wines] beverage license of Noble Edgar, who was going out of business. But the state liquor commission canceled Edgar's license, and, Rampa testified, he got neither the license nor his money back.

Schank and his attorney, Julius Sachs, testified the $550 was deposited with Sachs and returned to Rampa intact the day the indictment was returned. Schank has been prominent in Lake county Democratic politics.

CLEVELAND GETS HELP FROM WPA IN RELIEF CRISIS

U. S. Surplus Corporation Sends 17 Cars of Food.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Nov. 30.—Cleveland turned today for help in its relief crisis to the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the New Deal—and got it from the latter.

The C. I. O., which so many times in the past has been able to rub the magic lamp for government blessings, failed this time. The instructed delegation it sent to Columbus, the state capital, to storm Gov. John W. Bricker and demand a special session of the legislature to provide additional relief funds, failed to get past the waiting room. The governor refused to see them. He repeatedly has refused to call a special session in relief crises.

But Mayor Harold H. Burton of Cleveland, who flew to Washington immediately after conferring with the C. I. O. leaders, scored with both the WPA and the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation. Col. F. C. Harrington, national administrator of the WPA, agreed to waive temporarily the provision that Cleveland must make a 25 per cent contribution toward all WPA projects.

Will Launch New Work.

This will permit the launching of enough new work to provide jobs for approximately 6,000 of the city's idle. The WPA may also reconsider a $250,000 city park project which previously had been rejected.

In addition, Philip F. McGuire, vice president of the FSCC in Washington, ordered 17 carloads of food started for Cleveland immediately and dispatched an operative to find out if more is need. The food, which started rolling westward from several points late tonight, included white and graham flour, corn meal, apples, and other staples.

The aid thus obtained will not go far in providing for Cleveland's 45,000 jobless between Dec. 10 and Jan. 1, when new state funds will be available, but it is a help. News of the gesture is expected to create much warm feeling toward the Roosevelt forces, who carried the state in 1932 and 1936 and would like to carry it in 1940.

Unlikely to Get Stamp Plan.

McGuire gave no answer on Mayor Burton's plea that Cleveland be made a beneficiary of the FSCC's stamp plan, thru which in a dozen cities the government supplies 50 cents' worth of surplus commodities for every dollar's worth of direct relief that is given. It was considered unlikely that Cleveland could be included under this system because of the instability of its relief setup.

The city's frequent relief crises and its inability to sign a contract guaranteeing that it will not reduce relief orders—thus shifting the bulk of the burden to the government—are the barriers. Unless the state legislature provides a million dollars for the Dec. 10-Jan. 1 period Cleveland will have no money to make good on such a contract.

Question on Bricker's Charge.

At Washington Col. Harrington questioned Mayor Burton closely on Gov. Bricker's published statements that Cleveland's plight is due to the manner in which its city officials have handled relief distribution. He parried these by saying:

"It is impossible for me to control the number of Cleveland's destitute." And there the matter was allowed to stand, strangely enough.

Just how much the C. I. O.'s Washington influence helped Mayor Burton was a matter of speculation tonight, but it was obvious that the C. I. O. has no Columbus influence. The three leaders—officials of the Cleveland union industrial council, the Fisher Body union, No. 45, and labor's Non-partisan league—are understood to have been turned away by Gov. Bricker because they have no official status.

Storm Relief Stations.

This is the seventh day that crowds have swarmed about Cleveland's six relief distribution stations, shouting for food. Several applicants said they hadn't eaten since Monday. Many declared their food supply had been exhausted Tuesday. There are hundreds who will have nothing to eat tomorrow, relief officials estimated.

The sick, the old, and the very young are being fed, however. Single persons and couples without children, who have been cut off the rolls, still may apply for food which is held by the 18 stores of the Federal Surplus Commodities corporation.

The six relief stations are guarded by firemen and cruising police squads. Scattered disorders were reported today, but no arrests were made. Police stated the crowds are growing more restless and uneasy. At the first signs of disorder, the relief stations close and the case workers who operate them are escorted away.

Look to Federal Government.

City officials here insisted that Cleveland can do nothing for itself and welcomed the relief obtained from Washington. Only the federal government or the state can rescue it, they contend. To Gov. Bricker's charge that haphazard methods, topheavy administration costs, the city's staunch attitude of "gimme, gimme" are to blame for the crisis, the mayor and the city law department replied again today: "The state is not doing its part."

Joseph H. Crowley, assistant city law director [corporation counsel], who is in charge of the relief fund situation, said today he has no hope of successfully carrying out any of the plans Gov. Bricker has outlined to end the crisis.

"The limited increase in the property tax also is a grand suggestion—except that we already 'ave raised it as high as the Ohio constitution will let us, that is, to 1 per cent," Crowley said.

Frowns on Bricker's Plan.

Asked about Gov. Bricker's suggestion that inheritance taxes be diverted, Crowley only sighed.

"We are like the defensive football team that tries a kick back of the goal posts," he declared. "What we need is a million dollars and we need it by Dec. 10. Mayor Burton has said he will disrupt the city government, if necessary, to get that money."

November Weather

Average daily temperatures in Chicago in November.

The driest autumn on record in Chicago ended yesterday. Total rain and snow for September, October, and November was 3.21 inches, according to figures compiled by Forecaster C. A. Donnel. The nearest approach to this record was in 1897, when the precipitation was 4.08 inches for the same three months.

The average daily temperature for the three months was 55.9 degrees. In six other years, beginning with 1881, temperatures were higher, while 1920 and 1882 had exactly the same averages as this autumn. The warmest autumn was in 1931, when the temperature averaged 60 degrees.

Altho the month just ended set no new records, Donnel said, it was abnormally warm, dry, and sunny. Total precipitation for the first 29 days was .92 of an inch, compared with 2.3 inches, the normal amount. The record low was .31 in 1904.

GERMAN PEOPLE OPPOSED TO WAR, THYSSEN CLAIMS

Steel King Bares Dislike for Hitler Rule.

diamond eardrops. He said he expects to stay in Locarno all winter but beyond that has no plans for the future. After the war, he remarked, he may go to America. He indicated he was going to stick close to Germany at present to see how the war turns out.

Misjudged Hitler.

Thyssen said he gave his financial backing to Hitler because he believed Hitler would save Germany from communism. Within a year after the Nazi chief became chancellor, the steel magnate declared, he began to lose sympathy with the Nazi movement. He admitted he and other wealthy Germans who put their money on Hitler had misjudged the man they had picked.

"We thought he would be like any other political leader," Thyssen said. "But before long he began to suppress all traces of the democratic system and finally banished all opposition. Every man must have opposition or he becomes more or less unbalanced."

He asserted he was the only leading industrialist to join the Nazi party and the only one to be elected to the reichstag. Others who served were appointed by Hitler. He said he resigned his post as state counsellor a year ago as a protest against the campaign against Jews which was launched after the shooting of Ernst von Rath in Paris, he revealed.

[Ernst von Rath, German embassy secretary, was shot on Nov. 7, 1938, by Herschel Grynszpan, a Jewish youth of 17 who carried a Polish passport. As a result of Von Rath's death, Hitler levied a $400,000,000 fine on all Jews in Germany.]

Pact "Political Necessity."

Thyssen claimed he did not know whether the German-Russian nonaggression and friendship pact would be of any help to Germany or not.

"The people don't like the pact with the soviet but feel it was a political necessity," he explained. "Hitler needed help and took it wherever he could find it."

Thyssen lives quietly. His daughter and her Hungarian husband, Gabor Zechey, also are in Locarno. They were visiting the steel magnate when he decided to flee and they fled too. Their son, 2 years old, is with them.

"His name is Fritz," Thyssen explained proudly.

2,000 JOIN ARMY DURING MONTH IN 6TH CORPS AREA

Last Two Recruits Bring Total to Even Figure.

There were exactly 2,000 army enlistments in the 6th corps area during the month of November, and recruiting officers said last evening that they expect no difficulty in filling their quota of 1,823 for December. The recruiting drive was begun thruout the country on Sept. 1 and the deadline for bringing the army from 167,000 to a new peacetime strength of 227,000 is set for Dec. 31.

Late yesterday afternoon Lieut. Col. Edward F. Shaifer, who is in charge of recruiting in the Chicago area, was informed that there had been 1,998 enlistments for the month.

"Let's get two more and make it an even figure," he said.

Two More Sign Up.

And a few minutes later two men came into the recruiting office on the second floor of the United States courthouse and signed up. They were Doremus D. Buckner, 22 years old, 1522 Juneway terrace, and Leon S. Kornitsky, also 22, of Madison, O. Kornitsky had served a previous enlistment with the 14th air base squadron at Bolling field, D. C.

"Young men are becoming increasingly aware of the opportunities and the advantages of army life," Col. Shaifer said.

"And their parents, too, are realizing that the present recruiting campaign is in no way connected with war. It was undertaken to bring the army closer to the strength authorized by the national defense act of 1920.

Chances Good for Promotion.

"With the army expansion, the chances for rapid promotions and pay increases become more likely. In the army a man has an opportunity to learn a trade. He can, if he is fitted, get into any of the branches like aviation mechanics, radio in the signal corps, the coast artillery, and anti-aircraft work, and the cavalry.

"Entering the army is like going into a business. And there aren't so many businesses which offer the inducement of good pay after retirement that the army does. After a man has served 30 years in the army, he is eligible for retirement at three-quarters pay."

Possible to Retire at 48.

Col. Shaifer said that there are many instances of young men enlisting at 18—the minimum age—and then, at the age of 48, retiring with army pay, which gives them a nest egg and supplements whatever income they want to earn in other ways.

"Mothers have been afraid at times to let their sons join the army," the colonel said, "but that's certainly better than having the boy lie around idle. Not that the army is in any way a reform school. The men we pick must have good character and no record for moral turpitude. The army gives its men exercise, recreation, the opportunity to travel, and safeguards their health."

Lieut. Comm. George D. Lyon of the navy recruiting office announced that it filled its quota of 130 during November and has a quota of 150 for December.

VAST TRAINING DRIVE AT HAND, SAYS WOODRING

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—Secretary Woodring told a conference of the highest ranking military commanders here today that the War department was "embarking on the greatest program of peacetime training in the history of our army."

Woodring added that the many questions involved in the current winter teamwork drill of new divisions and in extra training of the National Guard demanded complete understanding between the War department and field commanders.

Nine field army and corps area commanders met with Woodring and the general staff at the opening of the two-day conference.

More than 40,000 regulars of four streamlined infantry divisions and one cavalry division started intensive training in the south this month, and another division is training at home posts in the west. Double armory drill and an extra week's field training has been ordered for the National Guard.

ONE DEFENDANT ASSUMES BLAME IN COUNT ATTACK

Warrenton, Va., Nov. 30 (AP).—Ian Montgomery absolved his younger brother, Colin, and Alexander Calvert of blame today in the tar and feather attack on Count Igor Cassini, Washington, D. C., newspaper chit-chat columnist, during a dance near here last June.

Ian Montgomery shouldered all responsibility for the attack for which the trio was charged, and testified at their trial that he only intended to scare Cassini in retaliation for items appearing in the count's column. These items, Ian said, were aimed at his family.

Colin Montgomery and Calvert corroborated Ian's testimony that they accompanied him at his request on the eight mile auto ride into the hunt country near Warrenton in the early morning of June 25, but took no active part in pouring oil over Cassini's nude body.

Ian said a few feathers were added, but that Cassini, who is the grandson of a former Russian ambassador to the United States, was unharmed.

ANTIBUROCRACY BILL'S BACKER IS FORCED TO QUIT

Resigns His Post Under New Deal Pressure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Col. O. R. McGuire has resigned as counsel to the controler general because of administration pressure against his activities on behalf of the Logan-Walter bill, which would curb New Deal burocracy.

For four years McGuire has been chairman of the American Bar association's committee on administrative law, which drafted and is pushing the Logan-Walter bill. The measure is opposed by the left wing of the New Deal and particularly the National Lawyers' guild, whose members are in key positions of the government.

Justice Pecora's Stand.

Justice Ferdinand Pecora of the New York Supreme court, an ardent New Dealer, has even termed the lawyers' guild too radical for him. He formerly headed the guild, and threatened to resign as a member unless the group steered away from communist domination.

New Dealers shudder at mention of the Logan-Walter bill, which would put an end to many powers and practices of New Deal boards and commissions, especially the National Labor Relations board and the Securities and Exchange commission. Jerome Frank, chairman of the SEC, is a member of the guild.

The bill provides for [1] uniform procedure in issuance of rules and regulations of administrative agencies, authorizing the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals to determine their validity; [2] establishment of intradepartmental boards to hear complaints against any agency, and [3] expansion of the scope of judicial review of administrative action.

Sponsorship Curtailed.

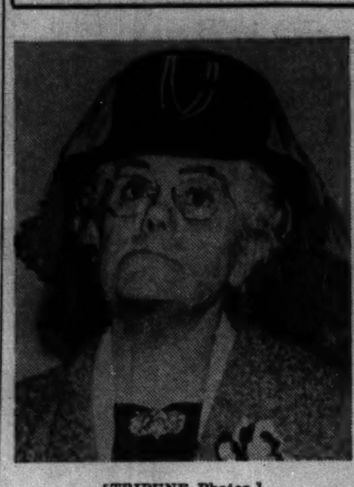
Last August the acting controler general, Richard N. Elliott, issued an order forbidding McGuire to make speeches or otherwise act on behalf of the bill, which he and a nonpartisan committee of prominent lawyers drafted. Elliott explained that it was done "because of the White House." Last October Controler General Fred H. Brown, former New Deal senator from New Hampshire, affirmed Elliott's order, saying he did not approve of McGuire's outside activities on behalf of the bill. Accordingly, McGuire resigned, effective today, at the end of his accumulated leave.

The bill has the support of at least thirty state bar associations, the American Bar association, and many business and civic organizations.

Penny with Hole in It Traps Robbery Suspect

Clyde Moore's lucky penny was described by Gary police last night as Dan Skorich's unlucky penny. Moore, whose home is in Buchanan, was held up in Gary early in the week and robbed of some change, including the penny, which has a hole in it. Two days ago Sergt. James Stack arrested Skorich and found the penny. Moore, police said, identified him as the bandit. Skorich is being held in the Crown Point jail.

In "Alibi" Case



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. Dora Morris, who won freedom in court after scolding for her part in "alibi" defense of Brydon Bonham, convicted robber.

FRIEND OF BANDIT GETS 10 DAYS FOR FALSIFYING ALIBI

Carl Rabus, 6319 Normal boulevard, who gave false testimony in the Criminal court to provide an alibi for a young bandit, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Michael Feinberg to 10 days in the county jail for contempt of court. Mrs. Dora Morris, 61 years old, the manager of a rooming house at the Normal boulevard address, who gave similar testimony, was scolded severely by the court, but was dismissed of contempt.

Rabus and Mrs. Morris had testified that they had seen Brydon Bonham, 21, in the rooming house last May 22 at the time he was alleged to have been kidnaping and robbing Nick La Porta, 1647 West 69th street. They had given similar testimony in a previous trial which resulted in the acquittal of Bonham of a charge of robbing a filling station at 4862 South Avers avenue on the night of May 22.

At the second trial, however, Sam Freedman, assistant state's attorney, produced records showing that the statements made by Rabus and Mrs. Morris were false. Bonham, as a result, was found guilty on Wednesday. He faces sentence today in event a motion for a new trial is overruled.

$5,000 BOND FORFEITED.

Judge Gibson E. Gorman yesterday ordered forfeited a bond of $5,000 posted by James Boyd Miracle, 26 years old, formerly an employé of the Postal Telegraph company, when he failed to appear on a charge of embezzling $3,000 from the company.

FEDERAL DRIVE PUTS SUBURBAN BOOKIES ON RUN

Repercussions of the federal drive against Chicago's bookies still are felt in the suburbs, at least to the south and west. No handbooks are reported operating in those directions, altho the north shore horse follower still may find a few places open.

A recent afternoon inspection showed that the handbook in Church street, Niles Center, had an attendance of about 30. There were reports that the results blaring forth from the loudspeakers were supplied by the Capone syndicate, apparently picking up the business dropped by Nationwide News Service which had supplied such information until it was disbanded.

About 20 cars were outside a saloon handbook in Wagner road west of Wilmette, and another Niles Center spot in Ridge road near the Elgin road also was open. The patronage in these three seems to have dropped off about two-thirds, altho the establishments cater to all classes by taking bets from 50 cents to $5 and higher. Other types of gambling formerly available, such as dice and roulette, have been halted.

DEPUTY CORONER STILL SOUGHT IN VOTE FRAUD QUIZ

Investigators reported yesterday that they had been unable to find Deputy Coroner Lawrence Rasmussen for questioning regarding election frauds in the 15th precinct of the 1st ward. Rasmussen is the Democratic precinct captain.

One of the five election officials facing contempt of court charges in County court as a result of irregularities in the November, 1938, election, told Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on Tuesday that Rasmussen dominated the balloting. The judge demanded to know why Rasmussen had not been arrested and was told that he could not be found. The investigators were told at the coroner's office yesterday that Rasmussen had not been there all day.

CONVICTED KUHN UNABLE TO EAT; WAITS SENTENCE

New York, Nov. 30 [Special].—His conviction on five counts of grand larceny and forgery so severely upset Fritz Kuhn, fuehrer of the German-American bund, that he was unable to eat today after a sleepless night in his cell in the Tombs.

All night long, according to prison wardens, the bund leader tossed on his bunk or paced his small cell in the annex. When the breakfast of figs, oatmeal, bread and coffee was pushed under the door the convicted bund fuehrer barely touched the food.

Obviously worried over the sentence which is to be imposed Tuesday, Kuhn smoked one cigaret after another and went thru another fingerprinting and a visit to the district attorney's psychiatrist with nervous irritability. Kuhn faces a sentence of 15 to 30 years, but since he has no previous convictions for larceny or forgery, he may be sentenced below the minimum.

POWER COMPANY PRESSES FIGHT ON DYNAMITERS

Offers Big Reward After Long Terrorism.

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 30 [Special].—The Indiana and Michigan Electric company today offered a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any one responsible for bombing and other destruction of company property.

The offer is the latest of a series of steps to apprehend persons who since Nov. 24, 1938, have used dynamite and saws to break down service of the company.

Latest Outrage Last Week.

The most recent attack was the dynamiting of two steel towers, near Benton and Ligonier, Ind., on Nov. 23, 1939. One of the towers was telled by a charge of dynamite in each of its uprights. Altho Indiana and Michigan states police, city police, and federal bureau of investigatio agents have traced innumerable clews, neither they nor company officials would say today that any progress toward actual capture of the saboteurs has been made.

Three theories have been advanced, but none has been substantiated. They include the possibility of labor trouble; communist activity; activity of agents of foreign powers. Proponents of the third theory pointed out that war supplies are being made in this area for shipment to France.

Nine Attacks Revealed.

1. The dynamiting of cables at a substation on South Main street in South Bend on Nov. 24, 1938.
2. The sawing off of three transmission line poles on Douglas road near South Bend on Sept. 5, 1939.
3. The dynamiting of a tower near Summerville, Mich., on Sept. 8, 1939.
4. The dynamiting of a tower near Niles, Mich., on Oct. 19, 1939.
5. The dynamiting of a transmission line pole north of South Bend on Oct. 28, 1939.
6. The dynamiting of a pole northwest of South Bend on Oct. 28, 1939.
7. The dynamiting of a tower near Arcola on Oct. 30, 1939.
8. The dynamiting of a tower near Ligonier on Nov. 23, 1939.
9. The dynamiting of a tower near Benton on Nov. 23, 1939.

Judge Eugene Holland on Municipal court bench yesterday as directors of crime commission decided to recommend that his court assignment be withheld.

WEIGH ARSON ACTION IN FIRE AT DANCE HALL

Frank E. Doherty, chief deputy state fire marshal, said yesterday he would meet Monday with McHenry county authorities to decide whether indictments would be sought in connection with the first of two recent fires at a Fox River Grove dance hall.

The first fire caused damage of $1,500. The second, last Saturday, did $20,000 damage. Evidence of arson was found after the first blaze, authorities said. The second was set by a gang of six hoodlums who first kidnaped the village fire chief and a night watchman. Sheriff Lester Edinger of McHenry county said yesterday that the janitor of the dance hall was still in custody but that no charges had been placed against him. The dance hall is owned by Louis and Edward Cernocky.

SONSTEBY ASKED TO KEEP SUSPECT JUDGES OFF DUTY

Crime Commission Acts on McGarry, Holland.

Directors of the Chicago Crime commission decided yesterday to recommend to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court that he withhold court assignments from Judges Eugene L. McGarry and Eugene J. Holland pending investigation of charges against them. This action was taken after State's Attorney Courtney had met with the directors for two hours in the Midday club.

Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby.

The prosecutor told in detail of the recent court appearances of Judges Holland and McGarry—McGarry on malfeasance charges and Holland as a business associate of Edward J. O'Hare, slain front man for the Capone syndicate.

Letter to Be Drafted.

After the meeting Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the commission, said that drafting of the letter of recommendations to Judge Sonsteby would be assigned to the commission's executive committee and the committee on courts and prosecution.

These groups probably will not meet until next week.

"Our feeling about these judges," Col. Chamberlin said, "is that they are under a cloud. Some think they should not sit as long as they are under that cloud."

The directors referred several other matters to the committees which will draft the Sonsteby letter.

Consider Appeal of Decision.

One was to urge State's Attorney Courtney to consider carefully the question of appealing the decision of Judge Joseph A. Graber freeing Judge McGarry of the malfeasance charges.

The other matter was the judicial conduct of Judge Joseph B Hermes of the Municipal court and Judge Walter T. Stanton of the Superior court. State's Attorney Courtney last May charged that Judge Stanton was unfit to serve in the Criminal court.

Judge Hermes was mentioned critically in a recent Crime commission bulletin for his handling of a case involving a union official.

Col. Chamberlin said the directors favored close coöperation with the Chicago Bar association in their consideration of charges against Judges McGarry and Holland.

Assignments Made Public.

During the day Chief Justice Sonsteby made public a list of assignments in his court for December. Judge Holland remains in a civil branch, and Judge McGarry is assigned to a civil court, effective Monday. Judge Holland sat on the bench yesterday. He asked lawyers present if any wished changes of venue. None responded.

Judge Sonsteby could not be reached for comment on the Crime commission's view that both judges should be kept off the bench.

It was reported in Springfield last night that Gov. Horner had rejected informal requests that in his call for a special session of the legislature he include a provision for investigation of the acts of certain judges. The governor took the position that the special session must concern itself only with urgent matters applying to all the state, and that judiciary inquiries could await a regular session.

KILLING OF BRIDE, 19, BARES COUPLE'S LIFE IN A BACK YARD TENT

Riverdale, Md., Nov. 30 (AP).—The fatal shooting of a 19 year old bride disclosed today the story of a young married couple who, seeking domestic independence, chose to keep house in a tent rather than "impose" on their families.

Margaret Blaine.

Mrs. Margaret Blaine died in Washington sanitarium last night a few hours after she was shot in the 14 foot tent she and her husband, Rexford Blaine, also 19, had occupied since July. The tent was 400 feet from the house occupied by Blaine's father, an employé in the United States government printing office in Washington.

The elder Blaine said his son and daughter-in-law had lived with him after their marriage last December until they decided to start out for themselves with the tent as their home. Policeman Earl Huber said young Blaine told him his wife shot herself after a "slight argument." Authorities released the youth in custody of his father.

SQUAD ASSIGNED TO PURSUE LABOR SLAYING INQUIRY

Lieut. Kyran Phelan of the detective bureau said yesterday that a squad has been assigned to devote all its time to hunt for the slayers of Paul Peters, a member of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' union, who was shot to death in front of his home at 3505 North Oak Park avenue on Oct. 31.

Detectives who have questioned nearly 100 persons in the case believe the slaying was the result of factional quarrels in the union. Peters was active in a minority group which had demanded an accounting of union funds. Police were told that he had been threatened because of his union activities.

Peters, whose real name was Pietrzykowski, was a member of Franklin local, No. 4.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

THE REDS ATTACK FINLAND.

Stalin's attack on Finland is reviving the terror of September when Hitler invaded Poland. The communists have a modern war machine which, against a very small country, may work about the same destruction that the German machine spread in Poland. The Finns haven't the material for defense the Poles had. They, like the Poles, may make a brave fight of it, but they are so small an enemy that even their bravery may bring a terrible penalty.

The world is shocked by this new exhibition of ferocity directed against a people who had earned respect for their achievements, who were not disturbing the peace, and who should have been spared the horror of such a war. All the democratic peoples of the Scandinavian peninsula must view the event with the greatest of alarm for their future.

Among those who might well be uneasy is Herr Hitler, whose agreement with Stalin started the communists on their aggressions. They had been quiet until he offered them friendship and support. Since then they have been aggressive. They have taken a share of Poland, they have established themselves in the Baltic states, they are now attacking Finland, and they are looking toward the Balkans.

In much of this they are retracing the steps of the Romanovs and are reëntering the territories possessed by the czars before the Red revolution. In this respect the movement is a resurrection of imperialism—but these Russians still say they are Reds. It is the banner of the sickle and the hammer that is advancing. Stalin professes to be a communist. The commissars, political agents, and secret police go into the occupied territories; the Red liquidations follow; the dictatorship and the Moscow institutions are set up. The spirit is imperialist; the form and the practices are still those of the Red dictatorship. Its slavery goes where the Red army goes.

The Finnish possessions which Stalin demanded were of military importance for the defense of Russia, but were no menace to the soviets in the control of Finland. They were strategic points in the relations of Germany and Russia. Finland was a little buffer state which could become a danger to Russia only in the hands of Germany, and a danger to Germany only in the hands of Russia. Alone it had little military significance to either.

The Nazi partnership with the communists has allowed the comrades to strengthen themselves all along Germany's northern and eastern front. That might not be dangerous if Germany retains its present strength. It might not be dangerous if Germany were not engaged in a war with Great Britain and France. It might not be dangerous if a peace could be reached before there had been great destruction of western Europe's man power, resources, and industrial plant. It might not be dangerous if western European civilization were not to be bled to exhaustion and if a timely peace permitted a swift recovery.

If there were a timely peace, not only the present combatants but all the neutral nations of Europe might preserve themselves from the possibilities which lie in a total war leading to prostration, and in central Europe possibly to another Red revolution.

Germany can handle Russia if Germany is intact, but a central Europe, reverting to what it was in 1918, '19, and '20, may have little with which to combat revolution within and the Red armies starting from the new military possessions which Stalin has acquired and is striving to increase in extent and importance. Stalin is probably a phony communist. But communism is a form of slavery satisfactory to his Asiatic despotism. Its slogans and war cries are all formalized, and its methods have been perfected. The Russian people have been drilled in it, its tactics and technique are established, and it would matter very little to people overrun by it whether Stalin believed in it or not, or whether he even gave it word service.

The invasion of Finland may present the greatest menace of this uncertain war. It may contain the beginning of the greatest catastrophe with which Europe has been threatened since the Hunnish invasion. Asiatic hordes are again crowding up on Europe's frontiers, under a leader whose personal history accepts no competition from any other terror that ever came out of the east. His congeries of barbaric and semi-barbaric nations might be no match for the skill of a western nation if it could be put in the field against him in full strength, but he is awaiting the time when the west will have exhausted itself in a struggle involving the prime of its manhood and all its equipment. That hour, if it comes, will be his hour, and in waiting for it he will have made only a few practice movements, feints which cost him nothing and get him much. He will be waiting for his victims.

What western Europe needs now is peace, a peace which will recognize that peoples have a right to national existence, whether they are big or little. If Europe can find that peace before it is too late it may have avoided an unparalleled disaster which will truly mean the return of the dark ages to the entire continent.

OUT IN THE COLD.

New York has a new airport, close to the center of the city. Chicago could have a landing field just as favorably situated if an island were constructed for the purpose. New York's airport is better than ours in another respect: it has superior accommodations for the housing and servicing of planes. The hangars here are already inadequate and soon will be greatly overcrowded.

New York's airport was made possible by federal aid. Chicago can't get airport money in any such quantities from the treasury. The reason is that our senators and congressmen have little influence with the powers that be. Illinois has two Democratic senators and the great majority of the representation in the house is also Democratic, but our boys don't seem to know the right people. The Illinois delegation votes as ordered, but when it comes to dividing up the easy money lets the other states take all the prizes. It isn't as if Illinois didn't contribute its share to the pot. In that respect we are in the top 10 per cent.

HORNER ON MANTENO.

Gov. Horner has issued a statement saying that the indictment of A. L. Bowen, his director of public welfare, was unwarranted. The grand jury in Kankakee county, after investigating the deaths from typhoid fever of 53 persons who contracted the disease at the Manteno hospital, charged Mr. Bowen with malfeasance.

The propriety of the governor's comment on a case pending in court is, to say the least, questionable. The content of his remarks was equally dubious. Fifty-three persons, wards of the state and its employés, have died from a disease which has almost disappeared from civilized society. Typhoid is a preventable disease. It was not prevented at Manteno under the Horner administration. The grand jury after examining the facts and hearing, among others, Mr. Bowen and a number of members of the legislature who testified in his behalf, indicted a number of persons who were in positions of authority at the hospital.

We do not know whether they are guilty of the charges brought against them and do not venture any opinion on the question. That is the business of the jury which will hear the case when it is tried. But there is certainly nothing inherently unreasonable, as the governor suggests, in bringing charges of malfeasance in such a case. Does the governor take the position that public officials cannot be held accountable for the conduct of institutions and persons in their care? Or is he saying merely that the conduct of appointees of Henry Horner may not be a subject of grand jury action?

IN THE COLONIAL BELT.

The following, from a resident of Glen Ridge, N. J., appeared the other day in the letters column of the New York Times:

"Last night when I stopped for a drink the radio was blasting out football scores. Suddenly the announcer interrupted to say, 'The German high command has just announced that a squadron of planes has bombed the British fleet off Scotland and'—the radio was then turned to another station for more football scores. I remonstrated and asked to have the war news back. Each person there stared at me as tho I were eccentric.

"I realized that none of them was interested in the war. How can so many American people be so blind to the importance of this war? Don't they realize how important it is to the United States? Whether or not the average American has any intense sympathy for the allies or Germany, how revolting to think the average American mentality finds the contest to get a piece of pigskin across some white lines more interesting than the bombing of the British fleet."

This is one of the most encouraging dispatches from the colonial belt since the war started. You only have to strike 10 miles due west from the Hudson river to find American citizens.

T. J. CULLEN.

T. J. Cullen, who died the other day, was an honest business man who paid his bills and taxes and kept his name out of the papers. The general public of Chicago probably would never have heard of him if it had not been for the NRA. Mr. Cullen, who printed law briefs, refused to hoist the blue eagle and also refused to join a conspiracy to boost prices 40 per cent under an NRA code. He was threatened with prosecution and his print shop was bombed, but he stuck to his guns.

For the most part it has been just such inconspicuous men as Mr. Cullen who have made the fight to save human liberties. It is pleasant to know that he did not suffer in the end for sticking to his principles of free competition and refusing to be coerced. His business prospered and he was able to indulge his taste for travel, financing his vacations, as he once wrote friends in Chicago, "on the money I lost cutting prices below the NRA code."

Editorial of the Day

MR. PICKUS OF CLEVELAND ON THE PHONE.
[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

"If Abe Pickus ever calls again on the telephone tell him I'm not here." One can imagine leading European statesmen giving this standing order to their secretaries now that Cleveland's most "internationally minded" citizen is again on the loose. For Abe, thru his habit of ringing up the heads of foreign governments at any hour of the day or night and giving them some frank advice from a plain American, is rapidly becoming persona non grata abroad.

Before Hitler took over Austria, Abe had him on the wire and also on the carpet. The Fuehrer was furious.

Mr. Pickus also spent $75 in tolls to give Mussolini some long distance advice. Calling up Chamberlain, he once got as far as "Are you there?" [customary telephonic opening in England]. Chamberlain said "No."

Finland's foreign minister is the latest victim. Erkko was irked when Abe tried to tip him off about Russia's intentions. He said he knew more about Moscow than Abe did about Cleveland.

So it goes. But nothing can daunt or discourage this candid friend of mankind from placing rhetorical bent pins on the seats of the mighty. So long as his voice and his cash hold out he will continue to tell the great of the earth just where to get off. He has his critics, but stockholders of the American Telephone and Telegraph company are not among them.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

LOWDOWN ON THE LINE BOOK.

Today the curtain rises on the Line Book of 1939, a revue in type, music by 100 poets, words by 150 humorists and satirists, cover design by Pete Hawley, stage direction by the editor of this column. You ought to find this show on all newsstands at the price of a Sunday newspaper, and if it is not on sale at your corner, write an indignant letter to Louis Rose, our circulation manager. You will also find it on the counters of the Tribune's Public Service offices, in the Tower and at Madison and Dearborn streets. If you are an out-of-towner, like many of the Line's most faithful clients, send your order, with 13 cents, to the Public Service office, and you will receive a copy by the next mail.

This book's contents represent, in length, about 30 daily Line o' Type columns. Here you may find the distillate, the "fine champagne," of the past year's vintage of verse and prose and epigram. The authors are the most gifted members of the Line's numerous family of contributors. The Linemaster himself figures in the picture, of course, with 15 articles on various subjects, including several examples of the diary writing of "Mr. Pepys."

The cover design is a fantasy in blue that deserves interpretation, and upon this subject we will quote the artist:

"In the pale light of the mood, peering fondly from the edge of the cover, the Linemaster, bewildered and resigned, makes a giddy balloon ascension in pursuit of a typewriter winging its way thru the empyrean. Mars and Eros take time out from their busy work to laugh uproariously in enjoyment of the contributions to the Line, which they pluck out of the air as the Linemaster tosses the excess ballast overboard. Off to one side Minerva [originally Venus, but the Linemaster said she would have to put on some clothes] reclines dreamily on a cloud far above the Tribune Tower, which soars impressively up from the dim outlines of the Earth."

Now then, customers, take it away!

"LA DONNA E MOBILE."

When she carouses with Legionnaires wild,
Shouting and singing and tearing up paper,
Cutting up every conceivable caper—
  My city's a child.

Unsullied snow for her white wedding gown,
Veiled to her ankles by fog trailing down—
  My city's a bride.

Westering sun finds her calm and serene,
Painting her turrets and towers with glory,
Regal in splendor as in an old story—
  My city's a queen.

Robed in sheer blackness she laughs, unafraid,
Eyes shining wickedly, stars in her hair,
Necklace of headlights and jewels to spare—
  My city's a jade!

Casual.

The Myth of the Halibut's Head.

Maybe you have heard the story that the fish called halibut is always shipped to market with its head chopped off because said head resembles a woman's or a baby's, and would discourage fish eating if seen by the customer. The Field museum is asked about this so often that the resident ichthyologist has a cold, fishy glare in his eyes for any one who approaches him.

Well, there's nothing to it. It's true that a halibut has both eyes on the same side of his head, like a human being, but there the resemblance ends. His head is always chopped off to save freight expenses.

A Scandal in Logansport, Ind.

"Frank Berndt of 629 17th street reports that two of his pants will be in bloom at about 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. He plans to exhibit them on a table near the curb in front of his residence under lights." Daniel Francis Clancy.

Stamp Collectors Are Grinning at This.

The new postage stamp which commemorates the 50th anniversary of the statehood of North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, and Washington causes Contributor M. B. H. to remark:

"I wonder if the designer of this stamp was three sheets in the wind."

Take a look at this stamp, uncanceled, and you will see the three sheets.

TO A GIRL AT FIFTEEN.

Soon must you learn your own young heart anew,
  Tall lovely girl but lately turned fifteen,
Who suddenly bid childish things adieu,
  Assuming a sedateness in your mien,
A reticence which none should dare invade.
  What luminous mysteries within your eyes
Now humble us, as though some accolade
  Invisibly had touched you from the skies!

Your girlhood rests upon you like a crown
  Of stars, and your whole being sings amen
To golden drums that summon you and drown
  All other sounds as false and alien.
O, you will follow to what shining lands,
  What matchless kingdoms built upon the sands!

Adelaide Love.

Catching Up with Dave Lewis.

"Nobody seems to remember what became of Dave Lewis" [the Line, Nov. 27]. Well, I met him in a New York night club called the Gay Nineties about two years ago. He was singing the old songs, and at my request sang, "Let me go back to that dear old Chicago town." He was in good voice, and apparently in good health.

Old Timer.

Did You Ever See the Back of Your Vest?

The beauty editor admired the "handsome brocade pattern" on the back of the Linemaster's vest, as he wandered around the office in his shirt sleeves.

So he took it off and looked at it in surprise, although he had been wearing it for three winters.

STATE STREET SHOPPING.

TEA AND TEAS.

Numerous communications addressed to this department are directed against the employment of tea and I am urged constantly to picture the alleged pernicious influence of indulgence.

It is true that caffeine [the principal drug found in tea] is a stimulant, affecting the nervous system particularly. Of all the substances used for this purpose, however, this beverage is the most innocuous. A certain amount of tannin is extracted in the steeping process, but it will be relatively small if we limit the brewing period to five minutes.

Recent experiments by Halpenny and MacDermot developed the fact that 2½ grain doses of caffeine administered in hot water to patients six times daily proved definitely upsetting. Some were nauseated, others perspired freely, and many fell asleep. The blood pressure rose on an average between 10 and 30 points and the urine was increased.

When tannin was given in the same manner but in larger doses [5 grains], all were nauseated and five vomited after the third dose. Other symptoms included headache, abdominal discomfort, and excessive perspiration. Constipation was complained of.

Now comes a curious fact: When the drugs [caffeine and tannin] were mixed together, the discomfort and the tendency to nausea were reduced greatly. The reaction upon the hydrochloric acid secretion of the gastric pouch was, in some instances, no more pronounced than when an equal quantity of water was swallowed. At any rate, these are extreme experiments and rarely will one—even with 20 cups of tea—consume so large a dose.

Brewing for five minutes produces a little less than 1 grain of caffeine. If we wish to get rid of the tannin, a teaspoonful or two of milk will precipitate this material inasmuch as it combines readily with albumin and protein, forming an insoluble compound. Those who drink the infusion clear, therefore, probably absorb slightly more tannin than those who add a bit of milk. Lemon apparently does nothing more than supply additional flavor.

As far as scientific evidence goes, therefore, there is no danger in the practice. As with any good thing, too much can be taken and some may be inclined to depend upon it to "keep going." Two or three cups daily cannot harm any one. The same is true of coffee, altho there may be individual sensitivity in some cases. With 10 or 12 portions, however, in each 24 hours, we may be whipping the nervous system too vigorously.

Naturally, no one would think for a moment of doing away with tea parties. It just wouldn't do to deprive the ladies of the opportunity to pour and purr. Strangely enough, under the power of the "cup that cheers but does not inebriate," one can acquire a reputation as a brilliant conversationalist.

But one must be on the alert against a type of confusion that may arise, presumably from an overdose. Perhaps it is not the caffeine that is at fault. Nevertheless, thoughts may jump rapidly—like the mountain sheep "from crag to crag"—and the talk may run something like this:

"Yes, my dear, your costume is perfectly stunning."

"Thank you so much. You know, my husband slipped in the bath tub this morning and hurt himself terribly."

"O, how wonderful! How many children did you say?"

"Twelve, and they are all girls—all the same age."

"O, there's Mrs. F. I must speak to her. Isn't she beautiful? How old did you say he was?"

"Fifteen, but one is six."

"Isn't that just too charming?" etc., etc.

Yes! Teas are grand.

FRESH AIR, BUT NOT COLD.

L. G. H. writes: For years my husband would catch cold every fall and he would cough thruout the winter. A physician told him that the air in his bedroom was too cold at night. His uncovered head was responsible. He went on to say that a person would not stay out of doors bareheaded, yet this is what happens at night. After two years of opening the window only about two inches in the fall and an inch later [when colder], he has been free from trouble.

REPLY.

After all, the old fashioned night cap was a noble [and useful] adornment. With our crowns [some bald] exposed to freezing temperatures, we need not wonder why we become chilled. There is no need for cold air. Fresh air—cool enough to be comfortable—is all that is required. In addition, one's resistance should be maintained with proper rest, diet, etc.

SCIATICA.

B. L. writes: What are the common causes of sciatica? Would a back strain be one? What are the modern treatments?

REPLY.

Sciatica is a form of neuritis affecting the sciatic nerve. Irritation, inflammation, or pressure on this part will cause the severe pains characteristic of this disease. Strain is unlikely, disease more common. Treatment involves tracking down the origin, removal of infections, and correction of deformities. Rest—designed to raise resistance—is important.

RELIEF'S WHO'S WHO.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—I am one of many physicians who have agreed to visit sick relief clients at home at half rate to help relieve the taxpayer. My last three house visits made on three families who are on relief revealed the following interesting social background of the heads of these families, all three being in their prime of life.

The first is at present an involuntary boarder at the county jail for six months for repeated drunkenness and wife beating. The second has recently returned from a federal "boarding house" down south, where he had "rested" several years for passing counterfeit money. The third relief recipient had the misfortune of being caught appropriating other people's chattels without their consent, which had netted him six years behind the bars.

A PHYSICIAN.

ELGIN AND SCHOOL LUNCHES.

Tuscola, Ill., Nov. 28.—The voice of every patriotic citizen in Illinois should be raised in praise of the Elgin school board, which voted to discontinue free lunches in the schools of that city. No one wishes to see children go hungry, but the destruction of moral character and self-reliance is even worse. Most persons wish to care for their own children and will make many sacrifices to do so if necessary. However, if other agencies are going to take over the home responsibilities many soon are perfectly willing to cease making an effort to care for their own.

These children brought up on "relief" soon acquire the attitude that this is a perfectly normal state of affairs and many young people now see no moral reason for paying the grocer, the coal dealer, the doctor, or the property owner.

Again we say the stand of the Elgin school board deserves the heartiest praise.

COMMENT ON GORE TRIALS.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 23.—If the Gore trials at Benton, Ill., are an example of "American justice," is it not time we adopted the judicial methods of England?

If we are to have a death penalty, why not treat each defendant alike and mete out justice on an equal basis? This cannot be done by jurors picked at random—some of whom, in a small community, are bound to be prejudiced. One on whose judgment rests a man's life should be intelligent, with a mind trained for justice and equality. I cannot conceive of the type of jurors in both Gore's and his son's trials. Certainly justice was not considered.

MRS. W. H. DUNHAM.

HE'S USED TO KICKS.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—I read with amusement the item from Mr. "J. De W.," whose grief seems to be that he has been snubbed by some "young men" of his office force. Well, brother, console yourself. You are just one of thousands who must put up with the young pups who call themselves men and get away with it.

I am 49 and have a long service record [not a jail record either], and one that I am not ashamed of. Unemployed at present and subject to the kicks and hard knocks of this big town, most of which are administered by this type of young punks seems to be my lot. But one thing is sure. They will not be able to fight the next war, which is in the offing, because they lack the guts and the inclination. We older men, many of us still in the military service, will have to take their places.

A WAY TO HELP COTTON.

Oak Park, Nov. 25.—When will our people wake up to the possibilities and try to remedy our troubles? For example, cotton. If the women of our country were to insist on buying hosiery, dresses, etc., made of cotton, we would soon put that product back on the market and use up a good part of the surplus. Instead, they continue to demand silk garments, chief export product of Japan, a country that is abusing our friendship. Why not try using up the products we produce here at home? This is only one of the items we are neglecting.

Wake up, thinking Americans, before our own industries fold up.

GEO. R. THOMPSON JR.

ON THE OLD AGE PROBLEM.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—If these New Deal politicians really love the aged as much as they claim to, why do they not pass a law giving first chance at all political jobs to people over 60 regardless of party.

If the average person of 60 would not give the public better service as inspector, elevator man or bookkeeper than the average political appointee, I will eat my shirt, but I fear pigs will be flying long before such a simple way of handling the old age problem is used. There would be no money in it for the politicians.

GEO. WILLIAMS.

WOULD PRESERVE A SOUVENIR.

Chicago, Nov. 29.—Don't you think it is proper to place the Magna Charta in the Library of Congress now that England has departed from free government?

T. V.

THE "EDITH CAVELL" PICTURE.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—I note a letter recently in THE TRIBUNE against the showing of the picture, "Nurse Edith Cavell." I don't think it will make any difference in the minds of honest people whether it is shown now or any time, it will still be the same atrocious murder of an angel of mercy. She was no spy, even if she erred [so far as the German high command was concerned]. She stood as a symbol of help and mercy, but she was given neither.

As a "Red Cross worker" and a woman who served on the battlefields of France myself, I say show it to the world! If those war lords who placed this flower of British womanhood before a firing squad feel that they did their duty, then why should any one else squawk now.

100% AMERICAN.

PUTS BLAME ON BUSINESS.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—A recent article in your paper says the Republican party is basing its hope for success in the coming election partly on the failure of the Roosevelt administration to solve the business depression.

Is it then the contention of the Republican party that it is the function of government to solve business depressions? If so, then why the strong opposition to the New Deal's attempt to do so? The present administration should have had practically dictatorial powers to solve the depression and unemployment because of the failure of business itself to put its house in order. The proper place for blame is on business and not the government, and business should do something to remedy the situation.

VALIDITY OF GIFT.

Chicago, Nov. 15 [Legal Friend of the People].—In 1930 my husband's father died [in California, his home] and left an estate, also a factory in Chicago, in trust. The estate was settled in 1931. In 1923 my husband's father gave him a vacant piece of property [free] which [1] was exchanged for two lots. He also gave him $5,000 for the building of a home on same. My husband and I gave him a note for this $5,000 on a piece of writing paper with our signatures. However, a few months later in writing to his son he returned the signatures torn from the note which was advising us he destroyed the note. [This correspondence we have.] In settling the estate the attorney found in my husband's father's box a book with notations, among which was listed $2,500 [for vacant property], $5,000 for building home. However, there were no notes, and it was not his father's intentions that his son was to have this deducted from his share of the estate. The attorney was notified to the effect, but wrote saying it was a matter to settle between themselves.

2. It ended by my husband not wanting to have any arguments so they simply deducted the $7,500, he receiving only a small amount. The factory is rented, but only receiving enough income to pay the taxes.

3. Can my husband place a claim against the factory for this $7,500? Can he demand a part of the rent to help pay his Home Loan which is in distress? Can he ask the heirs to reimburse this $7,500? Can he place an injunction against the factory for this $7,500? Can he ask the others to settle his share, so he won't be evicted from his home? There was $5,000 left in escrow, but about $1,000 or $1,500 has been spent on repairs. Can this be touched? We are unable to employ an attorney as my husband's income is inadequate and we are in financial distress.

K. P.

1. You do not make clear whether the father had received the property in exchange for the lots or whether your husband made the exchange after the gift.

2. If he wished to raise the question he should have raised it in the probate proceedings.

3. He probably is too late, but in view of the substantial amount involved we would advise going over all of the facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Dec. 1, 1914.

[126th day of world war; 92d day of present war.]

PARIS.—The French ministry of foreign affairs made public a Yellow Book dealing with causes of the war in which the blame was placed entirely on the Germans. It said the Germans had been preparing for war in 1913.

GERMAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE.—Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm in his first interview with a foreign correspondent said Germany did not want the war, which he described as "the most stupid, senseless, and unnecessary war of modern times."

LONDON.—The British fleet renewed its bombardment of the German naval base at Zeebrugge. It was announced that the allied troops had repulsed a number of attacks and had made slight advances.

MILAN.—The siege of Cracow has begun, according to a correspondent with the Muscovite army. Russians are bombarding the forts with heavy guns and one of the suburbs of the city is in flames.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay.—Reports that the German fleet is in the south Atlantic appear to have been confirmed. Interruption of British shipping and the outfitting of German merchant ships with supplies were regarded as supporting the reports.

HEAVIER PENALTY URGED TO DETER RECKLESS DRIVER

Crippling of Youth Called Example of Law's Failure.

Severe penalties for motorists whose recklessness causes permanent injury to their victims should be provided in a new reckless driving statute, Assistant State's Attorney Howard Christensen said yesterday. He mentioned the case of Louis Tomko, 19 years old, 1338 Thomas street, such a victim.

At the same time, George Hock, 25, of 1623 North Winchester avenue, started to serve a 90 day Bridewell sentence imposed by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Safety court on Wednesday. Hock ran down and injured Tomko as the latter alighted from a Milwaukee avenue street car at Noble street on Aug. 29. Tomko appeared in court on crutches after three months in a hospital.

90 Day Maximum Provided.

The statute provides a maximum 90 day punishment for a reckless motorist's first offense. The minimum sentence is 5 days in jail. The alternative is a fine of not less than $10 or more than $500.

The second offense is punishable by imprisonment of from 10 days to 6 months in jail or a fine of from $100 to $1,000.

"The law is inadequate to deal with Hock," said the prosecutor. It was his first offense and Judge Hermes gave him the limit. The judge should have more discretion in dealing with cases which involve a probable injury for life. The distinction between the first and second offense should be eliminated from the statute.

Evidence in the case indicated that Hock, who was in an old model car, drove around the left side of a street car and struck Tomko, who was crossing the street. He argued that the street was under construction and he could not pass on the right side of the car.

Victim Still on Crutches.

Tomko suffered a broken right leg and a concussion. After three months in County hospital, he is still on crutches because his leg healed improperly and will have to be reset.

"I am going to see what I can do for Tomko," said Judge Hermes. "Some specialist may volunteer to give him back his chance to walk."

Prosecutor Christensen and the judge said they would notify the state motor vehicle department that Hock had no insurance and is not financially reliable. They said they would recommend that he never again receive a driver's license, which was suspended for one year.

25 AUTOISTS FACE LOSS OF LICENSES OVER JUDGMENTS

The Circuit and Superior courts notified the secretary of state last month to proceed against 25 car owners who have failed to pay automobile accident judgments in the 30 day period granted under the Illinois financial responsibility law. The month's unpaid judgments aggregate $47,723. The law requires the secretary of state to revoke both the driver's and vehicle license of those who fail to pay.

Clerk John E. Conroy of the Circuit court reported 16 unpaid judgments totaling $23,048. Clerk Victor Schlaeger of the Superior court reported 9 totaling $24,675. The two courts are reporting the unpaid judgments as soon as the 30 day period elapses.

$2,000,000 MORE PAID BY PWA ON SUBWAY GRANT

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, received a check for $2,000,000 yesterday from the Public Works administration. The payment was the second deposit made under the PWA's $18,000,000 grant toward the cost of the $46,000,000 subway. The first payment of $1,500,000 was made last January.

The city has deposited $9,000,000 in the subway construction account, compared with the $3,500,000 from the PWA. Another $1,000,000 has been requested from the federal agency and is expected in a few weeks. Under the grant agreement, the city is required to deposit $2 for each $1 deposited by the PWA.

Thrown by Horse Show Entry; Girl Breaks Leg

Betty Ferran McGuire, 19 years old, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Michael McGuire, 5017 Drexel boulevard, will not compete in the horse show which opens at the International amphitheater tomorrow. Yesterday she suffered fractures of her left leg when thrown by her mount, Barjen, while putting the horse through its paces in the 124th Field Artillery armory.

WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES AFTER AUTO ACCIDENT

Mary Spriggens, 68 years old, died in the Berwyn hospital yesterday of injuries suffered Wednesday when she was struck by an automobile after she left a bus at 36th street and Harlem avenue in Berwyn. She lived at 3529 Wisconsin avenue in the suburb. The car was driven by Bernard De Mars of 1802 South 12th avenue, Maywood.

Dolores Merolla, 11 years old, 2742 Shields avenue, died last night in the Michael Reese hospital of a skull fracture suffered Wednesday when she was struck by a car in front of her home. The driver gave his name to her family and he is being sought.

Vincent Szczurek, 56, of 5338 Justine street, died in the Little Company of Mary hospital last night of injuries incurred Nov. 19 when the automobile in which he was riding struck a trolley wire pole at Western avenue and 107th place. His son, Edward, 22, who was driving, and three other members of the family also were hurt.

Michael Karalich, 60 years old, 4316 South Marshfield avenue, a peddler, died in the Southtown hospital of a skull fracture suffered Wednesday when he was run down by an automobile in front of 1714 West 44th street. The driver was Anton Cikmanski, 29, of 4406 South Hermitage avenue.

Thomas Flaherty, 46 years old, 1427 Fletcher street, a laborer, died of injuries in the Edgewater hospital after he was struck by a car at Clark street and Rosemont avenue Wednesday night. Eric Law, 2925 Belden avenue, was the driver.

The woman killed by an automobile at Byron street and Ashland avenue on Nov. 11 was identified yesterday as Mrs. Mildred H. Bergum, 41 years old, 3828 Janssen street, by her husband, Harry, a draftsman for the board of education. George H. Kuhnen Jr., 1300 Norwood avenue, was the driver of the car.

Mrs. Fanny Klazen, 58 years old, 10920 South Homan avenue, suffered an ankle fracture last night when she was struck by a hit and run car at 111th street and Central Park avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 806 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 623 were killed in Chicago, where 20,392 were injured.

No Optimism

The National Safety council reported yesterday that the automobile death toll in the United States for the first 10 months of 1939 was 25,650, as compared with 26,090 for the same period in 1938. The council, however, found little reason for being optimistic over the decline.

The traffic death rate showed a sudden increase last October. The council warned that if November and December totals are as high, the 2 per cent saving of lives recorded for the year thus far will be wiped out.

Chicago, with 64 auto deaths in October, 1939, and 83 in the same month last year, was one of the few large cities to show improvement.

Hugh Johnson Deplores Lag in Building.

BY HAL FOUST.

Highway and superhighway requirements in Chicago, in Illinois and in America were told yesterday by speakers at an annual meeting of the Illinois Road Builders association in the Palmer House. The audience included state, county and city officials, contractors and material men who represent a $50,000,000 a year pavement industry in Illinois.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the main speaker at an evening banquet, said that for national defense as well as for national well being America's highways, representing an investment of 21 billion dollars, need 3.65 billion dollars to take up a lag between traffic requirements and pavement construction.

Modern Armies Need Wheels.

"Our roads are wearing out faster than they are being built," said Johnson, "and this deterioration of the national system should be of concern to our military authorities. Modern armies need wheels, and wheels need roads."

Other speakers on the evening program were Mayor Kelly, F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, and Herbert B. Anderson, president of the road builders.

Charles M. Upham, engineer director of the American Road Builders' association, at an afternoon session said that the nation's most urgent need for safe and efficient motor transportation is superhighways thru metropolitan areas. City streets compose only 6 per cent of the country's road mileage, but they carry 30 per cent of the country's traffic.

Many Roads Antiquated.

Upham said that almost a third of America's primary highway system, approximately 100,000 miles, has been antiquated by increasing automobile speeds and must be modernized. A survey by the United States bureau of public roads, he said, has selected 27,000 miles of interregional routes as recommended for superhighway treatment.

He listed five Illinois roads, a total of 1,061 miles, in this classification. They are:

U. S. 6—Chicago to Davenport........170 m.
U. S. 66—Chicago to St. Louis.........297 m.
U. S. 45—Chicago to Paducah..........384 m.
U. S. 40—St. Louis to Terre Haute....170 m.

*U. S. 41, Skokie road, is the most modern of the five. Its main weakness is its continuation into the loop.

C. M. Hathaway, construction engineer of the Illinois highway department, said the main highways of this state are becoming obsolete and are disintegrating much more rapidly than they are being replaced. He said there are now 322 miles of pavement due for retirement as worn out, excessively costly to maintain and unsafe for fast travel. This replacement demand is increasing at a rate of approximately 322 miles a year, he said.

644 Miles Worn Out.

While 644 miles of the state's most important pavement was wearing out in 1938 and 1939, the Illinois highway department replaced 70 miles in 1938 and 68 miles in 1939.

The 68 miles was part of 177.21 miles of high type pavement laid by the state this year in addition to 211.3 miles of low type bituminous, and 99.94 miles of gravel and crushed stone. The $20,000,000 construction program for the year just ending also included 80 miles of grading, 64 bridges and culverts, and 34 grade separations.

Roads Outmoded

Plan Attack on Malfeasance Charge Against A. L. Bowen

An effort to quash the malfeasance indictment against A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, growing out of the typhoid fever epidemic at the Manteno state hospital, will be made in the Kankakee county Circuit court on Dec. 11. Bowen's lawyer, Harold F. Trapp Sr. of Lincoln, made the announcement yesterday. John A. Mayhew of Kankakee will represent Dr. Ralph T. Hinton, former managing officer of the institution, who also was indicted.

COAL, THE THRIFTY FUEL, gives even heat flow

ASSEMBLY lines depend on a constant, even flow for their efficiency. If interrupted, the work of many people is disorganized. In the same way, when it comes to heating your home, an even flow of heat is best. This you get from coal.

With other fuels you are apt to get a sudden starting and stopping of the fire in your furnace. During the "off" periods, the air in your rooms settles in layers. You get cold air on the floor, warm air around your chest and hot air around your head. That's "layer-cake" heat. There is none of this with coal or coke. You can maintain a steady, even flow of heat and an even temperature.

Coal and coke are not only the best fuels. They are also the most economical. Other fuels cost at least 40% more. Discuss your coal selection with an Association dealer. He is competent to prescribe the best type and grades for best and most economical results and has an engineering service available to you at no cost.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SITS IN ON DIES COMMITTEE QUIZ

Hears Testimony of Youth Congress Leaders.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 [Special]—A series of developments combined today to give the Dies committee investigating un-Americanism an unusually busy day.

1. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made two visits to the hearing room.

2. Testimony was begun by officials of the American Youth congress, which has been accused of being communist dominated.

3. The American Student union at the University of Chicago was branded as under control of the communist party.

4. Efforts of the communist party to bore into the National Youth administration were told by an avowed member of the party.

5. Chairman Martin Dies [D., Tex.] was on the way to his home state suffering from a functional heart disturbance.

Mrs. Roosevelt Listens.

Mrs. Roosevelt, wearing a smart green woolen outfit trimmed in black Persian lamb, passed up an appointment elsewhere to sit in the hearing room to listen to testimony of American Youth congress officials.

Several months ago she defended the congress when Kenneth Goff, who said he formerly was a communist, told the committee that the organization was dominated by the communists and that William Hinckley, its former chairman, was a member of the party.

Mrs. Roosevelt said at that time she knew definitely that neither Hinckley nor Joseph Cadden, youth congress executive secretary, were communists. She has entertained them several times and has spoken at national conventions of the congress.

The President's wife appeared at the morning session of the Dies committee, but left after about an hour when youth congress officials were not called. She returned in the afternoon and stayed for most of the session. During the noon recess she took several members of the congress to the White House for lunch.

Declines Seat at Table.

A flurry of excitement was caused in the committee room by Mrs. Roosevelt's appearance. She declined the invitation of Acting Chairman Joe Starnes [D., Ala.] to sit at the committee table and took a seat among the youth congress leaders, with whom she exchanged whispers from time to time.

But when Hinckley took the stand she moved to the end of the committee table, where she could better see and hear him. She listened intently as Hinckley read a statement in which the youth congress accused the Dies committee of misusing congressional power and conducting "un-American and unjust" hearings.

Hinckley admitted the youth congress had voted to work against new appropriations for the Dies committee because, he contended, its procedure is "undermining young people's faith in our American form of government."

Student Union Accused.

Information concerning communistic activities at the University of Chicago was given by Dr. Leon P. Smith, dean of students at the school. He told the committee that the American Student union at the university was at least indirectly under communist party control.

Dr. Smith declared that he personally regarded the A. S. U. and the communist club as subversive and un-American groups at the university. During one period, which he did not identify except to say it was prior to this year, the student union was in control of the Daily Maroon, the university's newspaper, the dean asserted.

"Is the American Student union under control of the communist party?" Rhea Whitley, committee counsel, asked flatly.

"There is absolutely no doubt in my mind that indirectly it is under control of the communist party," Dr. Smith replied.

Tells of Strike Threat.

Asked whether he had encountered objectionable activities in the A. S. U. program, Smith said the union advocated a student strike when the university found it necessary to increase tuition fees.

At the morning session, William O. Nowell, a Detroit Negro, told of activities within the communist party. He said he joined the party in Detroit in 1929 while employed by the Ford Motor company when he became convinced it had the solution of labor, social, and other problems in which he was interested.

The communist policy for his race, Nowell asserted, was to establish a Negro republic in the south. He said he realized, however, that could only lead to "race riots, victimization of the colored people of the south, and chaos."

"The program was not to help our people," he declared, "but to help carry out the proletarian revolution."

Communist Links Cited.

Recently, he said, the communist party has used a number of organizations to promote the new Russian foreign policy of alliance with Germany. He named among these the American League for Peace and Democracy, which he described as a major organization of the party; the National Negro congress, and the National Students' league.

The party attempted to bore into the National Youth administration, he testified, and the Young Communist league was the spearhead of the drive.

DAILY MAROON REPLIES.

David Martin, chairman of the board of control of the Daily Maroon, said last night that the Maroon editors have always been watchful of communistic influences.

"As far as we're concerned," he said, "the American Student union has been a front organization for the Communist club and we've always looked at everything they've done in that light. One member of the A. S. U. is married to a communist and works on the Maroon. As long as we know who they are—and we do—we don't feel any danger from them."

U. S. Navy Ship Aground Off North Cuba Coast

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—The navy was notified today that the destroyer Reuben James of the Atlantic neutrality patrol was aground about 15 miles off Lobos Cay light, on the north coast of Cuba. The aircraft carrier Ranger was standing by in a moderately rough sea, and naval tugs were ordered to the scene from Key West, Fla., and the Guantanamo, Cuba, base. The commander reported there were no casualties.

5,200 RELIEFERS GET WPA JOBS DURING MONTH

During November 5,200 Chicago reliefers were assigned to WPA jobs. Work Projects administration officials yesterday made this report on Mayor Kelly's plan to transfer more than 29,000 reliefers to WPA jobs early in November.

Under the plan, the city is permitted to use its share of the state relief funds to sponsor WPA projects. The allotment of such funds for November was $130,000, or enough to permit employment of 10,000 reliefers on WPA.

Early in October the Illinois Emergency Relief commission sent WPA nearly 12,000 names of reliefers who were eligible for assignment to jobs. Relief officials said they did not know why only 5,200 assignments were made.

Inhalator Squad Rescues 4 Stricken by Coal Gas

Inhalator squad No. 8, under command of Capt. Raymond Daley, saved the lives of four persons who were stricken by coal gas fumes yesterday at 2906 Normal avenue. They are Joseph Marasovich, 35 years old, a laborer; his wife, Christiana, 22, and two roomers, Joseph Marticz, 40, and Marian Kulasich. Marticz awoke early in the morning when he was nearly overcome by the fumes and called the Deering street police, who summoned the rescue squad.

A JOB FOR SANTA: FIXING UP 330,000 TREES IN CHICAGO

Chicagoans will spend $375,000 on 330,000 Christmas trees this year, the Association of Commerce estimated yesterday. One tree to every 3½ families is the average, a slightly higher ratio than elsewhere in the United States. The country annually buys about 9,000,000 trees.

Most of Chicago's supply is shipped in from Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota, altho Idaho and Vermont are important contributors. The average Christmas tree for home decoration has been growing from 5 to 8 years, and the large tree for the community festival is frequently of 20 years' growth.

Most states, according to the association's report, carefully regulate tree cutting. Much of the supply being sent to Chicago has been grown commercially for the Christmas market or has been cut in dense woods where thinning is beneficial.

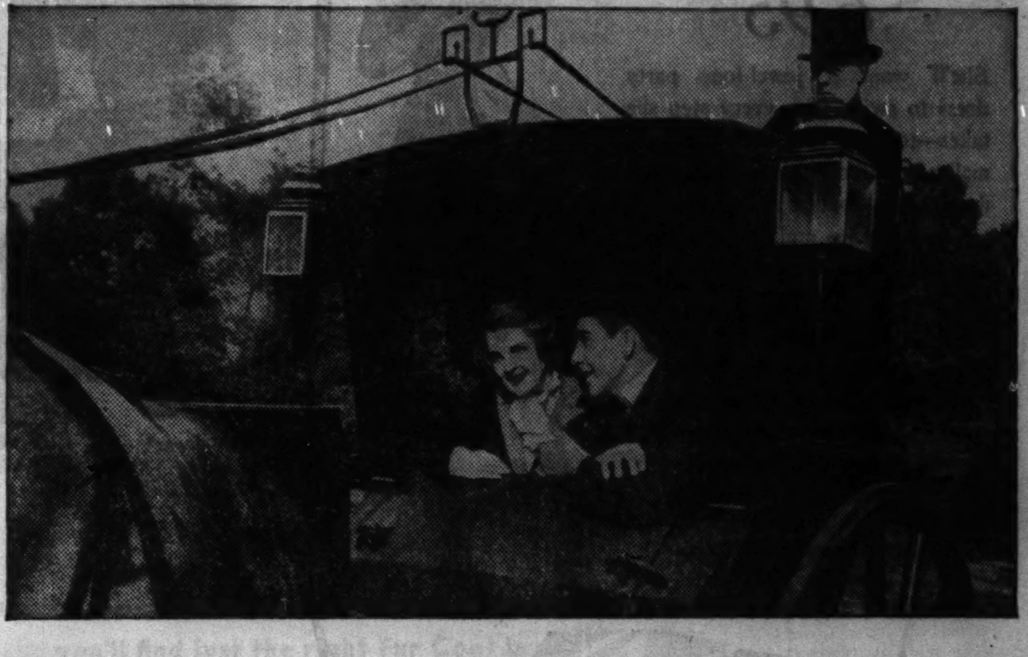
More than four times as many people as ride American railroad trains every day have bought and served KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, the famous cereal that corrects one of our most common ailments—constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. Is this surprising? Not when you know the whole story behind this national swing to ALL-BRAN. It's a story that goes back many years.



Many years ago, when cabbies were still seen on city streets, a research project was planned by W. K. Kellogg in Battle Creek. It has developed into one of the greatest studies ever made of the common form of constipation (due to lack of "bulk" in the diet). Food chemists took part in it, nutritionists collaborated, and famous universities loaned their facilities and some of their great medical men. And the verdict of these scientists has been that ALL-BRAN is a tried and proven means of combating this widespread form of constipation.

Join the "regulars"! Today no one needs to suffer from constipation due to lack of "bulk." You don't have to endure it first and then try to cure it with "quick relief." The modern way is to prevent the trouble with this delicious, crunchy, ready-to-eat cereal—KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Eat it regularly with milk or cream, and drink plenty of water. But don't accept any substitute—look for the Kellogg signature in red on the package. ALL-BRAN is made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

CARSON PIRIE SCOTT & CO

[S]EEKS TO OUST PWA DAM CHIEF IN OKLAHOMA

[In]efficiency Is Charged by Project Authority.

[Ve]nita, Okla., Nov. 30 (AP).—A public [hear]ing will be given tomorrow of a [case] involving a PWA approved man[ag]er of a 20 million dollar dam which [has] insufficient storage space for its [water]. The hearing is an ouster pro[ceed]ing against R. V. L. Wright, proj[ect] manager, on charges of ineffi[cien]cy brought by the Grand River [dam] authority.

[A s]pokesman said the authority was [dissatis]fied with Wright because of [delays] in acquiring land in the reser[voir] basin. Altho the dam is sched[uled] to be finished next March, the [spok]esman estimated only about half [of] the 68,000 acres necessary for the [pro]ject had been purchased.

Calls It Outside Influence.

[Fran]k Foreman, chief of the PWA [power] division who came to Okla[homa] to investigate, charged "outside [influ]ences" were threatening to wreck [the] giant power-flood control project. [In]terviewed in Oklahoma City, Fore[man] asserted the PWA was "well [satis]fied" with Wright's work. He [sai]d the charge "doesn't seem to be [ver]y serious or anything that the [boa]rd itself couldn't correct by talk[in]g with Wright."

He said "this trouble started" after [repre]sentatives of an Oklahoma pub[lic] utility conferred with Gov. Leon C. [Ph]illips and later with the dam board [of] directors. He added that the con[trov]ersy might delay the project "to [th]e advantage of the power com[pan]ies."

To Save Political Job.

The spokesman for the dam author[it]y declared Foreman was "using a [smo]ke screen of charges in an effort [to] save the best political job in Okla[ho]ma" for Wright. The dam author[it]y would have forced a showdown [wi]th Wright earlier, he said, but [fea]red that the PWA might close the [pro]ject. The PWA is financing the [con]struction with loans and grants.

Wright, who said he had received [a] report that a private utility would [lik]e to buy the power generated at [th]e dam and sell it to consumers at [a] profit, emphasized that the federal [gov]ernment expected the people to [enj]oy any benefits from the cheap [cur]rent.

"The people own that plant," he [sa]id, "and if the utilities got the [pow]er the people would be paying a [com]mission for the privilege of buy[in]g their own property."

The dam authority spokesman said [th]e authority's power distribution [pla]n would be announced when the [di]fferences with Wright have been [se]ttled.

And I've found a redhead I just can't resist." Then, she said, he went away to live at 3601 South Marshfield avenue. She lives at 5738 South Paulina street. The judge indicated he would grant her a divorce on grounds of desertion and award her the $7 a week asked by her attorney, Norman Becker.

JAMES SIMPSON LEAVES ESTATE OF 4 MILLIONS

Several Bequests Made to Charity, Servants.

The will of James Simpson, disposing of an estate estimated at more than $4,000,000, was admitted to probate before Judge John F. O'Connell yesterday.

Mr. Simpson, who was chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company and its associated utilities, and chairman of the executive committee of Marshall Field & Co., died on Nov. 25 after an illness of three weeks.

Although the bulk of his properties is left to his family and immediate relatives, Mr. Simpson specified considerable bequests for charitable purposes. Several employés also were remembered.

The Children's Memorial hospital and the Presbyterian hospital each receive $50,000 for the endowment of the Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson Memorial wards. The will requests that in assigning patients to these wards preference shall be given to present and past employés of Marshall Field & Co.

Another beneficiary is the Chicago Sunday Evening club. Ten thousand dollars is set aside for this organization, to be taken either as income from a trust or in a lump sum. The money is to be used in paying expenses of lectures.

The Scottish Old Peoples home is to receive $10,000 to endow two rooms. Servants in the Simpson household are to be paid $250, with an additional $100 for each year of service over three.

Widow to Get Annuity.

Mrs. Jessie McLaren Simpson, the widow, is to be paid $150,000 from trust funds and, after two years, is to receive $100,000 annually. Other cash bequests are: Mrs. Jane Simpson Krebs, sister of Mr. Simpson, $15,000; Mrs. Martha S. Stevens, also a sister, $15,000; John Loomis McLaren, a brother-in-law, $10,000; Howard Durham, $5,000; Earl B. Kribben, $10,000; Frederick F. Webster, $20,000; Walter N. Jones, $5,000, and Harry I. Robinson, $10,000.

The will provides that all books, pictures, house furnishings and other tangible personal property, as well as real estate adjoining the Simpson home in Glencoe, are left to Mrs. Simpson and three sons, James Jr., John McLaren, and William Simpson.

Another house, occupied by Mrs. Krebs and her husband, is to go to the three sons, with a provision that the Krebs family may occupy it so long as the husband or wife lives.

Sons Get Trust Estate.

The residuary estate is to be deposited with the United States Trust company of New York as trustee. The trust estate is to be divided into three parts for the benefit of the three sons. At the end of two years, income is to be paid as follows: Mrs. James Simpson's $100,000 a year, $7,500 to Mrs. Krebs, and the same amount to Mrs. Stevens. [At the death of Mrs. Stevens $3,750 is to be paid annually to each of her daughters, Martha and Jane.] John Loomis McLaren is to receive $5,000 a year. He is a brother of Mrs. Simpson.

Mr. Simpson wrote into the will that each of the three trust estates of the sons is to contribute equally to payment of these annuities.

At the end of two years, or on Mrs. Simpson's death, the trustee is to readjust the principal of the trust funds. Thereafter each son is to be the income beneficiary of the trust bearing his own name.

Three Executors Named.

Executors named in the will are James Simpson Jr., one of the sons and a former congressman; William B. Simpson, a brother of the testator, and John P. Wilson, an attorney.

In readjustment of the sons' estates the trustee is to see that James Simpson Jr. receives a principal amount $500,000 greater than the amount held for William Simpson, and John McLaren Simpson's share is to be greater by $100,000 than William Simpson's.

The trustee is given wide discretion in selling assets of the estate, which is understood to include a large amount of stock in the enterprises Mr. Simpson headed.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Jay Davis' children are going to have their tonsils out at the Illinois Central hospital this morning. That means seven operations—for Mary Virginia, who's 16 years old; Jay Jr., 14; Myrtle Ann, 11; Germaine, 9; Robert, 8; Richard, 6, and Paul, 4. They aren't all the children. Naimi, who's 26 and married, isn't going to have a tonsilectomy. Neither is Walter, 20, who still lives at the family home, 15137 Paulina avenue, Harvey.

TOWNSHIP TAXES STAY UP DESPITE DECREASED NEED

Report Shows Burden on Property.

More than 94 per cent of the revenue of Illinois townships and road districts is obtained from property taxes. More than 80 yer cent of what they spend goes for roads and bridges and poor relief. These findings were reported in a comprehensive study of finances of the state's townships and road districts made public yesterday by the Illinois tax commission. The report covered the 1925-'36 period.

The commission found that the revenues of these two groups of local governments were practically stable thruout the 12 year period, including the worst depression years. This stability, it was found, was maintained by increasing tax levies to make up for unpaid taxes and declining assessment values.

Outlay for Roads Reduced.

The government's outlays for roads and bridges were reduced in the 1930s, but total cost for all purposes held steady because of higher payments for poor relief rolls by the townships instead of the counties became mandatory in 1931.

Townships and road districts are divisions of county government. Their traditional chief function has been providing roads and bridges. There are 1,444 townships and 181 road districts in Illinois.

The commission found that these governments have not reduced their expenditures in the last twenty years in proportion to the declining need for their services on roads and bridges. The study said that the large increase in state highway building has substantially reduced the importance of the road building activities of the local governments.

Tend to Levy Maximum Tax.

"Townships and road districts tend to levy the maximum road and bridge tax permitted," the report said.

The commission found that the average district had less than 43 miles of road under its care in 1930, compared with 58 miles in 1907. Most districts, the study said, are too small to acquire the machinery needed to build good roads for all-weather use, and lack the funds to do so. These factors, the report said, raise "the fundamental question whether these units are able to build and maintain roads more efficiently and economically than any other feasible unit, such as the county."

Table Show Stability.

Year ended March 31—	Property tax receipts.	Tot. receipts, exc. borrow.
1926	$14,623,000	$15,389,000
1928	15,649,000	16,644,000
1930	14,915,000	15,890,000
1932	15,790,000	16,570,000
1934	14,967,000	15,963,000
1936	15,222,000	16,174,000

During the period the expenditures by these governments for care of the poor and unemployment went from $166,800 in the 1925-'26 fiscal year to $4,036,000 in 1934-'35. For roads and bridges, costs declined from $13,396,000 in 1925-'26 to $8,110,000 in 1933-'34, and then climbed to $10,832,000 in 1935-'36.

Borrowings by the governments were slashed from $3,761,000 in 1928-'29 to $1,200,000 in 1932-'33, but were increased to $5,000,000 by 1936.

AGENT FOR UNION SHOT IN MYSTERY ON HUNTING TRIP

Elmer Mirabella, 31 years old, a business agent for the Grocery Clerks' union, local 1397, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, was questioned by the Austin police yesterday when he appeared at St. Anne's hospital for treatment of buckshot wounds in both legs. He had not reported the shooting to the police before he went to the hospital.

Mirabella told Sergt. James Cunningham he was wounded while hunting near Peotone Wednesday. He said he did not see the person who shot him. "I knew I was shot when I felt a stinging in both legs," he said. He said he did not hear a shotgun report.

The union representative said he was alone at the time. He drove his automobile home and attempted to call Dr. Edward P. Gramer, 3958 Chicago avenue, he said, but was unable to reach him on the telephone Wednesday night. Mirabella lives at 833 North Monticello avenue. The union office is at 4 West Madison street, Oak Park.

CUT JOB COSTS, CALDWELL ASKS CIRCUIT JUDGES

H. Wallace Caldwell, a member of the county board, yesterday urged the committee on help of the Circuit court to reduce appropriations for county fee offices. He warned that there might be a deficit of $6,000,000 for the year 1940.

Under the law the Circuit court committee, made up of judges, recommends what help the various county offices must employ, and the county is forced to accept the recommendations.

Commissioner Caldwell declared that "if the board is to properly balance the 1940 budget it is evident that many reductions must be made." He pointed out, in a comparative table for the years 1932 and 1939, that the number of employés and operating expenses in the 15 county fee offices have increased while the fees have decreased. If the 1940 budget is not balanced, he warned, charitable activities supported by the county will suffer.

Day by Day on the Farm

By BOB BECKER

Meet Friends at Show.

November 30, 1939.

FOR the first time in several years the Du Page county farm will exhibit no stock in the International Live Stock exposition to be held in the International amphitheater this coming week. But that doesn't mean that the farm workers aren't thinking about the big stock show. Most of them are planning to spend at least one day at the event.

To city residents the stock show provides the chance to see prize winning steers, handsome horses, and other interesting exhibits which remind many of them of childhood days on the farm. But to farmers who have been going to the show for many years it also brings the chance to chat with old friends from other states. One of the men on the Du Page county farm was saying the other day that the stock show gives him his only opportunity to renew acquaintances with men whom he has known for as long as 40 years.

Trapping Season Open.

One of the boys who live on the farm has been running a trap line before and after school hours. When he proudly announced at home that he had caught a skunk his family knew that the trapping season was in full swing. Some of his brothers and sisters told him he didn't need to make any public announcement about this particular catch, because they realized what he was bringing home when he got within a hundred yards of the house. But they couldn't deter him from bringing in his catch and pelting the fur, even if there was a definite aroma around the house for a few hours. This youthful trapper can get approximately $1.30 for his skunk pelt on the Chicago market.

Evidently this has been a banner year for the opossum families on the farm. The boys trapped a number of them in the game bird yard during the latter part of the summer, and the trapper has caught several of them this fall.

Wild Life Survives.

The trap line that is run each fall on the farm and the use of many live traps around the poultry yard and in the inclosure where the game birds are raised each summer provide an interesting picture of the small animal life on the farm. Despite the fact that most farms within 30 or 35 miles of Chicago are quite intensively cultivated and there are only a few heavily timbered areas compared to the number that existed some years ago, one still may find mink, weasels, opossums, raccoons, and some muskrats in the marshy areas.

The Du Page county farm has many acres of wooded thickets, brushy hedgerows, and other cover, so 'possums, raccoons, and such small animals do not have much trouble in finding shelter and food there. In many parts of the state the raccoon population has declined because the timbered areas no longer have enough old trees that make good dens. This does not hold true on the Du Page county farm, where the woodlots containing big oak, ash, poplar, maple, elm, and wild cherry trees are left pretty much in their natural state. Thus they are attractive to birds as nesting sites and also to small animals.

STORES FEATURE CANNED FOODS IN WEEK-END SALES

Some Fresh Produce Is at Lower Levels.

BY MARY MEADE.

Since eating never goes out of fashion, there's never an end-of-the-season sales on foods. But if there ever were one, it would probably be held the week after Thanksgiving. And there certainly is a city-wide food sale going on this week-end.

Crate after crate of canned goods has been unpacked, marked at special prices, and pushed right up to the front of the shelves. All the more generally used canned foods, such as tomatoes, corn, peas, beans, tomato juice, peaches, apricots, and fruit juices are featured in one store or another.

So that you'll have plenty of time to do your Christmas shopping early, canned, ready made time savers such as chicken à la king, spaghetti with meat balls, and the makings of chop suey are included in the special sales.

Cake Bakers Tempted.

The low prices that some stores have put on baking ingredients will tempt you to whip up a cake or knead out a few rolls for Sunday dinner.

Fresh produce, too, tends to be a little cheaper all around than it was last week.

New cabbage is now being sold almost everywhere. Round heads come from Texas, long, somewhat pointed heads of the Wakefield type, which is sometimes called sugar loaf cabbage, come from South Carolina. Also available are fresh heads of winter cabbage from Oregon and California. All of these varieties may be distinguished from storage cabbage by a somewhat greener appearance and fresher taste. The new cabbage is naturally higher than the old.

Lettuce is up to topnotch quality again and down around nickel-a-head prices. Celery cabbage, or Chinese cabbage as your grocer may call it, is competing with lettuce for your attention as a salad ingredient. It is of very nice quality, generally available, and is quite reasonable.

Other Vegetables Lower.

Boasting lower price tags but still high are green beans, cucumbers, and peas. Best quality in all three is quite expensive. Carrots and cauliflower prices have slipped a trifle.

Except for a slight upping of the price on pears, there is not much change in fruit prices. Winesap apples and tangerines are being a little more widely distributed each week. Those avocados that make such pretty green salads are rather low priced right now.

Now that the last well picked turkey bone is nothing but a memory, the excellent buys over at the meat counter may be of more interest.

Pork Is Best Buy.

All meat men are talking about pork right now. Pork of all kinds, either fresh or smoked in the form of ham or bacon is getting plenty of sale attention. On the whole it is the cheapest meat in the market. Legs of lamb, lamb chops, and shoulder roasts are also good buys.

Beef steaks are fairly reasonable. The tender cuts from the loin are a better buy than round steaks in most cases. Don't overlook pot roast bargains if you're budget minded. Some stores are featuring roasting chickens and if you've still not had your fill of turkey, your butcher can supply it.

PUDDING BRAVES WARTIME PERILS FOR SCOT FEAST

A haggis made in Scotland is on its way to Chicago for the Illinois St. Andrew society's annual Feast of the Haggis tomorrow night in the Stevens hotel. Robert Black, chairman of the entertainment committee, who made the announcement yesterday, is confident the meat and herb pudding has run the gantlet of wartime shipping hazards by this time.

The haggis was dispatched by William Fyffe, Scotch comedian who has supplied the pièce de résistance in former years. This year's feast will be the 94th annual banquet of the society. Proceeds will go to the Scottish Old People's Home in Riverside.

Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the British admiralty, will speak on "The Land We Left." Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will speak on "The Land We Live In." Duff Cooper, accompanied by his wife, the former Lady Diana Manners, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning.

YOU CAN MAKE TOAST THE TOAST OF YOUR FAMILY

These Recipes Adapt It to Every Taste.

Some like it soft and some like it crisp, but every one likes hot, buttered toast to start the day off right. It's a breakfast favorite that probably ranks higher than any other food in early-morning popularity. Since toast is such an adaptable food, it's easy to cater to the individual taste in preparing it.

If the electric toaster is brought right to the table, the toast can be served piping hot without a bit of worry. If it's made in the kitchen, arrange it in overlapping rows, to prevent steaming, cover with a folded napkin and place in a warm oven until ready to serve.

Here It Is—as They Like It.

Dry, crunchy toast: Use bread at least a day old, toast slowly at low heat, and butter each slice as eaten.

Cinnamon toast: Add ½ teaspoon cinnamon to ¼ cup granulated or brown sugar and sprinkle over the buttered toast. Place in broiler to melt the sugar if desired.

Orange toast: Add ½ teaspoon grated orange rind and 2 tablespoons orange juice to ¼ cup sugar. Sprinkle over the buttered slices of toast. For variation, add a dash of cinnamon.

Honey cinnamon toast: Mix equal amount of hot strained honey and butter, and spread on dry toast; sprinkle with cinnamon.

Butterscotch toast: Mix brown sugar with melted butter, spread on toast and place under the broiler until the sugar is melted.

Milk Toast with a Variation.

Milk toast: Sprinkle hot buttered toast lightly with salt and serve with scalded milk, allowing ½ cup for each slice; pour hot milk over toast in cereal bowl or soup plate, or serve milk in hot pitcher.

On toast: Butter slices of toast, removing crusts if desired; arrange on a platter or individual plates, and heap with fluffy scrambled eggs, hot creamed chipped beef, creamed codfish, or creamed finnan haddie. Or serve hot, buttered toast with a separate dish of applesauce, jam, jelly, preserves or marmalade.

TART CRANBERRY HELPS MAKE NEW TASTY RELISHES

Since their versatility has been discovered, cranberries are popping up in new combinations on every dinner table. Their tartness makes them eligible for the very best relishes. You'll like the horseradish and cranberry combination particularly well.

CRANBERRY GINGER RELISH

1 cup molded cranberry sauce, cooked or canned
2 tablespoons chopped candied ginger
3 tablespoons chopped candied orange peel

CRANBERRY HORSERADISH RELISH

¾ cup raw cranberries
⅛ cup freshly grated horseradish

CRANBERRY PINEAPPLE RELISH

1 cup cooked or canned cranberry sauce
¾ cup crushed pineapple, drained

Combine ingredients, mixing well. If too liquid, the cranberry sauce may be partially drained before mixing.

APPLE AND CRANBERRY RELISH

1½ cups quartered apples, unpeeled
1 cup raw cranberries
½ orange, unpeeled

Run all ingredients thru food chopper. Mix well and add sugar to taste, if desired.

Tempting Biscuit Roll

This tempting biscuit roll fits right in with the modern trend to glorify the leftovers. Served with a creamed mushroom sauce, it makes a delicious main dish for the Sunday night supper. To prepare the filling, combine 1¼ cups leftover ground cooked meat, ½ cup gravy, and 1 teaspoon grated horseradish. Spread over biscuit dough, rolled to ¼ inch thickness, and roll up lengthwise, pinching edges of dough together. Cut in slices 1⅓ inches thick and place in buttered baking dish. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about half an hour. Serve hot with creamed mushrooms.

HERE'S A TASTY NEW CAKE MADE WITH MINCEMEAT

Graham Muffins Also Are Delicious.

Hiding under a pie crust is not the only place you'll find mincemeat these days. It gets itself mixed up in cookies, fruit cakes, and all sorts of things. Newest mincemeat delicacies are a quick mince coffee cake and graham muffins. The muffins are made with dry packaged mincemeat, while the canned product is used in the coffee cake.

QUICK MINCE COFFEE CAKE.

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
⅓ cup shortening
2 eggs
½ cup milk
¼ cup creamed mincemeat
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and the sugar. Cut in shortening. Beat one egg slightly and add to milk. Stir into dry ingredients, mixing only enough to moisten. Turn into a greased 8 inch pan. Spread mincemeat over the dough. Beat remaining egg slightly, mix with cream, and pour over mincemeat topping; sprinkle with remaining sugar and cinnamon which have been mixed together. Bake for one hour in a moderately hot [375 degree] oven.

MINCEMEAT-GRAHAM MUFFINS.
[18 small muffins.]

½ cup cold water
¾ cup sifted flour
2½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup sugar
1 cup graham flour
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup milk
2 teaspoons melted butter

Break mincemeat into pieces. Add cold water. Place over heat and stir until all lumps are thoroly broken up. Bring to brisk boil and boil for three minutes, or until almost dry. Cool. Sift flour with baking powder, salt, and sugar and mix with graham flour. Combine egg, milk, and butter and add to flour, stirring until just blended. Fold in cooled mincemeat. Bake in greased muffin pans in a hot [450 degrees] oven for 20 to 25 minutes.

2 teaspoons vanilla
1 cup butter
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
4½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda

Rinse raisins in hot water, drain and dry thoroly on a towel. Rinse candied peel and dry before cutting. Combine raisins, fruit, nuts, fruit juices, and flavoring. PARTIALLY BLIND PUPIL AWARDED PRIZE FOR ESSAY

William King, 19 years old, a partially blind pupil at Wendell Phillips High school, was awarded a $25 prize yesterday as the winner of an Americanism essay contest sponsored by the Kiwanis clubs of Chicagoland. At a meeting of the clubs in the Hotel Sherman, he read his essay, "What Constitutes a True American?" from a copy in Braille. King lives at 119 East 43d street.

Second prize of $10 went to Helen Stankowicz, 17, of Lindblom High. The awards were made by Walter F. Boye, Americanism chairman. Judge John C. Lewe of the Superior court spoke on "The American Way." He asserted that a Christian home is one of the best bulwarks of the American democratic system.

FARMER REFUSES TO CHARGE FIXED PRICE FOR MILK

Pennsylvania Order Is Called Vicious.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 30 (AP).—Robert G. Jackson, a gentleman farmer, challenged the Pennsylvania milk control commission today, vowing he'd go to jail rather than increase his prices. He declined a last chance to obey the commission price regulations and was charged with price cutting on his farm, where a sign advertised cash and carry milk for 30 cents a gallon.

Control Board Supervisor B. W. Harding, who filed the information, said Jackson flatly refused to boost his price for retail sales to 44 cents a gallon required by a new price schedule effective today. Jackson should have sold at 40 cents under the existing schedule.

Calls Law Vicious.

"I know I am breaking the law," said Jackson, who said he kept cattle as a hobby instead of for profit. "This is the first one I've knowingly broken, but it is vicious and should be shown to be wrong.

"If I can cut out the middleman's profit to give my farm a better income and my purchasers, some of whom are very poor, cheaper milk, why should I not be allowed to do it? That is the right of my farm and all other farms and I intend to fight for it."

Dealers Pay Only 22 Cents.

Jackson could have sold to metropolitan milk dealers for approximately 22 cents a gallon. He said that would not support his herd of crossbred Guernsey and Holstein cows and give his farm manager an income upon which he could live. He claimed the board's farm sale price of 44 cents would drive away customers.

RULING EXPECTED TODAY ON 2 MILK CONTAINER SUITS

Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan will rule today on motions for the dismissal of two suits seeking to compel the city council to permit the use of paper containers for milk in Chicago. The suits, similar to that of the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., which is pending before Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman, were brought by the American Can company and the Ex-Cell-O corporation of Detroit.

Lawyers for the city have asked that the actions be quashed on the ground that the ordinance prohibiting paper containers does not concern manufacturers. Attorney Owen Rall, representing Ex-Cell-O, contends that the effect of unfair legislation is the same on both manufacturers and dairies.

The board of health recommendation that the present ordinance be changed to permit use of paper containers has been pigeon holed by the council while the aldermen sit back and await the outcome of the Fieldcrest suit. Attorneys are expected to file their briefs with Master Grossman soon.

Presto! and This Apple Dessert Is on the Table

Probably the simplest apple dessert yet devised is a big bowlful of the shining red fruit set squarely in the center of the table. But this is next easiest. You can also make it with any not-too-sweet apple butter.

APPLE SAUCE WHIP.

2 cups thick apple sauce, sweetened to taste
⅛ teaspoon salt
3 teaspoons lemon juice
Nutmeg

Add salt and lemon juice to the chilled apple sauce. Beat egg whites until very stiff but not dry. Gradually fold in apple sauce. Serve in sherbet glasses and sprinkle each serving lightly with nutmeg.

The Inquiring Reporter

The Question.
Would paper milk containers benefit the store milk trade?

Where Answered.

The Answers.

John P. Duffy, 1003 Rush street, storekeeper—Paper containers would be a lot better for us. There's less breakage, and you don't have to worry about returns and credit. Our business is mostly charge, and at the end of the month we have to average bottle deposits, which is a lot of trouble.

John Purtill, 1133 North State street, storekeeper—We'd like paper bottles better. There would be no bottles to return. We wouldn't have to worry then about that extra penny, or about a place to keep returned bottles. Glass takes up a lot of space. Paper would require less.

Joseph F. O'Donnell, 1051 Rush street, storekeeper—I don't think paper containers would make any difference in this neighborhood. Our business is 95 per cent delivery service. Where customers come in and take milk home, they hate to pay a bottle deposit.

Albert Wallace, 18 West Division street, storekeeper—No, I don't think so. I figure they are going to be a mess. People will want to see the cream line. I haven't seen the cartons, but I think they'll crush, and our loss will be greater than on glass bottles.

Mrs. L. W. Fischmann, 950 Rush street, storekeeper—I think they will benefit the trade. People hate to pay a deposit. It's not so bad with the order trade, but it is terrible with the store trade. Even with customers from whom we don't collect a deposit, we never get the bottles back.

CHILIBURGERS ON CHILLY NIGHT IS WARM FEAST

If you have a hungry crowd of young people to feed some cold evening, ply them with chiliburgers. These big chili filled buns disappear in a hurry at a tableful of husky appetites.

CHILIBURGERS
[1 dozen large buns]

½ cup diced bacon
¼ cup chopped onions
¼ cup diced celery
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon chili powder
2 cups hamburger
1 cup cooked or canned kidney beans
1 cup tomatoes

Broil chopped bacon. Drain and cook onions and celery in the bacon drippings. Add meat and seasonings and brown well. Add remaining ingredients and simmer about 30 minutes, or until rather dry. Serve between large buns with coleslaw and dill pickles.

DEALERS' PRICE IS SET FOR MILK SOLD IN MONTH

Milk delivered to homes in November will cost the dealers $2.08½ per hundred pounds [46½ quarts]. This price was fixed yesterday by the federal milk market administrator's office for the Chicago area. The price the farmer will receive will not be determined until Dec. 12, when a computation of prices paid for all milk sold in this area will be made.

N. J. Cladakis, milk administrator here, announced a reduction of 15 cents in the differential used in fixing prices paid by dealers. The reduction will become effective today and will continue until May 1.

It was estimated that the reduction in prices paid by dealers will amount to 7 per cent if the butter and cheese markets do not advance during the next five month period. Dealers, however, were of the belief that there would be no change in the price of milk to the retail consumer.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a bus jumper. They leave just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car—all occupants murdered and the three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road to stop their pursuit. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked local assayer, tests Dillon's ore, and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another rascal, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel, and who had staked him; then goes off to collect his kit. Arriving at Pat's hotel Leonard doesn't get a chance to ask her about Dillon. He sees her slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and locate his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old tracksman, on the trail. Taylor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his crime. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car—her old Chinese servant clings to the spare tire. Leonard goes to see Mrs. Sebastian and walks into a trap set to capture him. Mestres is hobnobbing with one of the bandits and Mrs. Sebastian pretends not to know him. Leonard escapes only to accept a lift from bandit and be turned over to the Mexican police, but Mestres rescues him.

INSTALMENT XVII.

A TRUSTED GUIDE.

"I wish I could tell you more," said Mestres to Leonard, "but even if it were possible this is not the time. There are things to do; the police car is half way back to town already; there will be a search, of course, and we must get out of this. You are staying in Golconda?"

"At the hotel in the Old Town."

"Then you must disappear," Mestres bade him. "There is as much danger for you there as here. There is more, maybe. That American with El Teniente, he is the chief of police in Golconda."

"My car is there," Leonard explained, "and my bags. I'd planned to drive out in the morning to look at some claims. I've an idea that I'd be wise if I made the trip tonight."

"But first, to get to the hotel," Mestres reminded him, "it may not be so easy. They will be watching the road for you. And that brings me to think——" he raised his hand above his head and waved it.

The man who came out of the darkness was as large as the lieutenant of police, but he was all bone and muscle. He was wearing one of those steep-crowned straw hats which are the universal headgear of Mexican laborers. He was without a coat, and his flimsy shirt was open at the chest, the hair that showed there was as thick as a dog's coat. A broad leather belt studded with silver bosses held his worn overalls, and his feet were shod with rawhide sandals. He looked like an ugly rendition of Pancho Villa. Mestres addressed him in the border Spanish.

"This is Señor Leonard. He is my friend and yours." He made the presentation with a gravity that was pure Castilian and a flourish that was altogether French. The big man grinned and held forth his hand, and while Leonard grasped it, Mestres told him:

"Plutarcho is his name. He will take us to his home and we will wait there while he goes to find out how we shall get you across the line. He drove this car for me."

Plutarcho's grin widened.

The dwelling of the wood peddler was by itself, just outside the village. A hedge of thorny ocatilla stems, set so thickly that a jackrabbit would find it difficult to pass thru, surrounded a yard of beaten earth, where several burros stood with heads drooping in the shadows. The house was made of adobe bricks. Plutarcho opened the door.

"My home," he said. "It is your home." He followed his two guests inside, deposited two carbines in a corner, and lighted a kerosene lamp. "I will come soon." Then he departed, and presently the humming of the motor grew fainter outside. There were three homemade chairs, a wooden table, a bed, and a kitchen stove, and there was a wooden crucifix on the wall at the head of the bed. The room was clean. They seated themselves, and Louis Mestres rolled a cigaret with nimble fingers.

"It is this way," he said. "Plutarcho is not in the combination. You understand—not one of those who divide their profits with officials on both sides of the line. It is for this reason that he must know more than these others do, for he works alone; they do not like him."

He saw Leonard regarding him closely and shrugged his shoulders.

"You are wondering how it happened tonight? It was simple. In the first place, my friend, Mrs. Sebastian spoke to you this afternoon asking you to come and see her before you talked with any one. And there was one who overheard."

"I remember now," Leonard said. "There was a girl——"

"There was a girl." Mestres nodded. "And Mrs. Sebastian, she is wise, she knows her business. So she did not wait for the police to come to her, she went to them. It is not the first time she has gone to them; there is, of course, an understanding. She said maybe they would like to find you, and that you were coming to the Casa Verdi. And then she sent the word to me. That is the whole of it."

It was, Leonard reflected, far from being the whole of it. But it was all the information that he was going to get from Louis Mestres, he was sure of that. He said:

"I'm in your debt. And hers. Deeply."

"It is," Mestres reminded him dryly, "not the time to talk of thanks. You are not thru with this business yet, you know."

"Nevertheless," Leonard reiterated, "I've good reason to be grateful. If you hadn't found out what was going to be done with me, and if you hadn't been on hand just when you were——"

"That," Mestres interrupted, "was very easy. The light behind Plutarcho and me, and in their eyes. We could have killed the three of them." He laughed, but his eyes had turned color; they were as hard as stones. "And they needed killing, those three. My conscience would have been untroubled."

He glanced obliquely at Leonard as if he perhaps felt that he had let his feeling get a bit the best of him, and he changed the subject abruptly.

"You say you are going to see a mine. It would be better if you got into that car of yours and drove straight back to El Paso."

"No," Leonard said, "there's a friend waiting for me. And I've an idea this means a lot to him. I'm not going to throw him down. And anyhow, I'm not going to let a bunch of crooks run me out of the neighborhood."

He was thinking that it seemed like a long time since he had recalled his errand here; so many things had happened. He was still reviewing the various lively events that had taken place since he had stopped for gas at the store in Copper City, when the door opened and Plutarcho stood on the threshold.

"We will go now," he bade them.

The burros were lying down when they passed thru the yard; they were black lumps in the gray night. There were a few lights still burning in the village. Plutarcho led the way and the other two followed him thru the sparse greasewood. The only sound was the soft thudding of their feet on the dry earth. The stars were large above them; they shed a glow like faint moonlight.

The house of the wood peddler was at the southern end of the town and the route which they were taking led into the west. When they had walked beyond the last houses, they turned toward the boundary. So for another half mile, and then the guide halted.

"They have sent out the word," he said, "and they are watching the roads, the one which leads to the Old Town and the other which passes the customs. But there is another way and it is not guarded. It lies just before us." He pointed toward the north star, and they saw the black hulk of a building standing alone in the middle of the bare flat.

"You see this house? It is the place where those come who smoke marihuana. And those who carry the drug across the line to sell it in Golconda. There is no one to watch them. That, señores, is taken care of, you understand. This trail is not guarded. But, when you pass the house, it must be that you do not make any sound. For they do not like me, these people here."

Early Settlers Get Credit for First Pumpkin Pie

Altho Asia and Africa claim the pumpkin as a native plant, the early settlers of New England were the first to discover the goodness of the traditional pumpkin pie. It was made with no crust at all, but baked right in the shell for six or seven hours, with milk, sugar, and spices for flavoring. The recipe gradually was perfected until pumpkin pie attained its present position of importance in holiday meals.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Evening Is All They Spend

Salad of Seasonable Fruits

Proof that the best salads don't always bloom in summer is this green taste teaser of avocado slices, nut stuffed prunes, orange and grapefruit segments, chicory and lettuce. All fruits used are seasonable and low priced at present. Serve a French dressing with this salad.

STUFFING MAKES APPLES DESSERT OR A SIDE DISH

Baked stuffed apples become dessert or meat accompaniment, depending entirely on the stuffing. Sometimes the apples are cored so thoroly that only a half inch shell of apple is left to serve as a holder for some other food.

DESSERT APPLE STUFFINGS: Mincemeat, sprinkled with brown sugar; chopped dates combined with an equal amount of crushed pineapple and topped with half a marshmallow; chopped prunes mixed with pineapple; pineapple mixed with a very small amount of finely chopped candied or preserve ginger; raisins and a small amount of candied orange peel, or grated orange rind and topped with brown sugar.

STUFFINGS FOR MEAT ACCOMPANIMENT: Mashed sweet potatoes, topped with brown sugar or marshmallow; cranberry sauce, canned or cooked, sprinkled with brown sugar; mashed sweet potatoes sprinkled with sherry wine; brown sugar and butter creamed together and spiced lightly with cinnamon; currant jelly, raisins and nuts.

The apples should be firm and uniformly sized. Red varieties, such as Jonathans and McIntoshes have a lovely color when baked. Core the apples and peel around the top or peel half way down. Stuff and place in shallow baking pan. Cover the bottom of the pan with hot water. Cover the apples during baking or baste occasionally with the sirup in the pan. Use a moderately hot to hot over [375 to 400 degrees] and bake until tender, about 30 to 40 minutes.

ADDING TOMATO SOUP IMPROVES AN OYSTER STEW

If a little variety will increase your appreciation of oyster stew, try adding tomato soup. This is how it is done.

TOMATO-OYSTER STEW.
[Serves 8 to 10.]

1 quart oysters [with oyster liquor]
1 slice onion, minced
¼ cup butter
2½ teaspoons salt
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 cups milk
1 can concentrated tomato soup

Cut oysters in pieces, if desired. Cook together with onion in butter in top of double boiler until edges curl. Add flour and seasoning mixed to a smooth paste with a little cold milk. Add to oysters, mixing well. Add remaining milk and cook until sauce thickens. Add tomato soup, heat thru and serve.

Coffee Flavor Is Great in This Beige Parfait

Any one who has tasted and enjoyed coffee flavoring in puddings, sauces, or gelatin desserts will find this beige parfait especially good. To make this attractive frozen dessert, boil together one cup of freshly made double strength coffee and one cup of sugar for about 10 minutes. Beat four eggs slightly, and then add the coffee sirup slowly, beating constantly. Cook in a double boiler until the mixture thickens. When cool, fold in two cups of whipped cream, place in a refrigerator, and freeze about four hours.

THIS RECIPE REMOVES UNDESIRABLE TEXTURE FROM BAKED SQUASH

Many a man who turns up his nose at squash would like this vegetable better if something were done about its soft, slushy texture. This recipe turns the trick:

BAKED SQUASH WITH NUT TOPPING.

3 cups cooked squash, mashed
1 tablespoon melted butter
1 tablespoon brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
3 tablespoons cream
½ cup buttered toasted crumbs
1 cup chopped roasted peanuts

Beat squash and fold in butter, sugar, seasonings, cream, crumbs, and half the peanuts. Spread in buttered baking dish and sprinkle with remaining peanuts. Bake for 10 or 15 minutes in a moderate [350 degrees] oven.

Yuletide Cards Put the Stress on Sentimental

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Rebellious card connoiseurs sleuthing for waggish cartoons and brittle wise cracks are hereby warned . . . the season's greetings have gone sentimental. Not since the sticky era of complicated clusters of curlicues have there been so many chunky cherubs, blonde angel babies or so many delicate pink, blue and white cards.

Engaging toothless rascals and tough little tomboys with pigtails are as rare as a wittily barbed but exhilarating wish inscribed thereon for the enjoyment of kindred souls during the holidays. There isn't a discordant note of levity anywhere . . . and how some people are going to be let down.

Five, ten, and 25 cent cards certainly offer everything from sentiment to decoration with the ten centers rating top place. For originality, effective colors, size and general all-purpose pleasure you can't beat these. Next in favor the many stunning red cards in reverse; that is, the cards of a good heart warming red with some exceptionally beautiful designs in white. . . . Until you've seen these eye-catching beauties you can't appreciate how effective this contrast is. . . . See the one with white trees that looks like an expensive etching!

You don't need to be rabidly patriotic to cheer for the American series. . . . those gay bright ideas designed by famous American contemporary artists, depicting the American wit, the American way of living and having fun. Dog cards in this series are a particular delight; so are the landscapes and the personage cards with mustachioed gents and bustled ladies cavorting around an overtrimmed Christmas tree. Snow scenes live up to the most forgotten blizzard, they've piled up drifts in a good old midwestern manner.

Masculine cards are plentiful, conservative, and with safe sentiments. They have a sturdiness that should click with men. There is one good dog card among these, with a possible second choice . . . the first one with five handsome hunting dogs sniffing the air on a deep beige card, the second with floppy eared pups each with a feeding bowl. Otherwise the dogs have been shamefully neglected.

What will tickle a lot of people are the feathered cards . . . sounding a bit fantastic, they are just that. The feathers are tiny long waving strands fastened in gay hats. One ingratiating young imp with bangs wears such a confection with the feather directly in front.

Boxed cards come in dozen or two dozen assortments, each different and complete with envelopes.

There is a large section filled with cards for children to send to other small tikes, a lot of kittens and puppies that only a small child will properly like . . . the money containers are better, but not bigger than ever. Since they've sunk the gold supply, rustling scraps of paper can be sent in what are merely glorified slits or fancy envelopes. The bright tints and good looking decorations will probably not be noticed until the fine green color of inclosure has been appraised.

★ THRU THE LOOKING GLASS ★

For that woman on your shopping list who loathes faddish things but loves the best in all things there is a French "stimulant de la peau" that makes a distinctive gift.

Ordinarily there couldn't be much distinction about a skin stimulant or a bath refreshant with no claim to a well known perfume. But there is to this one. It's a charming little luxury, used as a fine cologne would be, but quite different in character.

It's a distillation of what we're told are the softest, greenest herbs blended with the 40 year old alcohol that is used in making cognac. The bland, pure alcohol and the herbal mixture do make a most unusual bath refreshant.

There is practically no scent, but the pleasure of using the lotion as a body rub is very real for several reasons. It's cooling and warming at the same time. It refreshes and soothes at the same time. And it makes your skin feel wonderfully clean and "well dressed."

It comes in four sizes in beautiful mottled French blue porcelain jugs, each with a tricolor ribbon round its neck and a bright seal of red wax. It's one of those small, completely perfect presentations that the French can work out so superbly.

The most fastidious women we know are the women for whom we'd check this. It has the virtues of being different, rare [this is its first appearance in this country] and utterly charming as a bath glorifier.

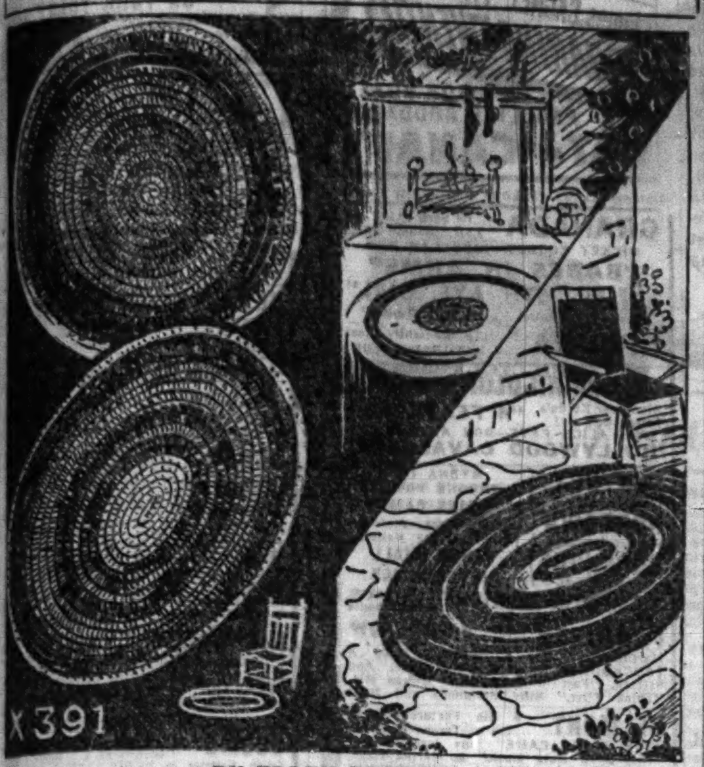
Attractive Crocheted Rug



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

May we always find new ways in which to crochet attractive rugs! The style today is one which is worked over a heavy wrapping hemp, with double strands of carpet warp as the covering. They may be crocheted in round or oval shapes, with three shades of carpet warp, ranging from a light center thru to a dark border, or with two contrasting shades of carpet warp, creating an interesting mottled effect that blends with the room's color scheme.

For instructions in crocheting the rug of wrapping hemp and carpet warp, No. X-391, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Diplomacy Is Best Weapon Against Dad

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

So many 14, 15 and 16 year old girls have written this department recently "complaining" about their parents' "mean" refusal to let them go to dances and parties with boys that we feel it is time for us to give mention in this column to this really important problem, before a major upheaval in the family equilibrium occurs, perhaps with disastrous consequences.

Girls of this age should try to understand their parents a little better, for their parents are their best friends, and will stick by them, come what may. They should understand that dad and mom will always look upon their daughter as a little girl, no matter how old she grows, sometimes even when she marries and has a home and family of her own. This is only natural, so it is a wise daughter who realizes this, accepts this fact, and "gets around" the situation diplomatically.

A heart-to-heart talk with mother and father is the best way to iron out misunderstandings. So often, parents' refusal to let their daughter date boys is based on the fear she may lose her head where boys are concerned, and get into all sorts of love entanglements which might ruin either her reputation or her happiness. Because of her inexperience in love they want to protect her, and the only way they know how to do this is to refuse to let her have dates.

If the daughter is as grown-up as she thinks she is, she will discuss, not argue, any differences of opinion, and be willing to compromise in the situation. She will make dad and mom her pals and confidants. She will want them to meet her friends so that when she receives a nice party invitation they will not hesitate to let her accept, because they know her friends are nice boys and gorls. She will inspire confidence by coming home from the party at the time her parents insist upon, instead of staying out later than they they think she should.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

The Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 30.—It's been rather a big week out here, what with the Tyrone Power cocktail party to the Charles Boyers, plus the previews of "Destry Rides Again" and "The Great Victor Herbert." . . . Director George Marshall turned in a swell job on the Marlene Dietrich-Jimmy Stewart flicker, and it should be a big grosser. . . . Mrs. Oscar Serlin off to Chicago to see her hubby about a settlement. . . . The Howard [RKO] Benedicts flying out to New York.

The W. C. Fields-Mae West picture looks like the comedy smash of the year. . . . No picture ever got off under such unfavorable auspices, because both of them insisted on top billing and both insisted on writing their own material. . . . For some reason, not far removed from vanity, these two veterans would rather get screen credit for writing the story of a picture than for appearing in it. . . . The results at times have been terrible to behold, because neither should be permitted to do more than spell "C-A-T."

This time, however, the main row was over billing. . . . Mae refused to appear in the picture unless the advertisments read: "Mae West and W. C. Fields." . . . Fields was adamant in his insistence that she must defer to "W. C. Fields and Mae West." . . . The studio, unable to move buxom Miss West, pleaded with Fields to capitulate. . . . "Look, Bill," they told him, "ladies always go first. If you address an audience you say 'Ladies and gentlemen,' don't you?"

Fields was overwhelmed by this argument and gave in. . . . At 10 o'clock that night he called Matty Fox, Universal vice president. . . . "When you introduce a married couple," thundered Fields, "you say 'Mr. and Mrs.', don't you?"

The Garbo Lady Is New Person in 'Ninotchka'

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

You know Greta Garbo, you say?

Aha! You just THINK you know her.

In "Ninotchka" the Garbo runs completely UNtrue to form. She kids, she laughs, she sloughs off Russian inhibitions as a snake does its skin, emerging all softly amorous—ready for love and HOW! AND there is occasion when she drinks not wisely but too well. . . . Well, well.

That so gay Paree, you see, gets under the skin of this young Russian commissar, sent to the French capital for the purpose of checking up on the activities of three Stalinites who have been commissioned to close a deal with the courts, re the legal ownership of some crown jewels.

Ninotchka arrives, tight lipped and hard headed. She fixes a cold eye on the perspiring comrades who have been being naughty, playful, neglectful boys, and settles down to audit their accounts and make life miserable for them.

And then—she runs afoul of that be-yew-tiful Leon! That gay Leon. That suave boulevardier, Leon, who knows so well what every woman wants and just how she wants it. And this beautiful, gay, suave, clever Leon really goes off the deep end for her.

Ninotchka's transformation from a dour machine into a warm and charming woman is an intriguing process to behold, and I think you will agree with me that Miss Garbo plays ball magnificently with her rôle.

Melvyn Douglas, who can usually be counted on to give a smooth performance, doesn't disappoint as Leon. He has, as you know, plenty of what it takes in both looks and ability. . . . Ina Claire sparkles as Grand Duchess Swana, former owner of the jewels, and the three comrades are amusingly impersonated by Ruman, Bressart, and Granach. All players are able.

The picture is smartly staged, costumed, and photographed. Brainy direction by Ernst Lubitsch—tho I do think he let the film drag out too long.

[It seems to me I'm ALWAYS kicking about the length of films. But prolixity does take the bloom off—no getting around that.]

Also on the United Artists screen is a most potent "short." It is titled "Drunk Driving" and brings its lesson home in a manner that will never be forgotten by those who witness the film. It should be seen by all drivers of automobiles and anybody who ever expects to drive one.

See you tomorrow.

Maude Hutchins' Oils.

Friends have seen little of slim, lovely, dark-eyed Maude Phelps Hutchins, wife of the president of the University of Chicago, this year. Most of the day—in her studio in the president's house on the south side or last summer in Maine—she worked at her easel, doing her first oil painting. The results of her year will be shown when her paintings go on exhibit next week, Dec. 7, at the Quest galleries.

* * *

One of her few new oils any one has seen is the canvas, Sleeping Girl, which hangs above the mantel in the library of Mrs. Byron S. Harvey's apartment at 1100 Lake Shore drive, a recent acquisition. An excitingly beautiful picture, we thought, with the fine draftsmanship Maude Hutchins is noted for in her drawings exemplified in pure color. Mrs. Hutchins, essentially an intellectual painter, apparently is as sure with her brush as with her pencil. The picture, which really is a portrait, will be included in the exhibition, as will several other portraits and interiors, 22 oils in all. The one piece of sculpture to be shown is a head of Miss Gertrude Lawrence.

Lily Pons Is Ill; Make Changes in Opera Plans

BY CECIL SMITH.

An attack of laryngitis has forced Lily Pons to cancel her scheduled appearances with the Chicago City Opera company tonight and Sunday evening. In place of "Lakmé" tonight Wagner's "Tristan and Isolde" will be presented. Kirsten Flagstad will sing Isolde, despite the fact that she will also appear in "Die Walküre" tomorrow evening. Her chief associates will be Carl Hartmann, Enid Szantho, George Czaplicki, and Douglas Beattie. Edwin McArthur will conduct.

Dusolina Giannini will take Miss Pons' place in the Sunday evening opera benefit concert. Because of Mr. Czaplicki's extra assignment tonight, Carlo Morelli will take over the rôle of Amonasro from him in tomorrow afternoon's "Aïda."

Under the baton of Henry Weber Smetana's gleaming folk opera, "The Bartered Bride," was restored last night after three years The performers sang in English with a high average of intelligibility. Some passages, such as "I know a honey with lots of money; I know a daisy who'll drive you crazy," would be preferable in Czech.

Tho the performance cried aloud for a stage director who could keep it from descending into mere musical comedy, the last act circus scene, with Robert Ringling as a racy master of ceremonies, made a great hit. Anthony Marlowe made his stuttering half-wit a hilarious comic figure. Hilda Burke sang charmingly. Douglas Beattie projected well, tho he had not a very discriminating feeling for the character of the Czech marriage broker. Joseph Bentonelli was also in the cast.

Francescatti—The Grand Manner

BY EDWARD BARRY.

When Zino Francescatti made his Chicago debut last Tuesday he concealed the more spectacular side of his genius by playing one of Mozart's modest violin concerts. Last night he reappeared with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall under Frederick Stock's direction and revealed all the brilliance and glitter that we associate with the age of Paganini.

In that composer's D major concerto Mr. Francescatti betrayed a technical skill which suggested that he, like Paganini, is in league with Satan. The double-stopping in the cadenza of the first movement was obviously done with supernatural aid. So were the silvery rains of notes in the rondo.

The violinist was applauded so enthusiastically that he was compelled to play Paganini's variations on "God Save the King" as an encore. With the audience still unsatisfied he added a Paganini caprice.

It was not alone by the bigness of his technique that Mr. Francescatti kindled ancestral memories of the grand manner of fiddle playing. He has a way of giving a phrase great breadth and importance, of making a statement of a theme seem like the pronouncement of a magnifico.

Mr. Stock and his men prefaced Mr. Francescatti's half of the program with Balakireff's overture on the theme of a Spanish march and Glière's "Ilia Mourometz" symphony. The latter, whose climaxes are probably the loudest in the répertoire, was as stunning a show as ever.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

Mrs. C., on the south side of the city, is anxious to find a large size stroller for her young son. The child, 4 years old, was recently burned so seriously that he probably will never be able to walk. The family is on relief, and the mother has no means of getting the youngster outdoors.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Bridge players should take a leaf from the book of their closest kin, the military lords. In warfare, which bridge resembles so amazingly, one of the greatest of all struggles is to maintain lines of communication between mutually dependent units. In bridge the same pains should be taken by partners—to preserve at all cost communication plays from one hand to the other.

East, in today's hand, was sadly lacking in military strategy.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 spade	Pass	2 hearts	3 diam.
3 spades	4 diam.	Pass	Pass
Pass

West opened the spade king and, when East played the three spot, shifted immediately to the nine of hearts. This was excellent defense on West's part, but unfortunately East failed to coöperate. He went right up with the heart ace and, after that, there was no possible chance to defeat the four diamond contract. Actually East returned a spade [not that any other return would have made a difference], declarer ruffed, drew trumps in two leads, then laid down the ace and a low club. West won with the king and declarer claimed the balance. He could easily throw his losing heart on one of dummy's clubs.

It will be observed that if West had attempted to cash two rounds of spades at the outset the defense would have blown up then and there; that is, declarer would have ruffed, drawn trumps, and established clubs before losing his heart control. But, after West's good shift to the heart nine, defeat of the contract would have been inevitable if East had used his head a bit. Several facts should have been apparent. One, that in view of West's spade rebid, there was a distinct chance that he held a seven card suit, in which case only one spade trick would be available to the defenders. Second, and most important, if declarer had three hearts and West only two, it would be vital to knock out declarer's heart stopper immediately in order to leave a heart in West's hand for communication purposes after his presumable club stopper was removed. From East's point of view it did not matter whether West had the club ace or the club king. Surely he could not have both, in view of the bidding. Moreover, there was no chance that South might have the heart king blank because, in that case, West would have had four and would have led his fourth highest. Thus, all these facts considered, the proper play for East, at the second trick, was the heart eight or ten. At any rate, not the ace. South's king would have been knocked out immediately and later, when West regained the lead with his club king, he would simply return his remaining heart and East would cash the ace and queen for the defeat of the contract.

A New Racquet Club Will Hold Preview Today

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

The Racquet club, which as a men's club has been part of Chicago's social life for sixteen years, makes its debut today as a family club. Its place in the city's social scheme will be one of far more importance than ever before, for now it is a smart, sophisticated place in which both men and women can meet for all sorts of social and athletic activities.

Today from 4 until 7 o'clock there will be a preview for members of the newly remodeled and redecorated building at Dearborn and Schiller streets. Those who go in the main entrance will start their gasps of amazement and admiration the moment they step into the main hall, for it is vastly changed. The walls are a rich prune color; the woodwork and most of the furniture, white; the draperies of rough white material edged with narrow fringe in a redder shade than the walls.

The side lighting fixtures will catch the eye at once, for they are stunning, being of plaster white in a rococo design. In reality they are old gilt ones found in New York by Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman, who with Miss Cornelia Conger is responsible for the beautiful decorations. Philip Maher was the architect in charge of the remodeling.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf has planned today's party and also the opening ball on Dec. 16. She has asked a large group of members' wives to help this afternoon, including Mrs. Charles S. Pike [whose husband is a former president and now a governor], Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. James C. Hutchins, Mrs. Edison Dick, Mrs. Byron S. Harvey, Mrs. James H. Douglas, Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody, Mrs. John Root, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. Donald Douglas, Mrs. Gordon Kelley, Mrs. John M. Simpson, Mrs. Charles G. King, Mrs. Peter Moon, and Mrs. Edward Byron Smith.

To the left of the main hall is the old Pine room, kept as it was, a sort of memorial to Rue Winterbotham Carpenter, who decorated it. The room now is a cocktail lounge and a very comfortable, pleasant one it is with its green leather and chintz covered chairs and sofas, low Tyrolean tables, and green leather screens.

Off it is the Washington room, formerly a private dining room and now a card room. Mr. and Mrs. Pike gave the paper for this unusual room. It is entirely hand painted from a design by Nancy McClelland made during the Washington Bi-Centennial. The Powder room, Victorian in feeling, will delight every woman with its intriguing color scheme of magenta, chartreuse, and sky blue.

Upstairs there is an Empire green and white hall that is breath takingly lovely. The club trophies in a glass case against a background of the vivid green has the place of honor opposite the top of the stairs. On each side are two white tubs holding green trees and a white leather settee with black nailheads the size of dimes. Above each settee is an octagonal mirror. The settees are copied from MacQuoid's Dictionary of English Furniture. The floor is of black and white marble in 2 foot squares.

On the landing of the stairs are some of the famous prints that Mr. Pike has given to the club. The main lounge, which will be used as the ballroom, is a restful but striking room, nevertheless. The walls are of bleached walnut and the draperies of rose beige. They were designed and woven especially for the room by Dorothy Liebes of San Francisco. The rugs are almost the same color as the draperies, not quite so rich in color, and the furniture is mostly brown or beige. Two of the chairs are covered with zebra striped brown and beige, and enough pieces are upholstered in salmon pink to give the room a dashing note of color. The coffee tables are low and spacious, some of wood and some of mirrors. In each of the four corners of the huge room is a huge vase of white magnolias, giving more relief from the tones of brown and beige.

The main dining room was not in a state to be seen by any but workmen yesterday, but a private dining room and card room on the second floor could be glimpsed, even tho a paper hanger, a Venetian blind hanger, and various other persons were working in it. As a matter of fact, there were workmen all over the club until late last evening and a dozen scrubwomen worked all night to get the place into condition.

The little dining room and card room in English regency in style, with white blinds, gold silk draperies, black and gold chairs, and accents of the same rich empire green that is seen in the hall.

The men, who now will use the entrance that used to be for women, have their own lounge, dining room, and locker rooms.

A. Watson Armour III. is the club president; Ralph J. Hines, the vice president; John D. Ames, the treasurer, and Preston Boyden, the secretary.

SIZES

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Shirring plays an important rôle in this simple daytime dress that makes up well in crêpe, satin, silk prints, and sheer woolen. The neckline may be round or V, a grand background for your costume jewelry. The shirring beneath the shoulder yoke lends softness to the bodice, which tops a slim waistline and a moderately full skirt. The sleeves may be long or short.

Style No. 2680 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred — wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Child Demands Signs of Love from Parents

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

She was a loving aunt, who ran the household for her sister and children, the children's father having died and the mother carrying on his business.

In the evening the two sisters would talk over the day's happenings.

"I didn't finish your blouse after all," the loving aunt would say to her sister—or perhaps it would be going over the bills and making out checks she hadn't been able to manage, or working on her short fiction, or shopping for slip covers. "Tod came into my room just as I was putting in the sleeves again—pesky things—and sprawled out on the bed and began to talk. It was one of those times—you know—so I just put down my sewing and we chinned and chinned. He just opens up at a time like that —O well, you know how it is, or at least how it used to be when you were home all the time."

Her sister looked at her. "Thank heaven for you, dear," she said. "Give me the old blouse—I'll do the sleeves tonight."

There's one thing children can't get along on, and that is fag ends or tag ends of your time. Neither can they be tucked in only when other more important [to you] work or affairs have been taken care of. Their ways and thoughts and yearnings and needs are spontaneous things. Your response to them must be as spontaneous. If you're not aware of this, you'll find various vague sorts of hitches and rubs developing.

You see, children need a lot of warmth, of love that they're conscious of, of feeling that they're important enough so that your sweeping and dusting and baking and all your other concerns don't seem always and eternally to come first.

The Housewife

No matter what your bedroom color scheme, you can have attractive thermos sets, cleansing tissue containers, soap flakes containers, and waste baskets painted to match. We saw a charming array of them, all done in light yellow, the other day. They were really beautiful accessories.

They are not cheap, because they're all done by hand. They make lovely gifts or bridge prizes. And they have that individuality that makes for distinction.

Throng Cheers Huge Gains in Charity Drive

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

Luncheon tables in the Louis XVI. room of the Hotel Sherman were crowded yesterday with business men who watched tabulations on a blackboard with the enthusiasm usually reserved for the alma mater's homecoming game. The fire alarm bell clanged six times, signifying the equivalent of that number of touchdowns.

It was the super report meeting of the industrial division of the Community Fund, both from point of attendance and the amount of contributions reported. About 500 were there. All but two of the 68 committees answered the roll call. They reported subscriptions of $844,414. Mark A. Brown, the chairman, beamed, told jokes, chided the laggards and praised those who deserved it.

At the last meeting, two weeks ago, total subscriptions of $1,981,836 were reported. With yesterday's returns the figure for all divisions stands at $2,826,250. The goal is $3,611,000.

Also present was the women's division, whose report was presented by the chairman, Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence. In the last two weeks the women have raised $88,273.

The bell rang first for Irving J. Solomon, chairman for the brewers, whose report of $8,663 completed his committee's quota of $13,000, with a slight margin to spare. Next were the cigar and tobacco dealers, whose chairman is R. E. Riemenschneider. The quota was oversubscribed by 7 per cent, with a total of $6,336. W. W. Kolbe, chairman for the confectioners, touched off the bell with a report of $11,263, which raised his total to $30,093.

Fourth to ring the bell was Walter E. Roth, chairman for the laundries, with a report of $3,250, 150 per cent over the quota which bettered last year's record by 30 per cent. Daniel M. Gutmann's report of $2,815 brought the leather goods men 4 per cent over their quota with $11,308.

R. L. Milligan rang the bell for petroleum with $5,909, raising his division's subscriptions to $11,723.

VOTE NILE KINNICK IOWA'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYER

34 Mates Make It Unanimous.

Honor Roll

SEVEN Western conference football players have been named by teammates as most valuable to their teams and are in the running for The Tribune's 16th annual most valuable player award. Those named are:

Iowa—Nile Kinnick, half back.

Indiana—James Logan, guard.

Minnesota—Harold Van Every, half back.

Michigan—Tom Harmon, half back.

Illinois—Bill Lenich, center.

Purdue—Frank Bykowski, guard.

Chicago—Robert Wasem, half back.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 30 [Special].—Nile Clarke Kinnick Jr., left half back on the University of Iowa football team, today enjoyed an honor he had termed the greatest tribute a football player could receive—recognition of his teammates as the most valuable player of the squad.

In the balloting for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S most valuable player award 34 men voted. Every ballot was cast for Kinnick. Kinnick himself did not vote, as he has not returned to the university since he was hurt in the final game of the season against Northwestern in Evanston last Saturday.

Leads Hawkeyes' Climb.

During the 1939 season Nile was the spearhead of an attack that carried Iowa from eighth place in the conference standings to second place and a place among the leaders of the nation's football teams. He passed, ran, punted, blocked, and was one of the finest defensive safety men in the conference.

He scored five touchdowns personally, running sixty-five yards for Iowa's first one against South Dakota, and then adding two more of thirteen yards and four yards in the same game; plunged from the 3 yard line against Indiana after setting up the scoring thrust with a fifty-five yard run, and smacked Notre Dame's right tackle for a three yard touchdown plunge to give Iowa its most important victory of the year.

Nile Is Versatile.

As an indication of his versatility, Kinnick, normally a left half back, switched to the right half back position in order to run against the right side of the Notre Dame line. He ran the ball 106 times for a total of 374 yards, or an average of 3.52 yards per try.

In addition to his ball carrying, Kinnick completed 33 passes during a season which saw Iowa throwing only one pass against Notre Dame. Eleven of these completed passes were good for touchdowns, three coming in each of the South Dakota, Indiana, and Wisconsin games, two against Minnesota, and one against Michigan.

Kinnick punted 73 times, averaging thirty-nine yards, an average which undoubtedly would have been much higher were it not for the fact he continually kept the opposition in the hole with out of bounds kicks inside the 10 yard line.

Stars in Classroom.

With all his football ability, Kinnick is at the same time one of the best students enrolled in the university. At present his grade point average is 3.3. The average for the entire university is 2. Perhaps Dr. Edward N. Anderson, the Iowa coach, gives the most apt description of him. "He is the best football player I have ever coached," said the coach. "It's a pleasure to work with him."

THE GUMPS—A NOTE FOR MIN

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

LEON RAINS, chairman of the Pennsylvania boxing commission, has been quoted in press dispatches as saying that the fight between Emil Scholz and Patrick Edward Comiskey in Philadelphia Monday night was a fake. . . . The important angle of his remarks is that dishonesty in professional boxing has become so apparent that even eastern commissioners are beginning to detect it. . . . University of Iowa alumni in Des Moines presented Frank Carideo and Jim Harris, assistant coaches, with new cars. . . . Eddie Anderson, their boss, previously had been given a handsome new bus by Hawkeye enthusiasts. . . . Anderson, Carideo, Harris, and six members of the Iowa team attended the Newton, Ia., High school football banquet Tuesday night. . . . Max Krause, assistant coach of the Washington Redskins, says George McAfee, Duke university back, is the best college football player he has seen in two years. . . . Babe Dahlgren, Yankee first baseman, used to get good high school grades by peeking over the shoulder of Josephine Graco. . . . Now they are married. Eddie Tolan, former Olympic sprint champion, is aiding in organization of a Negro international exposition to be held next May in Detroit. . . . Dixie Walker, former White Sox outfielder, has been with five different clubs the last eight years, yet always has shared in bonus money at the end of the season. . . . His take for that time is approximately $7,713. . . . However, he missed the big plum, the Yankees' finishing no better than second the three seasons he was with them.

Helper Dan Desmond of the Sioux City Journal calls to our attention the coaching record of Les Davis, former Morningside athlete, at Sioux City's East High school. . . . During the last four seasons his teams have won 31, lost two, and tied three. . . . The present victory skein has been stretched to 24 in a row. . . . The Chicago Bruins of the National Basketball league will play college rules except that five personal fouls instead of four will be allowed before a player is ejected from the game. . . . Harry Stuhldreher's banquet itinerary this month will take him 4,000 miles. . . . The National Football league had 21 teams in 1926 and only 8 in 1932.

Still You Dream.

Another day has passed and still you dream
Of golden hours in some yesterday—
Across your mind the careless memories play
And so time passed by. Bright was the gleam
That kindled first in your eyes long ago
When we did meet, two dreamers cherishing
Safe in our hearts against time's perishing
We had, against the world, a bright defense

College Station, Tex. Nov. 30 (AP).—Mighty Texas A. and M. drove its way to an unbeaten season and the gates of a bowl game today, burying University of Texas, 20 to 0, in the mud of old Kyle field.

Football's country boy play, the old sideline hideout, gave the massive Farmers a start that produced three touchdowns in the last two periods while 40,000 shivered in rain and fog.

Then Came the Sleeper.

Shackled the first half by Texas' sophomores and one of the oddest happenings of the football season, the Aggies waited no longer than the kickoff of the third period to start their skullduggery.

Over on the sideline, flattened to the mud, lay Earl [Bama] Smith, a tricky substitute half back who hasn't played 15 minutes all season. On the first scrimmage play he streaked down the sideline, caught Walemon Price's diagonal fifteen yard pass and worked to the Texas 27 yard line. Big John Kimbrough picked up five yards and then Price shot a touchdown pass to Sophomore Jim Sterling in the end zone.

Late in the third period Price loosed a thirty yard pass to Little Herbie Smith, the Aggies' five foot seven inch end, and he carried on nine more yards to the Texas 3 yard line. Conatser plunged for the score.

It's a Gift.

The third Aggie touchdown came in a gift wrapping. While Jack Crain's arching punt from his own 15 yard line was in the air, officials called a foul on a free ball, ejecting Center David Thayer of Texas from the game and giving the Farmers the ball on the Texas 15 yard mark.

Conatser swept both ends on two thrusts to the 1 foot line and Kimbrough smashed across with a touchdown that made him the Southwest conference's leading scorer.

The Aggies reached the 4 yard stripe on the last play of the first period, but a strange incident prevented even a chance to score.

A Strange Case, Watson!

Just as Conatser slipped to the 4 yard line after setting up the scoring threat with a twenty-one yard run, the period ended. Drowned out by the roar of 6,000 cadets and partisan Aggies, the sideline timekeeper's meek horn sounded before Conatser rode close to the goal line.

The timer hurriedly reached in his pocket, pulled a gun and fired before the Aggies could line up for the next play. Officials crowded on the field and decided that time had actually expired before Conatser's run. Then Conatser bobbled a low pass from center, a new attack failed, and Texas kicked out of danger.

Rangers Defeat Hawks, 7 to 2; Go Into Tie for Second Place

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks last night got caught in a shower of rubber disks. When they got thru with their hockey game against the Rangers, a team they had defeated in New York two weeks ago, the scorekeeper told the Chicagoans the rubber deluge had been recorded as a 7 to 2 New York victory. The triumph gave the Rangers a second place tie with the Montreal Canadiens.

A crowd of 11,443, which had cheered the Hawks lustily as they escaped from the first period even up with the Rangers, lingered to give some of the hard working, albeit perplexed Blackhawks, the bird.

Cunningham, Bentley Score.

The two Hawk goals were made in the first and third periods. The first was by Les Cunningham, assisted by George Allen and Phil Hergesheimer. The other one was by Doug Bentley, on assists by Mush March and Bill Thoms.

As usual when the Rangers are rampant, the Hawks suffered mostly from Colville-Shibicky trouble. Neil Colville scored the New Yorkers' second and fourth goals and assisted his brother Mac in the production of the final counter. Mac Colville in addition to a goal assisted his brother in one success. Alex Shibicky, their line mate, had three assists. Other goals were scored by Lynn Patrick, Alf Pike, Phil Watson and Ott Heller.

The first period ended in a 1-all tie, tho the Rangers developed scarcely a threat while the Hawks bruised Goalie Kerr's shins time and again. The Rangers were the first to score and did so during the only span in the period that the Hawks were short handed. Before the five minute mark March got tossed in the penalty box for hooking Watson, a maneuver which probably averted a goal. Toward the close of March's term in the box Lynn Patrick, Hextall, Clint Smith and Dutch Hiller succeeded in organizing a power play, Patrick scoring.

The Hawks Tie It Up.

The Hawks tied the score when Allen took the puck into the Ranger defense zone and just after crossing the blue line shoved it to Hergesheimer for a long shot. Kerr made the save, but before he could clear the puck from the toes of his boots, Cunningham swooped in front of the cage and scored with a lightning, close-up swish.

After six minutes of the second period Des Smith was bounced for hooking and the Rangers immediately bore down to break the tie that prevailed at the time. Shibicky and Clint Smith moved the rubber up to give Neil Colville a shot from close in. Karakas knocked down the shot and the shot also knocked down Karakas. Colville then picked up the rebound and hoisted it over Goalie Mike's sprawled person. The time was 6:57.

Pike Gets Free Goal.

Less than two minutes after the tie breaking goal, Pike picked up a loose puck back of the Hawk cage and moved to hook it around the goal post. Allen skated in to thwart the maneuver but knocked the puck off Pike's stick into the net. Pike was chalked up with an unassisted goal, timed at 8:50.

When Murray Patrick got put off for tripping after two minutes of the third period the Hawks put on Forwards March, Allen, Hergesheimer, Thoms and Bentley. The trouble with this power strategy was that it was played at the wrong end of the rink. The short handed Rangers took the action away from the Hawks, and after some shoving around by Shibicky and Mac Colville, Neil took the disk directly in front of the cage and made Karakas look bad on a back-handed hook shot. The time was 3:22. After that goals came thick and fast, three being scored by the Rangers.

PLAYERS' CLAIMS FOR STATE CASH WORRY MINORS

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 30 (AP).—Minor league baseball in Wisconsin is grappling with a new and serious problem — unemployment compensation. It arises from the state's classification of professional ball players as workers, entitling them to compensation if they are unemployed in the off season.

This strikes the baseball clubs in the vital region of the pocketbook, for under Wisconsin law they must build up reserve funds—held by the state—for payment of benefits to any of their employés who may become unemployed.

An employér's contributions cease when he has built up a certain surplus and his fund remains intact if he keeps his workers on the job the year round, but the baseball owners draw small comfort from this provision.

Hits at Players' Claims.

L. M. Nahin, business manager of Milwaukee's American association club, declared today that "it just isn't right" for a professional ball player to claim unemployment benefits.

"Brewer players are well paid for the five months they work." Nahin said. "If such a practice becomes widespread, it will be very harmful to baseball."

Nahin is studying the compensation laws of Ohio and Indiana, which have rejected ball players' applications. Year around contracts, he said, might complicate releasing and trading of players.

Keltner Turned Down.

Ohio recently turned down a claim from Ken Keltner of Milwaukee, third baseman of the Cleveland Indians. Ken, who earns about $7,500 a year, said the application was "just a gag."

However, Wisconsin has upheld a claim by Joe Just, reserve catcher of the Brewers, and he has been paid $86.25. An application by Johnny Hill, Brewer third baseman from Douglasville, Ga., also has been approved, according to Attorney Lawrence Katz, in charge of the state industrial commission's compensation department here.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 30.—The Tennessee juggernaut rolled over Kentucky this afternoon.

Striking with the power for which they have become nationally famous, the Volunteers smashed thru the Wildcats' valiant defenders twice in the opening period and added another touchdown by passing in the last quarter to score their 22d consecutive victory, 19 to 0.

Undefeated and with their goal line uncrossed in nine games this season, only Alabama Poly now remains to bar the Volunteers' path, which many believe will lead to Pasadena's Rose bowl.

They Couldn't Be Stopped.

Tennessee played smoothly and confidently. It could not be stopped until victory had been assured.

After the Volunteers' two early attacks few questioned the final outcome. But, recovering from early surprise, Kentucky refused to yield again to Tennessee power. Then, with an air assault which showed seventeen completions for twenty-nine passes attempted, the fighting Wildcats strove to reach Tennessee's goal line. While they were denied this, constant threats kept the 19,000 who jammed Stoll field in an uproar to the end.

Kentucky's passing, particularly by Ermal Allen, was the more remarkable because the passes were thrown against a six man secondary. Again and again Allen found his target but most of the gains were short and, while Tennessee's modified zone defense permitted passes to be completed, no receiver ever went entirely uncovered.

Fumbles Prove Costly.

Kentucky also was its own enemy. On these infrequent occasions when the Wildcats bored deep into Tennessee territory, fumbles helped out the Volunteers. Kentucky fumbled eight times this afternoon and lost possession of the ball seven times. But even this almost was matched by Tennessee whose ball carriers fumbled six times. Five fumbles were recovered by Kentucky. The total of fourteen errors with the ball changing hands twelve times probably is a record for a major game.

Kentucky had an advantage in first downs, marking up 14 to Tennessee's nine, but eight of Tennessee's were by rushing. Tennessee hammered 167 yards by rushing in its total gain from scrimmage of 206 yards. Kentucky gained 199 yards, but only 41 yards were the result of runs and plunges.

Volunteers Start Early.

The second time Tennessee had the ball it moved 41 yards to its first touchdown in eight plays. Five plays covered 44 yards for the second touchdown. And this 12 to 0 lead might have been the final score except for a recovered fumble on Kentucky's 14 yard line. On the third play of this sequence, Tennessee threw its seventh pass of the game. It was caught in the end zone for the touchdown and, moreover, it was the fourth completed pass of the seven, indicating what Tennessee might have done if it had wished to back up power with passing.

George Cafego, Tennessee's great back who has been handicapped by injury this season, stayed only for four plays this afternoon. But a trio of youngsters, Buist Warren, John Butler, and Van Thompson, carried on brilliantly. Butler and Thompson are sophomores.

Tackle Linden Suffers.

Warren's running, backed by the plunging of Fred Newman, were Tennessee's weapons in the first period. In the opening 41 yard drive which scored seven minutes after the kickoff Tennessee concentrated on Kentucky's right tackle, Luke Linden. Four of the eight plays were sent outside or inside of Linden and, while Linden's mates on both sides of him

WARMEST NAVY SENDOFF GIVEN LOSING ELEVEN

Midshipmen Steamed Up for Army Game.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 30 (AP).—Without an alibi in a carload 43 Navy varsity football players entrained tonight for Philadelphia to keep their date with the Army Saturday.

They left behind a seething town and a regiment of football daffy midshipmen. From their train windows they could see the leaping flames of three mammoth get-a-victory bonfires lighted at a pep rally that shook the academy walls.

Retired officers who have watched Navy players depart for games for 50 years said they never had seen the academy so steamed up on the eve of an Army-Navy game.

Sing Between Classes.

Midshipmen were fairly bubbling with enthusiasm. They sang between classes. Little knots of them rehearsed yells in the yard during free periods. They turned out in admiring droves for the final practice session. They exploded emotionally at the bonfire rally.

This demonstration was accorded a team which has had a disastrous season. Navy has won two little games, tied one, and lost five major contests in a row.

"The team has a whole lot more football in 'em than they've played this season," Navy Coach Swede Larson said. "After this show of a Navy united front it's going to come out on Saturday. We're going up to Philadelphia to win."

ARMY SQUAD LEAVES.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 30 [Special].—Army's football squad of 40 left tonight for Philadelphia. The squad was accompanied by coaches, trainers, and handlers, and was in charge of Capt. William H. [Bill] Wood. Only a short trip to the Municipal stadium tomorrow afternoon for practice will break the quiet routine of the Cadets before their meeting with Navy on Saturday.

A light workout was held before the squad departed. The corps of cadets and band will go to Philadelphia Saturday morning.

Tonight the football squad got a rousing send-off from the cadet corps prior to its departure, and there were numerous impromptu pep rallies thruout the day.

KANKAKEE SENDS 200.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 30 (AP).—It's the Army-Navy game to the rest of the country, but to Kankakee it's the Stella-Bergner contest.

To Kankakee Saturday's battle in Philadelphia is the meeting of two home town sons who played together as members of the Kankakee High school team, for Harry Stella, captain and right tackle of Army, leads his eleven against Allan Bergner, captain and left tackle of Navy.

Kankakee fans made a lively campaign to have the game played in Chicago this year, to bring it within easy reach. They failed, but about 200 of them will be in the stands in Philadelphia.

Coach Will See Players.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bergner, accompanied by Allan's girl friend, Miss Jayne Clark of Joliet, Ill., will leave for Philadelphia tomorrow. Stella's father, Silvio Stella, left today. His sister Charlotte goes tomorrow with a brother, Leo, of Indianapolis.

One Kankakee man who doesn't honestly know which side to pull for—High School Coach Charles B. Harrison—already is in Philadelphia to watch the boys who played a lot of tackle for him a few years ago.

Bergner and Stella were graduated from high school in 1934 and received their appointments two years later. When they visit Kankakee they usually spend time together.

RUTGERS HANDED FIRST DEFEAT BY BROWN, 13 TO 0

Providence, R. I., Nov. 30 (AP).—Brown salvaged a bit of glory from a disappointing season by handing Rutgers' heavier team its first defeat in 14 games, 13 to 0, this Thanksgiving day before a crowd of 12,000. The thrice beaten Bruins, altho out rushing the Scarlet 16 first downs to 7 and 217 net yards to 50 didn't get around to scoring until the fourth quarter.

Only four of Brown's 16 passes were completed and, opening the last period Charley Blount strung two of them together, to Joe Finkelstein and Capt. John McLaughry, to place the ball on the 1 yard line, from where Dick High sliced off tackle for the first touchdown.

High also was responsible for most of the sixty-five yards required for the second touchdown. He was stopped, however, on the Scarlet's 17, from where Hal Detwiler, another back field spare, scored. McLaughry failed to convert his first try but made good on his second placement attempt.

Warren hit the spot for five yards and, after an incomplete pass, went thru again for a first down on Kentucky's 26 yard line. Bob Foxx, right half back, came back at this tackle on a reverse and gained twelve yards. Warren picked up three yards at the other tackle and then Newman plunged over Linden for a first down on Kentucky's 3 yard line. Newman couldn't quite buck over guard, but on the next play Sam Bartholomew sneaked thru center without being touched. Newman's place kick for the point was wide.

Pass Interception Helps.

An intercepted pass started Tennessee to its second touchdown which was scored five minutes later. Inability to give its passers adequate protection was Kentucky's chief defect. Dave Zoeller tossed a high lob which was grabbed by Tennessee's Boyd Clay on the Wildcats' 44 yard line. Warren went over Kentucky's right tackle for eleven yards.

On a reverse Foxx lateralled to Barthalamew, who gained eight yards. Warren slipped thru tackle for seven yards and a first down. He repeated for four yards and Foxx drove fourteen yards on a reverse for the touchdown. Foxx bowled over Linden, Walter Reid, and Zoeller in his drive. Foxx missed the place-kick.

Wildcats Come Close.

Kentucky reached Tennessee's 25 yard line in the first period and followed in the second quarter with an attack which, aided by two fifteen yard penalties for roughness, gave the Wildcats the ball on Tennessee's 6 yard line. Allen completed three passes in this move, but Wilce Carnes' fumble, recovered by Bob Suffridge of Tennessee, snuffed out the opportunity.

Kentucky reached the Volunteers' 29 yard line in the third period and again marched to the 38 yard line.

On the first play of the last period, Zoeller went back to take a kick and fumbled when tackled near the north sideline. Tennessee recovered on the Wildcats' 14 yard line. Leonard Coffman, substitute full back, plunged for four yards and Butler was stopped without gain. Butler then passed to Emil Hust in the end zone. Thompson replaced Butler, and on a fake place-kick he passed to Joe Wallen in the end zone for the point. Statistics:

AUBURN, FLORIDA PLAY 7 TO 7 TIE IN NEW STADIUM

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 30 (AP).—Auburn dedicated its new stadium today before 13,000 by tying Florida, 7 to 7. Auburn was stopped just two yards short of the Florida goal by the timer's gun that ended the game.

Florida's offensive was led by Full Back Charlie Tate, who engineered the 'Gators' touchdown in the second period. Tate crashed across for the score from the Auburn 3 and added the extra point. Auburn's score came in the final quarter on a pass from Dick McGowen to Babe McGehee, a substitute end, over the goal. McGowen kicked the extra point. In addition to his great play, McGowen attempted two field goals, but both failed.

Heavyweights Clash Tonight in White City

Bob Nestell of Los Angeles, Cal., and Lem Franklin of Cleveland, O., two of the hardest punchers in the heavyweight division, will meet in an eight round bout tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. The match is not expected to go the limit, but if it does Nestell likely will win the decision.

Nestell was ill and under the care of a doctor in his rooms in the Carling hotel last night. Bob Evans, his manager, said he did not then know whether Nestell would be able to appear in the ring tonight or not.

In two previous Chicago appearances against Tom Kenneally of the Catholic Youth organization, Nestell displayed considerable speed and cleverness. In the first encounter Bob floored Kenneally for the count in seven rounds. He knocked him out in one round in a rematch. As a consequence, the coast fighter will have an edge in this department. However, Nestell is noted for inability to absorb a punch on the jaw.

On the other hand, Franklin, 1937 international Golden Gloves champion, has demonstrated capacity to assimilate a hard wallop without showing ill effects. Big Lem has won 8 of his 16 professional fights by knockouts.

Luther Brent vs. Bob Gerry [4], 160.

Harold Rodie, 124th Field Artillery armory middleweight, and Leroy Anderson will be opponents in a five round amateur headliner this evening in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. In a five round secondary feature Tommy Mair, featherweight stablemate of Rodie, will encounter Alvin Bevil. Other contests will bring together Sammy Consolo and Andy Sterling and Jerry Mulcahey and Charley Williams.

Sammy Angott, Louisville lightweight contender, will arrive Monday for a 12 round return fight with Davey Day in the Stadium next Friday. Angott, who was awarded a split decision over his Chicago rival Oct. 6, will establish training quarters in Trafton's gymnasium. Day will continue workouts there this afternoon against Leo Rodak. Frank [Spike] McAdams may referee the Day-Angott encore. Pete Ferrand, South Chicago welterweight, and Bobby Ryan will clash in a four round preliminary contest.

Bishop Sheil Will Reward Tourney Champions.

The 16 boxers who won Catholic Youth organization championships in Chicago Stadium Wednesday night, will be rewarded with a trip to Miami, Fla., it was planned yesterday by the Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, founder and director of the C. Y. O. and administrator of the archdiocese of Chicago.

Tom O'Connell, head of the organization's boxing department, said these boys, survivors of a field of more than 1,000, also would engage in an intersectional tournament during a proposed three weeks' sojourn in Florida. They will depart about Jan. 2.

Plan Golden Gloves Drill.

On their return the fighters will open workouts in C. Y. O. center for the 1940 Golden Gloves tournament. Because of changes in the routine of the tournament the C. Y. O. team will compete in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22 to qualify for the Tournament of Champions in Chicago Stadium Feb. 26, 27, and 28.

Chicago will be represented by only one team in the Tournament of Champions. In other years five squads have carried this city's colors.

STAGE ALL SET FOR TOMORROW'S BIG PREP SHOW

Mt. Carmel, Fenger Ready; Weather Man's Trying.

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Fenger and Mount Carmel are ready, the weather man is bearing down to produce a crisp, autumnal afternoon, and officials of Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund are making preparations to accommodate a crowd of 100,000 for the city high school football championship game in Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon.

Both squads will race thru a brief signal rehearsal in today's final practice. An eleventh hour physical report revealed that every member of the Fenger cast, including Donald [Flash] Griffin, the sensational 17 year old quarter back, is in perfect condition, but Mount Carmel's regular quarter back, Tom Creevy, is suffering from a cold. However, he will start against the Public School league champions.

Mount Carmel Holds Rally.

Mount Carmel's squad will gather in the school gymnasium at 6410 Dante avenue tonight to participate in the greatest pep rally in the history of the school. Former stars of Mount Carmel's city championship elevens in 1927 and 1933, officials and coaches of the Catholic league, and members of the Chicago Bears' professional team will be among the speakers.

Urging the Catholic league title holders to score its first victory over the Public School league champions since Mayor Kelly inaugurated the present series in 1934 will be the Rev. P. J. Conaty, president of the Catholic league; Tony Lawless, Fenwick coach; Ralph Mailliard of St. Ignatius, Dan Lamont of St. George, and Andy Pilney, of Weber.

The Bears will be represented by Bob MacLeod, a member of the College All-American starting team against the New York Giants in THE TRIBUNE's All-Star game last summer, and Dick Plasman. Coaches Wally Fromhart and Fred Mundee of Mount Carmel; the Rev. Paschal Bider, athletic director, and Johnny Andretich, star left half back and captain, will be other speakers.

Sell 95,000 Seats.

Fenger's eleven will be honored tomorrow night at a celebration arranged by the Fathers' club in the school gymnasium, 112th and Wallace streets. The club, organized last year by Art Kilroy, father of Jack Kilroy, 170 pound senior center, hopes to display its second Mayor Kelly trophy, emblematic of the city championship, before the program gets underway.

The weather bureau's announcement of continued mild temperatures has caused one of the greatest last minute rushes for tickets in the history of the interleague series. Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel and secretary of the benefit fund, said 95,000 seats already have been sold and if there are clear skies tomorrow the crowd will approach the record attendance of 115,000 established two years ago.

ROCKFORD STAR LEADS COLORADO TO 27-17 VICTORY

Boulder, Colo., Nov. 30. [Special].—Led by Leo Stasica of Rockford, Ill., who scored two touchdowns and passed for two others, Colorado university's eleven came from behind in the fourth quarter today to score two touchdowns and defeat Denver university, 27 to 17. The victory gave Colorado the Mountain Big Seven conference championship. More than 18,000 saw the game.

The victory was Colorado's fifth straight, and for the fifth time it was Stasica who led his team to its winning margin. Denver twice held the lead, but each time Stasica ran or passed for the touchdowns which put his team ahead. His great offensive work in the fourth quarter was directly responsible for both of Colorado's winning scores.

ALABAMA DINES, VANDERBILT PAYS THE BILL, 39 TO 0

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 30 (AP).—Touchdown-hungry Alabama, seeking a Thanksgiving day feast, gorged itself, 39 to 0, today with luckless Vanderbilt footing the bill.

More than 18,000 watched the sluggish Commodores—who had given their all against Tennessee eleven days ago—and the smooth-working Crimson Tide end campaigns which were dismally disappointing for both. It was the worst defeat Vandy ever received at the hands of Alabama in a rivalry that began in 1903.

Potsy Clark Quits Job as Dodger Coach

His resignation, tendered to Owner Dan Topping, takes effect immediately, altho his three year contract does not expire until Jan. 1. Clark, who has been coaching in the National league for nine years, said he planned to remain in the coaching profession but did not reveal any definite plans. It is reported that he will succeed Ernie Nevers as coach of the Chicago Cardinals.

Except for his three seasons with the Dodgers, Clark's teams always were in the thick of the championship race. His Portsmouth, O., teams were runners-up for three seasons, and with Detroit in 1934 he won 10 straight to finish in the same spot. The following year he piloted Detroit to the league championship.

Before entering the National league Potsy coached at Butler and the University of Kansas. In his college days he was a star quarter back on Bob Zuppke's great Illinois teams of 1914 and 1915.

● Whenever and wherever men have paid the price, the corona has been the symbol of glamourous smoking. Where's the smoker who two years ago expected this cigar of luxury at a dime? Yet this glamour, the Robt. Burns Corona has brought to the ten-cent field.

And it's glamour which materializes in the hearty enjoyment of full-bodied Havana tobacco. No uncertain flavor in this luscious cigar, but the positive imported taste that men accustomed to buying expensive cigars find to their surprise in the Robt. Burns Corona at ten cents.

● At last four luxury cigar features at a dime: 1. All-Havana filler. 2. Skilled craftsmanship. 3. Shade-grown wrapper. 4. Corona shape.

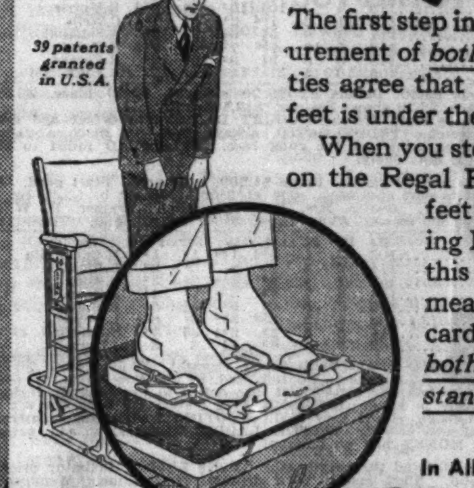
Fitting First



The first step in shoe comfort is the correct measurement of both feet . . . and orthopedic authorities agree that the only proper way to measure feet is under the standing weight of the body.

When you step into a Regal store, you step up on the Regal Fitting Platform and place both feet in the Resco Twin-Foot Measuring Machine. The sensitive springs of this scientific machine automatically measure and record on two separate cards, the exact length and width of both feet at the same time, under the standing weight of the body.

HUNTER GIVES A PLAY BY PLAY OF BIRDS IN FLIGHT

Place: In a Blind; Time: Zero Hour as Sun Rises.

BY BOB BECKER.

Altho sportsmen are divided in their opinions as to whether it's more fun to hunt Bob White quail over some good dogs, or sit in a marsh blind and try to fool the mallards, there isn't much doubt left that duck hunting on a day when there are lots of birds moving and some are decoying ranks as one of the most exciting of outdoor sports.

On a recent trip to Cuba Island [Illinois river] for a whirl at the mallards and pintails we jotted down some notes on what we saw and the way the birds worked around the blind. Here is part of that record:

It's ten minutes to seven and we wouldn't trade our seat in this blind for anything. What a picture the morning flight makes! Thousands of birds high in the air against a yellow sunrise and all streaming in from the cornfields. We gotta shoo these flocks away from our decoys . . . never do to shoot at these large flocks when 7 o'clock comes.

Beauty On the Fly.

Here's a fat drake right in the decoys. . . . Gross yelled "pfui" at him and he's almost spraining his wing muscles to get out. The flight continues . . . beautiful is a poor word for the spectacle. Whish-sh-sh—look at that bunch of pintails cup their wings and climb down to the open water behind us . . . they turn and the yellow morning sun lights up their white necks and breasts to give us another unforgettable picture.

Two greenwinged teal nearly knocked our caps off as they zipped over our heads and hit the water among the decoys. . . . Gross just put them out. . . . Seven o'clock. Lou says let's go. We're picking greenheads now . . . here's one that is setting his wings and sticking out his feet as he aims for the decoys. . . . Boom and down he goes, the first bird of the morning.

Bang! Four Down.

O, boy, look at this bunch of five . . . right up the groove they're working . . . they see the decoys . . . we give them a couple of "come in boys" toots on the caller. . . . Lou says "Let's go" and up we come for the shots. . . . Four down. Now we must crack some ice and wade to pick up one behind us. Gosh—what a morning for watching the flight from the cornfield . . . they're still streaming over us by the thousands. Looks like many are going to Crane lake to rest for the day. . . . Quick, Lou . . . that drake behind you. . . . Bang—kerplunk—he's down!

U. C. L. A. BEATS WASHINGTON STATE, 24 TO 7

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 30 [Special]. —After trailing, 7 to 6 as the last period opened, the U. C. L. A. Bruins shook the sleep out of their eyes tonight at the Memorial Coliseum and mowed down Washington State, 24 to 7.

Kenny Washington, Bruin Negro half back, passed to Jackie Robinson for one touchdown; Robinson raced around end for another, and Chuck Fenenbock passed to Jim Mitchell for a third just when the 35,000 fans were beginning to scent a huge upset.

TREASURY FINDS IT CAN BORROW 3 BILLION MORE

Stretch Debt Limit by 613 Million.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—The treasury, after analyzing its debts and this week's large borrowings, found today it could borrow approximately $3,200,000,000 more before reaching the statutory debt limit.

Half a billion dollars of the treasury's borrowing power was used up Tuesday in the sale of 2 per cent 9 to 11 year bonds, an operation which Secretary Morgenthau acclaimed as a success because bidders for the bonds asked for more than 6 billion dollars' worth.

1917 Limitation Clarified.

The 1917 law, it was disclosed today, merely limited the treasury to borrowing 45 billion dollars more than was already owed on securities issued under previous acts. Today's computation showed that $613,869,597 of the present debt represents pre-1917 obligations which are not involved in the 45 billion dollar limit.

[The $613,869,597 still owed by the treasury on securities issued before 1917 includes Panama canal bonds, 3 per cent convertible bonds due 1946-'47, and miscellaneous items. The public debt totaled $2,975,618,585 on June 30, 1917.]

Subtracting the $613,869,597 from the $41,296,505,674 debt the treasury owed before this week's half billion borrowing, the treasury still had $4,317,363,923 of unused borrowing power.

Deduct Savings Bonds.

From this figure must be subtracted the 500 million dollars borrowed this week and also an estimated 615 million dollars of debt which will be created automatically in connection with previous sales of savings bonds. The savings bonds grow in value every six months, and officials said they must reserve part of their borrowing power to take care of this growth.

How long the remaining $3,200,000,000 borrowing power will last officials appeared unwilling to predict. Some estimates, however, indicate that about 2 billion dollars of it may be needed to finance the deficit for the remainder of the current fiscal year, or until June 30, 1940. Reports from some officials indicate that the next fiscal year's deficit may be roughly $2,500,000,000.

The President and Morgenthau have indicated recently that sooner or later congress must either increase the debt limit, levy new taxes, or cut down expenditures.

Because the bidders for the treasury bonds asked for several times the amount of bonds the treasury wanted to sell they will be awarded a pro rata share.

Small Subscriptions Filled.

First, however, the treasury will fill in full the subscriptions of a special class of small investors who were promised 100 per cent allotments if they asked for less than $5,000 and were willing to wait 60 days for bonds. The waiting period was designed, Morgenthau said, to make sure that investors rather than speculators would get this preferential treatment.

Bids totaling between 20 and 25 million dollars were received from small investors, Morgenthau said.

Final figures on the subscriptions have not been received. Until they are complete the pro rata allotment to bidders other than small investors will not be announced.

Mexican Court Justice Upholds Seizure of Oil

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30 (AP).—Supreme Court Justice José Maria Truchuelo in opening final debate on Mexico's expropriation of the American, British and Netherlands petroleum industry upheld today the constitutionality of the decree seizing the properties. He did not mention compensation but the subject probably will be discussed when debate resumes tomorrow. Justice Truchuelo's address led to the impression the court would vote unanimously to sustain the decree.

CROWLEY SLATED TO QUIT FDIC TO HEAD BIG UTILITY

New York, Nov. 30 [Special].—Leo T. Crowley, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, soon is slated to become chief executive officer of the $1,000,000,000 Standard Gas and Electric company, one of the largest utility holding companies in the United States, it was learned today. The company controls utility properties in 20 states and in Mexico.

Bernard W. Lynch, president of Standard Gas and Electric, is scheduled to resign from the position that he has occupied since 1936, when he took over the reins following the death of John J. O'Brien.

A revamping of the board of Standard Gas and Electric also is under consideration. The present board, consisting mainly of representatives elected by protective committees under the provisions of a reorganization plan approved in 1938, it was said, will be supplanted with members with wide experience in utility problems.

Atlantic Lines Told to Cease Lake Penalties

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—The United States Maritime commission today allowed 33 North Atlantic conference steamship lines 20 days to modify contracts with shippers in the Great Lakes area.

Acting upon a complaint by the attorneys general of the Great Lakes states, who charged that the North Atlantic lines penalized shippers using direct service from the Great Lakes, the commission found that the contracts were detrimental to commerce.

The commission said that unless modifications are made within 20 days it will consider an order disapproving the conference agreement among American and foreign steamship lines.

Termed Discriminatory.

The commission concluded that contracts with the shippers are unjustly discriminatory, unfair, and that they interfered with commerce thru Great Lakes ports.

These contracts required shippers to offer to steamship companies for transportation to Europe all of their export shipments "which must move via United States or Canadian North Atlantic ports or waterways."

The commission found that all of these shipments, irrespective of their port of origin must be tendered to the carriers for their vessels, which may load at the ports of New York, Boston, Norfolk, Newport News, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Portland, Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, and St. Johns.

Non-Contract Rates Higher.

If a shipper violated the contract or patronized a carrier operating a direct service from ports of the Great Lakes to Europe, the contract could be terminated by the conference lines and the shipper charged higher rates, the commission found.

Witnesses told the commission that the difference between the non-contract and contract rates averaged about 20 per cent. Attorneys general of Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Indiana assailed the contract system as did also the Michigan legislature and various communities on the Great Lakes.

HEARST CONCERN DEFERS CLASS A STOCK DIVIDEND

San Francisco, Nov. 30 [Special].—Directors of Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., have voted to defer the dividend on class A stock normally payable on Dec. 15, it was announced today.

J. Bernard Miller, treasurer, said the decision was made despite the fact the company's earnings on a consolidated basis have shown a large increase over last year.

"During 1939," he said, "substantial payments have been made on bond issues of subsidiary companies without the necessity of an increase in bank loans."

The company announced the election of J. D. Gortatowsky, New York, as general manager, succeeding J. V. Connolly, also of New York, who resigned. Gortatowsky formerly was assistant general manager. A. F. Logan who has been business manager of the Los Angeles Examiner, was named vice president of Hearst Consolidated in charge of operations.

ILLINOISAN NAMED AS CORN KING; INDIANA ALSO HAS CANDIDATE

Roland Resler, Illinois farmer who grew a corn crop averaging 171.5 bushels an acre, yesterday was officially named corn growing champion of the United States by the De Kalb Agricultural association. But in Indiana dissension was heard. Purdue university announced that Clark Dillinger of Clark county, Indiana, produced an average of 180.1 bushels an acre on a five acre tract, and proclaimed him Indiana's 5 acre corn king for 1939.

Roland Resler.

Even so, the university announced, Dillinger's record did not equal the top yield of 1934, when 182.6 bushels an acre were raised in the annual five acre contest.

Developments in Indiana, however, did not prevent the De Kalb Agricultural association from presenting Resler with a sterling silver dinner set at a luncheon meeting of the Illinois committee of the Association of Commerce in the Great Northern hotel.

Eight thousand growers were entered in the contest sponsored by the association. Resler's corn yield, produced on six acres, was seven times as large as the national average. He lives on a 180 acre farm near Dewey, in east central Illinois.

Of the 2,054 farmers who entered the Indiana contest, 1,499 raised more than 100 bushels to the acre, and 24 raised more than 150 bushels per acre.

CAR LOADINGS DIP, BUT STILL TOP YEAR AGO

In spite of a more than seasonal downturn in railroad car loadings last week, 676,516 cars of revenue freight were loaded, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. This was 114,858, or 20.4 per cent, above 1938 figures for the corresponding week, and 120,754 cars, or 21.7 per cent, over the 1937 week.

Loadings reported by the leading roads for the week ended Nov. 25, which contained the Thanksgiving holiday, showed a decrease of 94,888 cars, or 12.3 per cent from the preceding week.

Loadings of the various commodities as compared by the association were:

Elevators Beg for Shipments as Grain Spoils

Terminal elevators which have facilities for keeping grain in good condition are experiencing a dearth of business while wheat and corn stored for government loans are deteriorating in farm bins in the southwest, the Chicago Board of Trade said in a statement issued yesterday.

The board's comment followed reports that wheat amounting to possibly 10,000,000 bushels has been damaged by heat or insects in southwestern farm bins. Similar damage to loan corn sealed on farms and in steel cribs provided by the government for the overflow crop was reported. Modern elevators have facilities for turning or otherwise aerating grain to prevent heating damage.

Complain of Shortages.

"The current reports call attention to the abnormal storage situation now existing," the board said. "With the amount of corn stored on farms in the surplus corn states reaching record figures, elevator interests at terminals complain that not enough grain is coming in to fill the warehouses which are equipped to handle grain and keep it in good condition.

"Since Nov. 1 corn receipts at primary points totaled 23,046,000 bushels, or approximately 16,500,000 bushels less than for the corresponding time last year.

"Owing to so much corn being sealed for loans and withheld from normal trade channels, not only is terminal storage room going begging, but much corn is understood to be stored in barns and makeshift cribs, where it is subject to the ravages of vermin and the hazards of unfavorable weather.

Flow to Market Falls.

"In spite of generally good crops for the season, the aggregate primary movement of wheat, corn, and oats to date totals 55,500,000 bushels less than for the same time last year."

The board said that wheat stocks at Chicago now amount to 8,087,000 bushels, compared with 12,463,000 bushels a year ago, and that the total for corn has fallen to 12,452,000 bushels from 14,721,000 a year ago. The total amount of wheat, corn, and oats in storage in Chicago is 22,126,000 bushels, or nearly 10,000,000 bushels less than a year earlier, the board's statement showed.

Similar conditions were said to exist at other terminals.

"At a number of smaller receiving points the failure of country shippers to send in corn as usual is leaving much vacant room that could be profitably used to store grain where it could be handled efficiently," the board added.

SEVERAL TRAINS BETTER SERVICE ON NORTH SHORE

The Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee railroad announced yesterday that several additional trains will be placed in service Monday, providing improved service between the loop and northern communities.

New trains will leave Roosevelt road at 3:40, 4:11, and 6:11 p. m. for Highwood. Others leaving at 6:26 and 6:56 p. m. will run to Waukegan. They will be local trains and run daily except Sunday. Southbound, a new train will leave Highwood at 4:53 a. m., except Sunday. Another will leave Edison court, Waukegan at 7:30 a. m., except Sunday, by the Skokie valley route.

The new schedules were approved by the Illinois Commerce commission.

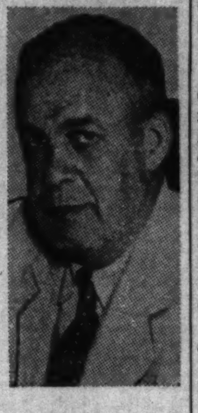
SOUTH WINNER IN RATE CASE AGAINST NORTH

Given Cut in Rail Shipment Charges.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30 (AP).—The south won a freight rate victory today when the interstate commerce commission ruled that rates on certain manufactured and processed goods from the south should be on substantially the same rate level as within the north. Rates on the articles involved in the proceeding now range from about 105 to 160 per cent of the comparable rates within the north.



Joseph B. Eastman enters dissenting opinion.

Altho the decision today covered only a comparatively small list of manufactured and processed articles, southern interests regarded the case as an important test. The south has indicated that a victory in the present case would result in a request for more favorable rates on its shipments into the north.

Decision by Split Vote.

The decision was given on a 5 to 4 vote, two commissioners not participating. Commissioners who voted for the decision were Clyde B. Aitchison, William E. Lee, Marion M. Caskie, Walter M. W. Splawn, and John L. Rogers. Those who voted against the decision were Joseph B. Eastman, Claude R. Porter, Charles D. Mahaffie, and Carroll Miller. The commision's two newest members, J. Haden Alldrege and William Patterson, did not participate.

The majority said that the rates prescribed generally are on lower levels than the present rates on the same article from the north to the south.

"It does not necessarily follow, however, that this in itself would be unfair to northern producers and shippers so long as the south bound inter-territorial rates are on levels no higher than the rates on like traffic within the south," the ruling said.

Grants Governor's Plea.

The decision was made on a plea brought before the commission by the Southern Governors' conference. Rate reductions ranging from 5 to 35 per cent were ordered on stoves and ranges, stone, enameled iron or steel plumbers' goods, fire hydrants, pipe fittings, valves, talc, and soapstone.

Reductions were denied on hollowware, fireplace fixtures, electrical appliances, shoes, excelsior, paper articles, metal furniture, canned goods, pottery, cordage and binder twine.

Commissioner Eastman, in a dissenting opinion joined by Commissioner Porter, said the record "does not, in my opinion, justify the basic conclusions and findings of the majority."

The commission set the effective date of its order for March 1, 1940.

Middle western states organized last spring to resist the demand of southern governors for a reduction in freight rates on the ground that their industries would be adversely affected. Representatives of the middle western states, which included Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Ohio, said that the lower wages prevailing in the south plus lower freight rates would give southern industry an advantage over their northern competitors.

EDISON BOARD WILL SELECT NEW CHAIRMAN TODAY

Directors of the Commonwealth Edison company will hold a special meeting this morning to select a successor to James Simpson, chairman of the company, who died on Nov. 25.

Charles Y. Freeman, general counsel of the company, is expected to be elected to the position. He was appointed general counsel in 1937 and has also served as chief executive officer in the absence of the chairman.

Today's meeting was called for the purpose of electing a chairman in advance of the next regular meeting of directors, which will be held Dec. 7.

Large Receipts Break Prices in Egg Market

Wholesale cash prices of eggs fell a maximum of 2½ cents a dozen yesterday in Chicago. Traders said heavy receipts glutted the market.

The extreme decline was in fresh gathered extra firsts, which sank to 20½ cents a dozen. A year ago they sold for 30 cents. At yesterday's levels cash prices were 3 to 6½ cents a dozen lower than a week earlier.

Future prices on the Chicago Mercantile exchange rallied after tumbling in sympathy with the spot market. They reached new six year November lows for the third straight day, however, before the recovery set in.

Near Lowest on Record.

The January, 1940, contract plunged to 15½ cents a dozen, the lowest price reached by any egg contract in the history of the exchange with the exception of 1933. In that year November contracts sold down to 13¾ cents on Nov. 27. Before the end of yesterday's session the January contract rallied to close unchanged at 16 cents. The December delivery finished at 16.50 cents, compared with 16.65 cents on Wednesday.

Chain store officials, questioned about the effect of wholesale market changes on prices which consumers pay for eggs, said such changes are reflected quickly in retail prices.

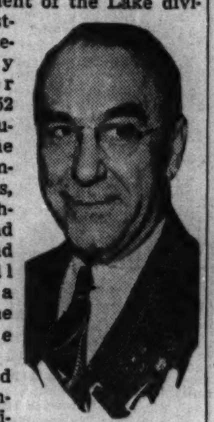
Reach Six Year Low.

Receipts of eggs in Chicago were nearly 165,000 dozens, compared with 99,360 a year ago. Traders said indications are that November egg production will be the largest for the month in 12 years. The weather has been mild and flocks have been increased.

Butter futures prices closed higher on what traders said was light but persistent cash house buying in the face of small offerings. Chicago cash prices were unchanged, but declines ranging to ¾ cent a pound were recorded in the New York market.

EX-MESSENGER BOY RETIRES AS SUPERINTENDENT

Edward Boening, 65, retired as general superintendent of the Lake division of the Western Union Telegraph company yesterday after more than 52 years of continuous service. The division comprises Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio. Friends and associates will honor him at a banquet at the Union League club tonight.



Edward Boening.

Boening started out as a messenger boy in Chicago when he was 12, at a time when telegrams often brought messages of death or catastrophe. He recalled that a portly woman swooned into his arms when he delivered a message about her husband's death.

MAY FORM BANK GROUP TO ABSORB STOCKS ABROAD

New York, Nov. 30 (AP).—The Wall Street Journal says international banking interests are considering the formation of a billion dollar company to absorb foreign holdings of American securities earmarked for sale.

Those concerned, the newspaper said, believed an organization of this type set up in one of the British possessions could divert the stream of foreign selling and thus relieve the stock market of disturbing pressure.

The proposed company, the story added, with American representation on the board of directors, would be authorized to issue in the United States about $1,000,000,000 of debentures for public sale bearing an interest rate of between 3 and 3½ per cent.

Interests sponsoring the plan were not identified.

FEDERAL COAL BUREAU SHIFTS MIDWEST PRICE

Big Consumers Call Action Fruitless.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—In an attempt to offset growing criticism of its efforts to establish minimum prices for bituminous coal, the bituminous coal division of the department of interior today announced that its rate expert has recommended changes in proposed minimum prices to pass along "savings" on industrial coal shipped by river to Chicago and other middle western ports.

Coal producers here for the division's hearings on minimum prices slated for midwestern coal scoffed at the importance of the move. They interpreted it as a move to appease critics and said that it will not benefit consumers.

Potter Recommends Changes.

The coal division said the rate changes were recommended by Dr. Charles J. Potter, marketing expert for the division who was responsible for formulating the contested rates. While on the witness stand, Potter was unable to provide any factual basis for determining the proposed rates, in the opinion of coal men.

"The results of the prices as now proposed, together with the recommended changes, will be to enable producers of coal shipped by river to pass on to consumers the savings resulting from this means of transportation to the same extent as they have heretofore done," said the announcement.

The division explained that a "number of protests had been received from various persons and organizations, some of which are interested in the development of inland waterways."

Commission Explains Shift.

New information, it said, caused Dr. Potter to recommend the changes.

"The general principle followed is to set up identical prices at the mine subject to minor variations for the same coal from a single mine whether it is shipped all-rail or by river, to a consumer with river dock facilities adjoining his plant," said the announcement. "At destinations to which river rates from the mine are less than the all-rail rates, this would give a coal producer an opportunity to extend to the consumer the savings from water transportation.

"Under Dr. Potter's recommendations, consumers with appropriate

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Nov. 30 [Special].—After falling 1 to 3 points to the lowest levels since early September on selling attributed to the Russian invasion of Finland, the stock market met some support in late dealings today. Losses were pared, but declines ranging from fractions to about 2 points were sprinkled thruout the list at the close.

Observers said financial circles did not interpret the extension of the European war zones in the same light they did the outbreak of hostilities between Germany and England and France. It was said that if the conflict in the north spreads to the Scandinavian countries it will be necessary to put more countries under the neutrality law, thereby cutting off another good slice of foreign commerce. Meanwhile, domestic business news continued favorable.

Heaviness in steel and aviation issues was the signal for the early setback. United States Steel dropped more than 2 points before meeting support and closed 1½ points lower. Bethlehem closed fractionally lower, as did other active steel stocks.

Losses in aviations ran to 1 point in Douglas. Curtiss-Wright was fractionally lower.

Chrysler dropped 1¼ points and other motors eased fractionally. General Motors and the low priced Continental Motors stock were active. Coppers posted losses running to a point in Anaconda.

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 30 (AP).—Russia's invasion of Finland had a demoralizing effect on markets for Scandinavian bonds today and losses at the close ran from 3 to 9 points in this group.

Extension of warfare to the Baltic also was generally depressing to most domestic liens, but excepting a few inactive issues, declines were comparatively small. Trading volume was moderate.

Among the hardest hit of the foreigns were Helsingfors 6½s, which dropped 9 points. Norway 6s were down 7 and the 4¼s down 5; Denmark 5½s, down 6¼, and 6s, down 4½. Finland 6s were finally offered at 65 against yesterday's closing of 83½.

Colombia 6s of '61 pushed up about a point on considerable volume following Washington reports of discussions regarding a plan to settle the nation's defaulted dollar debt.

United States government issues slipped for losses running to 14-32ds of a point. Transactions were limited.

Chicago Stocks.

Losses of fractions to as much as 2 points were shown on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Commonwealth Edison, most active issue, held steady at 30⅞ on a turnover of 2,400 shares. United States Steel slipped 1½ points at 64½. Fractional losses were chalked up against Marshall Field, Rollins Hosiery, Armour and Borg-Warner. Central Illinois Public Service closed a point lower.

Volume of trading on the exchange during November totaled 668,000 shares, compared with 778,000 in October and 658,500 in November, 1938. For the first 11 months of the year sales totaled 7,649,000 shares, against 6,675,500 in the corresponding period last year.

Bank Stocks.

Northern Trust rose 2 points to 570 in bank stock trading yesterday, while Harris Trust gained 5 points to a bid of 305. Continental Illinois was bid slightly lower and other issues were steady.

Commodities

Sugar, silk, and hide futures contracts advanced in yesterday's commodity trading, world sugar contracts strengthening on war news from Finland and hides reflecting reports of increased buying of leather, shoes, and hides by European nations. Most other commodities floundered in the rut in which they had moved on the preceding day.

Domestic sugar futures closed higher in sympathy with the world contracts. Net gains ran as high as 0.04 cent a pound.

Hides closed 0.19 to 0.21 cent a pound higher in the New York market. The trade heard rumors that European countries are buying leather and shoes in the United States while looking to South America for hides.

Silk futures reached the highest levels of the season, partly as a result of active buying by Japanese interests. The No. 1 raw silk futures at the close were 2 to 5½ cents a pound above Wednesday's final levels.

Wool top futures closed 0.4 to 1.1 cent a pound lower, influenced, brokers said, by trade liquidation and commission house selling.

Crude rubber contracts were unchanged to 0.12 cent a pound higher, cocoa 0.02 to 0.04 cent higher, Santos coffee steady to 0.02 cent lower, and Straits tin contracts unchanged to 0.1 cent lower.

The metals markets were quiet with spot prices mostly holding to Wednesday's levels. For the first time since the heavy buying wave got under way in September spot copper dropped below the 13 cents a pound delivery quotation when some metal was reported available at 12.95 cents. The reaction was attributed to lack of buying interest on the part of consumers.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Broad demand for fresh pork at the attractively low prices existing in retail butcher shops stimulated buying of hogs at the stockyards yesterday at strong to higher rates. The general rise in the market for hogs was the sharpest in more than four weeks. Both the top and average showed 15 cents gain at $5.75 and $5.55 respectively.

Little change was reported in the general level of pork prices, which equaled at the lowest in about five years. However, much of the surplus which has been glutting packing house markets recently was cleared yesterday.

Price trends in cattle were mixed yesterday. Some of the best light steers and yearlings ruled stronger, but most offerings over 1,000 pounds, especially those lacking some in finish, were steady to slightly lower. Slaughter lambs were slow to sell but held mostly steady in price.

COTTON

American cotton markets advanced to a new high level on the current upturn yesterday on buying induced by pronounced strength abroad. October contracts which represent the 1940 crop led the upturn. Closing trades were 0.04 to 0.17 cent a pound higher. October sold at a new sensational high price.

Liverpool cotton futures closed 25 English points higher, the permissible upturn for one day in sympathy with an excited advance in Bombay and Alexandria, Egypt.

Spot cotton closed 0.05 to 0.06 cent higher, with New York, 10.16 cents; New Orleans, 10.05 cents, and Houston at 9.65 cents a pound. Prices follow:

WHEAT CLIMBS AS WAR ENGULFS MORE OF EUROPE

Buying Is Liveliest Since Conflict Started.

Chicago wheat prices, whirling upward on the Finnish-Russian war news, closed 1 to 2 cents a bushel higher yesterday in the liveliest buying the Board of Trade has witnessed since the European conflict began in September. Prices of corn, oats, and rye advanced briskly, and soy beans, outdoing them all, finished the day with gains of 3¾ to 4¼ cents a bushel.

Wheat reached the highest level in nearly two years, with the December contract closing at 91⅝ cents, a price not equaled since March, 1938.

Beans Highest Since July, 1937.

Soy beans and oats for December delivery were the highest since July, 1937, the contract closing at $1.08. Oats finished ¾ cent higher, rye was up 1⅞ to 2 cents, and corn was 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents higher.

The market reflected chiefly the situation in Finland, brokers said, but they declared that the loss of much grain in the sinkings of merchant ships also affected prices.

Fears that the European war might spread into the Balkan areas, which would check large shipments from Rumania and other surplus producing countries, also had an influence on sentiment.

A number of steamers loaded with Argentine grain were reported to have been sunk in the English channel by submarines or mines recently. This was said to have necessitated larger purchases from Canada to replace the lost grain.

Ocean Freight Rate Raised.

Scarcity of steamers for prompt shipment of grain resulted in an advance of about 1¼ cents a bushel in ocean freight rates on wheat from New York to Antwerp.

Showers occurred overnight in parts of Texas and eastern Oklahoma and Kansas, but the big dry area in the western part of the latter two states and Nebraska received little or no moisture.

There were reports that about 1,000,000 barrels of flour had been sold recently by Canadian mills to England, and it was said additional large orders were received yesterday. Winnipeg wheat prices closed 1½ to 1⅝ cents higher. Mill and commission house buying was a factor, while the wheat board, a government agency, was the leading seller of futures.

Am. Steel-Wire Company Will Hold Prices Steady

The American Steel and Wire company, subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, yesterday reaffirmed prices on most of its products for the first quarter of 1940. It followed similar action by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and other steel producing companies.

BARGE LINES.

Will you kindly send me a report on the Inland Waterways corporation? On what exchange is its stock traded?—K. H.

Answer: The Inland Waterways corporation was formed by congressional statute in 1924 to operate barges on the Mississippi and connecting rivers. The act provided that operations were to be maintained to the point "where the system can be transferred to private operations." All of the outstanding $12,000,000 in capital stock is owned by the United States government. None of the stock is traded on any exchange.

Two divisions are operated by the company: [1] on the Mississippi from New Orleans to St. Paul and Minneapolis with feeder service to Kansas City, Mo., and Chicago; [2] on the Warrior and connecting rivers from New Orleans to Mobile and Port Birmingham, Ala. At the end of 1938 there were 292 barges and other vessels operating on the Mississippi division and 62 on the Warrior division.

In 1938 total tonnage carried was 2,900,000 and net income before surplus adjustments was $936,344, compared with tonnage of 2,610,000 and net income of $203,144 in 1937.

The balance sheet at the end of 1938 listed total assets of $25,444,000, of which $18,551,000 was fixed assets, $3,529,000 marketable securities, and $787,957 in cash. Surplus was $2,198,000.

The corporation was transferred last summer from the war to the commerce department. Maj. Gen. Thomas Q. Ashburn recently resigned as president and chairman of the corporation. He had held these posts since the corporation was created. Secretary of Commerce Harry Hopkins appointed Chester Thompson, former Illinois congressman, as his successor.

Ashburn said his retirement resulted from a disagreement as to whether the barge lines would continue to be operated on the basis of a private business or as a bureau of the commerce department.

The commerce department announced later that the barge line will be turned over to private interests as soon as possible. The department said it had received inquiries from investment groups about possible purchase of the line.

That question of policy will be posed eventually for decision of congress. The act creating the Inland Waterways corporation specifically provided for the eventual transfer of the company into private hands.

Altho it was reported last year that several investment banking firms were investigating the possibility of purchasing the barge lines property for private interests, actual negotiations never developed. The corporation has operated profitably in the last 12 years but thus far has not attracted more than lukewarm interest from prospective purchasers.

WAR IN EUROPE CUTS AMERICAN PORK IMPORTS

October Influx Lowest Since June, 1935.

Imports of pork during October declined to the lowest level for any month since June, 1935, the commerce department reported yesterday. Exports of pork products last month extended a downward movement begun in September. Shipments of lard abroad last month were the largest for any October since 1934. Beef and veal exports were also the highest for any October since 1934, but were offset to some extent by the largest imports for any October since 1936.

The decline in pork imports last month shown in the commerce department report confirmed trade estimates made following the invasion of Poland by Germany. Poland was a large exporter of pork products to the United States.

Pork Imports Drop Sharply.

October imports of pork totaled 815,490 pounds. This compared with 1,799,541 pounds for September and 4,588,867 during August. In October, last year, pork imports amounted to 2,779,689 pounds and in October, 1937, the total was 6,167,487 pounds.

Shipping risks and the gathering of large supplies by European nations in anticipation of war were interpreted as the principal reasons for a decline in October exports of pork. Exports last month amounted to 6,608,559 pounds. This contrasted with 9,154,678 pounds in September, and 10,180,719 pounds in August. The total for October, 1938, was 7,260,664 pounds.

Lard Exports Heavy.

Exports of lard last month amounted to 19,091,260 pounds, the second largest October total since 1934. Lard exports totaled 24,693,492 pounds during September. In October, last year, lard exports were 21,071,115 pounds.

Exports of beef and veal products last month, totaling 1,546,312 pounds, were the largest for any October since 1934. In the comparable month last year beef and veal exports totaled 1,247,937 pounds.

FEDERAL COAL BUREAU SHIFTS MIDWEST PRICES

But Big Consumers Call Action Fruitless.

Coal Shipped to Consumers.

"More than 500,000 tons of coal now are being shipped into this region by river to consumers with coal docks alongside their plants. This coal comes from the Fulton-Peoria and the central Illinois fields. Around Oglesby, Ill., such consumers may save about 40 cents per ton, on an average consumption of about 300,000 tons a year.

"In and around Cincinnati consumers with river docks alongside their plants are using about 600,000 tons of coal a year, on which the savings may be from 70 to 75 cents per ton on the industrial coals."

Coal men said that only a comparatively few industrial plants can benefit from this restricting of the "savings" to plants with river dock facilities adjoining the plant. In their opinion a plant a block or so removed from the river would have to pay the higher rates.

Charge "Paper" Savings.

Besides, they asserted the proposed reductions for river plants are from the proposed prices and not from existing prices, resulting only in a "paper saving." On the average, the proposed prices are 25 cents to $1 per ton higher than existing prices for midwestern coal.

Some of the river plants are also exempted from provisions of the bituminous coal act by reason of special long-term contracts which they have, hence there are no new consumer benefits.

Night sessions are now being held on the price hearings in an effort to speed their conclusion. Indiana producers are expected to take the stand tomorrow in opposition to the price proposals.

DIVIDEND FLOOD BRINGS JOY TO STOCKHOLDERS

More Companies Declare Extra Payments.

Extra or usual dividends calling for distribution of amounts ranging from a few thousand dollars to $2,900,000 by individual companies were announced yesterday. They added rivulets to the swelling stream of cash that will flow into pockets of stockholders in time for Christmas shopping or for payment of bills later.

Dividends to be paid to American investors in December this year will total $564,003,000, compared with $368,363,000 in December, 1938, the New York Journal of Commerce estimated. [Interest payments were estimated at $345,146,000, compared with $326,537,000 in the 1938 month.]

Our aim is to offer you whatever plan will enable you to borrow most easily. LOCAL LOAN makes liberal Furniture and Auto Loans, but if you are steadily employed we prefer to make you a loan On Your Signature Only without mortgages or endorsers.

75% of our loans are Signature Only Loans to employed men and women. LOCAL LOAN originated and perfected this service because employed people—young or old and regardless of occupation—are entitled to a simplified loan method. You may obtain $25 to $300—

Salary Loans
On Your

You make your own repayment terms [repaying any time within 20 months], and you are charged only for the actual time you have the money.

When you deal with LOCAL LOAN you borrow without the knowledge of your employer, friends, and relatives.

We cannot tell you all about our service in our advertisement. Just phone one of the following offices. Your loan request can be taken over the telephone so you can obtain the money more quickly when you call in person.

As little as $2.00 to $2.26 a week repays in full, including all charges, a $150 loan over 20 months at America's largest loan company. No salary assignments.

$2.00 a week on the average is all you need to set aside for every $150 borrowed on Personal's new amazing "Special" loan plan of only 1½% per month on the actual balance owed. This plan is for persons with a steady income or salary sufficient to meet payments promptly without undue credit strain and a good credit record. You don't need co-makers, life insurance, or bankable securities.

For persons without established credit and employment ratings and who wish to carry a loan larger than 8 to 12% of annual salary or income, Personal offers its "Regular" loan plan. On this plan an average of $2.26 set aside per week takes care of everything on a $150 loan—the charge is based on 3% monthly on unpaid balances of $100 and less and 2% monthly on unpaid balances over $100.

Loans up to $300 on either plan on your personal note or with furniture or auto. Co-maker loans are also available on "Regular" plan. Seize this opportunity to save on loan costs. Come in or telephone today.
